It's Smart to Ride a Bike

It's not just the added chance it gives you to wear fetching togs, nor the fact that it "does things" for your figure. It's not merely that it offers such handy transportation—goodness knows we manage to get about, one way or another, anyhow. It's the downright fun of it that's made riding a bike catch on the way it has—made it so definitely smart and so very much the thing to do. Riding a bike is a vogue that is here to stay—
it's high time you rode one of your own!

Every woman can achieve the Elizabeth Arden look with daily care

The phenomenal allegiance of women all over the world to Elizabeth Arden's preparations is based on the fact that they accomplish exactly what Miss Arden says they will. She has taught women, everywhere, the fundamental principle of all beauty . . . the skin must be Cleansed, Toned and Soothed daily, morning and night, to retain its softness and freshness. First, cleanse thoroughly with feathery light Ardena Cleansing Cream . . . to stimulate the circulation, tone with Ardena Skin Tonic, and Special Astringent . . . finally, to keep the skin soft, soothe with delicate Velva Cream, or Orange Skin Cream.

Do you live in perpetual dread of middle-age wrinkles, flabby contours, lines around the eyes, furrows on your forehead? Whether lines have just begun to develop or are deeply in evidence, the importance of using Elizabeth Arden's Joie de Vivre Gland Cream, cannot be over-emphasized. This extraordinary preparation has revitalizing qualities which are absorbed by the skin and should be used nightly, and left on overnight to achieve the greatest benefit. Joie de Vivre Gland Cream is Miss Arden's most important contribution to beauty . . . after a few weeks' nightly use, all fears of future, disfiguring wrinkles will be banished.

Ardena Cleansing Cream $1.00 to $6.00 • Ardena Skin Tonic 85c to $15.00 • Special Astringent $2.25 to $10.00

MRS. WILLIAM RUSSELL HUNTLEY

ATTRACTIVE PALM BEACH MATRON, WHO, WITH MR. HUNTLEY, IS PASSING THE SEASON AT THEIR NEW VILLA ON ALGOMA ROAD. THEY ARE MEMBERS OF THE BATH AND TENNIS AND EVERGLADES CLUBS IN THIS RESORT.

Duc d'Alba Suite

THE famous Duc d'Alba suite at the Palm Beach Biltmore, which was originally built for a member of the royal family, has been redecorated, and may once again form the luxurious background for occupants of royal lineage. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor have been invited to occupy the nine-room suite, which is outstanding for its lavish decorations and exquisite setting. Should the famous couple accept the invitation it is thought that the suite might be re-named in their honor.

Authentically Spanish in feeling, the suite, which has been restored to its original grandeur, was built in 1926 and named in tribute to the famous nobleman and sportsman.

Located at the southeast corner of the first floor of the hotel, it is two stories tall and is entered by a massive carved door, such as is used in Moorish castles. The entry hall of the Duc d'Alba suite, with its typically Spanish stairway of stone, iron grillwork and curved ceilings, leads into the magnificent living room which has a towering ceiling extending upward for the entire height of the apartment.

A tiny balcony along one side of the room leads to three bedrooms. A salon, dining room, kitchen and two master bedrooms lead off the living room on the first floor.

The entire living room is built around an enormous fireplace, which is built on a raised dais of blue, gold and ivory mosaic. The mosaic forms a three-foot border around the room. The upholstery of the fireside chairs and heavy rug carry out the blue, gold and brown of the Alba colors.

Facing the fireplace and forming an attractive grouping is a massive table of Spanish design, a beautifully carved sofa of blue and gold brocade and a smaller tea table, miniature of the library table.

The entire south wall of the living room is given over to three French doors which lead onto small iron balconies.

ENTRY HALL OF FAMOUS DUC D'ALBA SUITE AT THE PALM BEACH BILTMORE, WHICH HAS JUST BEEN REDECORATED AND MADE READY FOR THE DUKE AND DUCHESS OF WINDSOR, WHO HAVE BEEN INVITED TO OCCUPY IT. THE PICTURE SHOWS THE TYPICALLY SPANISH STAIRWAY OF STONE, IRON GRILLWORK AND HEAVY DOORS WHICH ARE CHARACTERISTIC OF THE SUITE.

A VIEW IN THE TWO-STORY LIVING ROOM OF THE DUC D'ALBA SUITE AT THE PALM BEACH BILTMORE, WHICH IS NOW READY FOR OCCUPANCY. THE PICTURE SHOWS THE FRENCH DOORS WHICH ARE ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF THE SPACIOUS ROOM AND WHICH LEAD TO SMALL BALCONIES. A MASSIVE TABLE OF SPANISH DESIGN, A BEAUTIFULLY CARVED SOFA OF BLUE AND GOLD BROCADE AND A SMALLER TEA TABLE, MINIATURE OF THE LIBRARY TABLE, MAKES AN ATTRACTIVE GROUP ARRANGEMENT. THE HIGH ARCHES AND HEAVY CHANDELIER CONTRIBUTE TO THE AUTHENTIC SPANISH FEELING OF THE ROOM.

The beamed ceiling, massive balustrades and graceful arches lend the room a magnificence, appropriate to royal suites.

A more intimate room in the suite is the salon which leads off the living room. Decorated in subdued rose and soft yellow, the room is furnished with comfortable couches, beautifully upholstered easy chairs and convenient tables. Lamps and drapes carry out the color scheme of rose and yellow.

An air of formality prevades the dining room, in which the same beautifully carved furniture which was brought over for the Duc d'Alba still prevails. A massive sideboard boasts two silver urns embossed in gold, which are reflected in the oval mirrors on the wall. A table large enough to comfortably seat twelve, chairs upholstered in deep red, damask and hand-carved cabinets, formed the setting for many famous parties given in the reign of the Duke.

The master bedroom, decorated in brown and blue, leads off the salon. Although the beamed ceiling gives to this room a Spanish feeling, a modern touch is introduced with the twin beds. A chair upholstered in brocade of clear yellow, highlights the room. Other guest bedrooms are decorated in green, rose, brown and mauve.

COTTAGE COLONY SOCIETY LIFE

PALM BEACH colonists will enjoy an interlude of comparative social calm this week to which they are justly entitled after the days of hectic activity just past. What with the All-American Ball at the Everglades Club, the Tropical Ball for the Benefit of the Children's Milk Fund; the annual flower show in a new and attractive setting; the Yacht Club's Washington's Birthday regatta, and so on and on . . . the entire colony has been in a dither from sun-up to sun-up.

The return and departure of many well known resorters is of special interest this week to Palm Beach society. Late this week Laddie Sanford and his popular wife will arrive here to join his father, Mr. John Sanford at Villa Marina. They sailed from Southampton last Wednesday after spending months in India, where Laddie was one of the mainstays of the Maharajah of Jodhpur's polo team. While there the Sanfords added to their interesting experiences by several big-game hunts and will probably have any number of thrilling stories to contribute to Palm Beach conversation.

Mr. Sanford's sister, Mrs. Mario Pansa, and Mr. Pansa left New York on the Queen Mary the very day that the Sanfords were turning their faces homeward after a long absence. The Pansas will make their home in Brussels, where he is attached to the Italian Embassy. Mr. and Mrs. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld have returned to the Douglas villa after a fortnight's fishing around Bimini. The Barclay K. Douglasses have had the Robert R. Hitts and Mr. and Mrs. Byrnes MacDonald of New York with them for a visit.

Another addition to our returning residents is, Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Blair, who for the greater part of the season have divided their time between their shooting lodge, at Kingstree and New York City. They will be joined later this month by her sister, Mrs. Carroll Carstairs. The J. Gordon Douglasses, who were guests at the Blair lodge for a fortnight, are back in the resort and have been host for several days to Mr. and Mrs. C. Mathews Dick of Washington, D. C., and Newport.

After a three weeks cruise to Rio in the Normandie, Mrs. Baldwin Day Spilman has come back to resume social activities here. Mrs. Dodge Sloane, also a member of the Normandie passenger list, is remaining in New York for a day or two but is expected at Concha Marina this week. Mrs. Nugent Head, who joined the cottage colony this season, returned a few days ago from a visit in Kingston, Jamaica. After a season's absence, Mrs. Barrows Porter, is paying a brief visit to Palm Beach. She was a former member of the smart social set in the resort and during her sojourns here entertained extensively. The Michael Phipps, who visited here earlier in the season, have returned to be with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Phipps, at Casa Bendita.

Colonel Louis Jacques Balsan and Madame Balsan have closed their Hypoluxo Island home and sailed on the Normandie for Paris, where they will visit for a fortnight before going to their summer home in the south of France. The Balsans were among the first of the Palm Beach colonists to arrive here for the winter, and have been hosts to many members of International society. Shortly before their departure they gave a luncheon, having among their guests, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Garrett and their guests, the Italian Ambassador and Donna Suvich; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Barry and members of their house party, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Burden, Captain Alastair Mackintosh, Herman C. Huffer, Jr., and Lytle Hull.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Markoe Robertson of New York and Wyndcote, Southampton, L. I., and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Frelinghuysen have been the guests of Mrs. James P. Donahue, who gave a dinner in their honor last week. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Crocker (Marguerite Brokaw), whose marriage took place on January 27th in New York, are at the Everglades Club for a visit. One of the outstanding social events of this week was the large supper given Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Myron C. Taylor, who are occupying the Pulitzer villa here. Later a cinema was shown.

Count Jerzy Potocki, Polish Ambassador, has been honored at a round of parties since his arrival in Palm Beach to join Mrs. George Luke Mesker's house party at La Fontana. Mr. and Mrs. Grover Loening, who are at Manana Point, have been hosts to a party including Mr. and Mrs. E. Roland N. Harriman of Arden Homestead, Arden, N. Y., and Mr. Charles Baskerville.

TASTES AND TOILETTES

AS THE season progresses, evidence of definite preferences in the clothes worn here by women for informal daytime parties is shown in the many linen dresses. Although slacks are still very much associated with informal affairs, still they are by no means the governing type. Perhaps the popularity of these lovely linen dresses, which are simple and mostly derived from the shirtwaist frock, is a reflection of the success of the Rodier type of linen, with its scrim-like weave and soft wrinkle-resisting quality, which comes in natural and beautiful soft colors, light blue, heathery rose and yellow, the latter either in the dull golden shade or of a greeny, almost sulphur brilliance.

For the annual concert of the Romany Chorus, society turned out en masse, and many exquisitely appparelled women were in attendance. Among those noted were—

Mrs. George A. Dobyne, who was her usual gracious self in a handsome gown of gray lace, made with a flared skirt and high neck, around which she wore a lovely lei of white flowers. Her wrap was ermine.

Mrs. S. H. Huber, who is a guest at The Breakers, was becomingly attired in yellow lace, fashioned with a bouffant skirt and tight bodice, and over it was a cape of ermine.

Mrs. Luther A. Wait chose a gown of white crinkly crepe studded with rhinestones. There was a deep border of the rhinestones around the decolletage and the bottom of the flared skirt, and with it was a tightly-fitted rhinestone studded jacket, with long sleeves.

Mrs. Myron C. Taylor made a stunning picture in a snugly fitted dress of black crepe, over which she wore a handsome cape of kit fox.

Madame Louise Homer wore, for the same occasion, a lovely gown of aquamarine satin, fashioned on graceful flowing lines, and with a low decolletage.

Mrs. Grover C. Loening displayed her usual impeccable taste by wearing a two-color combination. The skirt of black taffeta, was circular and the bodice was of light blue in a metallic cloth.

Miss Adele Baur was youthfully charming in a dress of red and white dotted swiss. The full skirt was composed of several flounces of the swiss, edged in white and the abbreviated bolero was bound in white.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. George F. McIntyre was seen at the Everglades Club recently, wearing a beautiful evening gown of aquamarine starched lace made over a matching taffeta slip. The bodice had a V front and back decolletage.

Mrs. Guy Thomas looked stunning in a three-quarter length white fox cape which matched her white hair. cape worn by Mrs. Avy B. Smith. It was made in wide cape worn by Mrs. Alvy B. Smith. It was made in wide alternate stripes of chinchilla and gray satin.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

At the Patio several nights ago, Miss Frances Munn danced in a sheer printed frock, with flowers of the print cut out and applique at the hemline and on the train. The little jacket, free-swinging and sleeveless, was interesting for its length.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. G. Huntington Hartford wore all white organdy at the Colony Club on one of the gala occasions, the skirt very flaring and the bodice with demure puffed sleeves and a square decolletage. The narrow black belt was of velvet and was matched by a choker of the velvet.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Edward Howland Graham shopped on Worth Avenue several days ago, in a sports frock, most attractive because of the color contrast in the stripes down the skirt and on the bodice, which had a yoke effect outlined in stitching. A mannish, sombrero felt hat completed the costume.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Elmer Rich chose for Mrs. James H. Kennedy's reception, an exquisite gown of alencon lace. It was tightly fitted and a horsehair band at the hem accented the graceful flare. The high necked bodice was caught with a diamond brooch, and a most becoming hat of dubonnet straw, lent color contrast to the costume.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Phil H. Sawyer dined at the Patio last week in a sheer wool dress of dubonnet, strictly tailored. The tight little blue jacket was also of the wool.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Frederick Proctor was becomingly attired for dinner at The Breakers recently, in a gown of pompadour taffeta, which had a circular skirt, a bodice with a heart-shaped decolletage and puffed sleeves.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Little Suzanne Swallow, the three-and-a-half-year-old grand-daughter of Mrs. Arthur Swallow, was as pretty as a picture at The Breakers the other morning, in a cute little pajama suit of black printed cotton, the figures in colorful sea horses, and star fish. Her coolie hat, tied under the chin, was of the same material.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Charles M. Hayes chose for a recent dinner party, a gown of pink crepe, with a band of sequins forming a wide girdle in front. A deep flounce at the bottom of the skirt was bordered in a scalloped pattern of the sequins.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Nell Kendall was exquisitely attired at the Everglades Club several days ago, in a gros de landre robe de style, which was applique in large flowers of a deeper shade of the taffeta.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. William Pierson Hamilton was most attractive at the Romany concert in a black and white printed crepe, the white flowers outlined in rhinestones. The fitted jacket, which had long sleeves, was solidly embroidered in the rhinestones.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. T. Denny Boardman spent the morning hours not long ago, in a play costume which consisted of shorts made like knickers and a tailored shirt of green linen. Dubonnet hair bows made a nice contrast.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. E. J. Cornwell wore for Sunday luncheon at The Breakers, a spectator sports dress printed in pale pink, yellow and green. The hip length jacket was fitted and flowers which matched those of the print, trimmed the hat of yellow straw.

Mrs. Mitchell Harper shopped on Worth Avenue several days ago, wearing attractive sports of red and white polka dotted silk. The skirt was plaited, the blouse tailored, with a white vestee, and the wide brimmed hat banded in a wide scarf.

THE VIEW OF THE ENTRANCE BELOW ILLUSTRATES HOW EFFECTIVELY THE QUOINS HAVE BEEN CUT FROM SOLID BLOCKS OF OREGON CEDAR TO RESEMBLE RUSTICATED STONE.

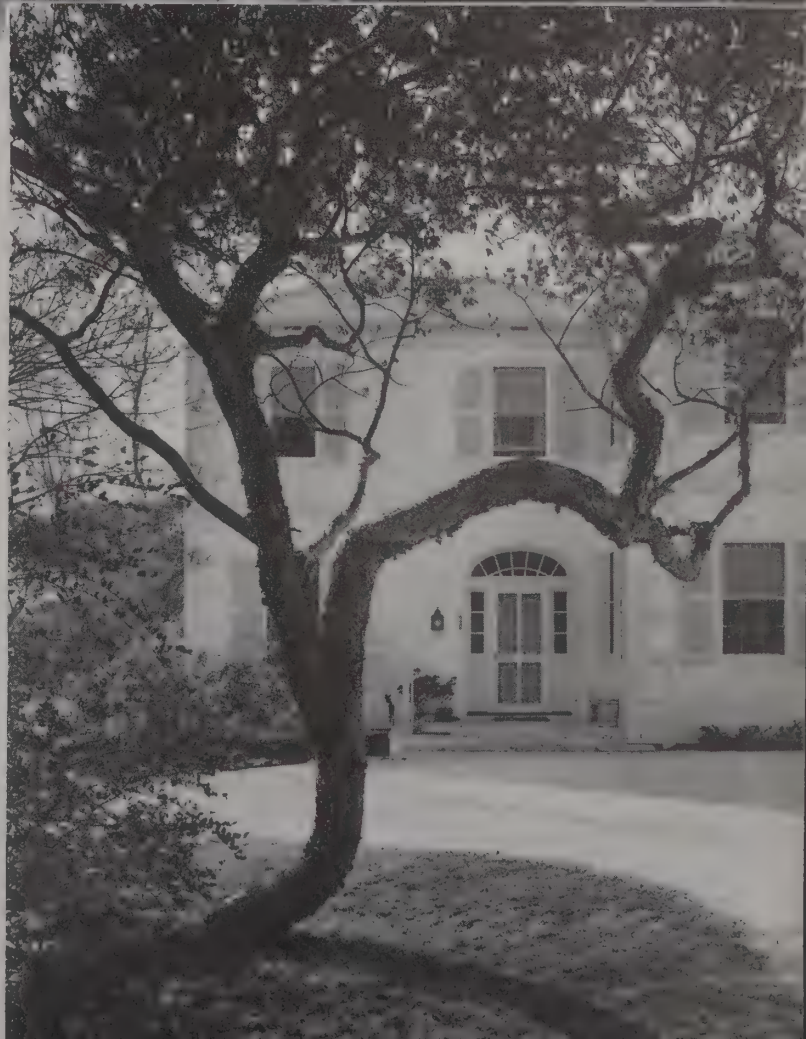

THE William Seward Webb residence at Gulf Stream, as designed by John L. Volk, popular Palm Beach architect, typifies the modern trend in Southern architecture. Vast edifices of stone and mortar with accompanying gloomy interiors have definitely been delegated to discard in favor of the more compact home, where Florida's famous fresh air and sunshine are the predominating factors.

In this charming residence of Nassau motif, John Volk has ingeniously contrived the use of wood construction throughout, in a successful effort to defeat one of the paramount elements encountered as an obstacle in Florida building, dampness. The siding of the main house is of Oregon cedar with quoins cut from solid blocks and treated to resemble rusticated stone.

Its location on the second coral ridge facing the ocean allows a commanding view of the Atlantic across a broad vista of lawn complemented by a background of tropical growth and vegetation in its natural state.

Untiring efforts in keeping Florida architecture abreast of modern times and faultless ingenuity in defeating elements beyond his control has made Mr. Volk one of the outstanding leaders in his profession.

SOCIETY'S CAPITALS

BAR HARBOR and Palm Beach have always had much in common, due to the fact that they are known all over the world as the social capitals of the respective states in which they are located. More than a hundred prominent personages maintain residences and estates or stay at hotels in both of these delightful resorts, whose contrasting topography adds variety to the type of vacation and diversion desired.

Palm Beach offers the languid tropical tranquility and the bright beauty of its foliage and flowers, together with the soft blue waters of the Gulf Stream and its Mediterranean architecture.

Bar Harbor provides a rugged and startling beauty of hills and valleys, with the broad Atlantic's white spumed surf in a ceaseless battle with the high headlands and rocky promontories which form the jagged coastline of the largest island on the Atlantic Coast.

Mount Desert Island, named by Samuel de Champlain, "The Isle of Deserted Mountains," when he discovered it in 1694, has an area of one hundred square miles, and offers the most unusual combination ocean, lake and mountain scenery in the world, with eighteen mountains literally rising out of the sea while in the valleys between, there are twenty-six lakes and ponds.

It offers scenery that is little short of marvelous, as bold headlands divide the coast into numerous bays and harbors.

Recognizing this unique combination, and through the efforts of prominent citizens who have long admired the island, the United States government has created on Mount Desert, the Acadia National Park, the first national park east of the Mississippi, and the only national park on the whole Atlantic coast, containing approximately 22 square miles, an area forever set aside for the recreation and enjoyment of all.

Usual way of approach to Mount Desert is by public or private motor as the nearest railroad is at Ellsworth, 12 miles away. Passing over the Mount Desert bridge, the road forks—the left to Salsbury Cove, Hulls Cove, Bar Harbor and the eastern-most section of the island; the right to Northeast Harbor, Seal Harbor, Somesville, Southwest Harbor, Tremont, and the western section.

Following the road to the left, one passes through the rural countryside to Bar Harbor, noting while going through Salsbury Cove, the extensive holdings of Thurlstane Ranch, owned by Mr. William Pierson Hamilton, who, with Mrs. Hamilton, are spending the winter season at The Breakers here in Palm Beach.

Coming into Bar Harbor by way of Eden Street, which might correspond to our North Ocean Boulevard, one passes the beautiful estate of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, whose palatial residence, Wingwood House, is neighbor to that of Mr. and Mrs. A. Atwater Kent, both of whom are well known Palm Beach residents, with the familiar view of Mr. Stotesbury's yacht, "Nedeva," riding at anchor in Frenchman's Bay. On the opposite side is the residence of Col. and Mrs. Robert H. McCormick of Chicago, who are occupying the Messmore Kendall residence this season at Palm Beach.

From Bar Harbor, the road leads to the Ocean Drive, following the shore along some of the most rugged coast line in Maine. Several promontories are conspicuous, among them Great Head, highest headland on the Atlantic Coast, Schooner Head, noted in the accompanying illustration and Otter Cliffs. Thunder hole is renowned as striking rock formation with a half submerged and noisy sea cave, the on-rushing sea boring into it to make a clap of thunder heard for miles on a stormy day.

SCHOONER HEAD, HISTORICAL POINT, MARKING THE ENTRANCE TO BAR HARBOR, IS TYPICAL OF BEAUTIFUL RUGGED COASTLINE SCENERY OBSERVED ON MOUNT DESERT ISLAND.

Leaving the Ocean Drive, the road leads back toward Bar Harbor through the Gorge, between Champlain and Flying Squadron Mountain, past the lily padded Tarn to Sieur de Monts Spring, named in memory of Pierre du Gast Sieur de Monts, first governor of Acadia of which Mount Desert was a portion, under the French flag.

Passing through a dense growth, and parallel to a beautiful bridle path and carriage road, of which there are 48 miles, given by Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and known to be among the most beautiful in the world, the road skirts the Kebo Valley Golf Club, a beautiful 18-hole golf course.

From here the road ascends Cadillac mountain, 1528 feet in height and named in honor of Sieur de Mothe Cadillac, first provincial governor of Mount Desert Island, under the French sovereignty. This road, started by Mr. Rockefeller, Jr., and then turned over to the government, is a wide boulevard, of moderate grade so as to require little effort on the part of automobiles. The panorama of scenery on this drive, makes it one of the most remarkable scenic highways in the world, and on a clear day the White Mountains of New Hampshire, to the west and Mount Katahdin, to the north, and the nearby summit of Mount Desert and the rugged coastline may all be seen. A small tavern at the peak offers refreshment and the descent offers even more variety.

A conspicuous feature of the descent is Eagle Lake, the first of several lakes that are seen on the tour. Bearing left, the road descends to the very edge of Bubble Pond, and shortly rises again to a considerable height above Jordan Pond, which appears to advantage from this elevation.

These three ponds are all within the national park area, and it is of interest to note that much of this domain was acquired by private purchase and given to the nation by citizens interested in the preservation of its natural beauty. This park road terminates near the beach at Seal Harbor, a village of great charm, containing the homes of several very distinguished Americans, including Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford.

Three miles along from Seal Harbor, the road skirts the east edge of Northeast Harbor over the Peabody Drive. Rounding the head of the harbor, at Asticou, the road proceeds to Northeast Harbor village, the center of a considerable summer colony, in this part of the island. In this section are several prominent summer hotels, clubs, and other features, including an 18-hole golf course. It is the summer residence of a great many well-known people.

Beyond Northeast Harbor village, the road becomes the Sargeant Drive, along the shore of Somes Sound. This is the only natural fjord on the Atlantic Coast. The fjord penetrates the island, so far as to almost cut it in two. It is a long, narrow arm of the sea, filling a deep valley between two bold mountains. While the entrance is comparatively shallow, the water opposite the drive is over 200 feet deep, and it is possible, in places, for large boats to touch the shore without grounding.

At the head of the Sound is Somesville, the first community on Mount Desert to be settled. It is a typical old New England village, and is a summer resort of importance. A very worth while side trip is that up Beech Hill to Beech Cliffs. At the top it is necessary to leave the car, and walk for a few minutes to the edge of the cliffs. The view is arresting. Far below is Echo Lake, with the Appalachian Mountain Camp, and Mount Desert Island Camp, on the shore; directly opposite is the range of mountains, forming a striking picture, with one summit behind another. To the north is the upstate country; to the south, the open ocean.

From Somesville, the road passes Echo Lake at its edge, and within a few minutes reaches Southwest Harbor, another of Mount Desert's prominent resort towns. Here, again, are summer hotels, and country places, but the town, itself, has retained much of its original charm, and the fishing industry is still fairly prominent in this section.

CURRENT ART EXHIBITION

ONE of the most inspiring exhibitions ever held in Palm Beach is the one-man show by C. Bosseron Chambers at the Michaelyan Galleries on County Road. Mr. Chambers, who has achieved renown through his religious pictures in oil, returns to the resort after many years absence although he lived here for thirteen years previous to his departure.

Born in St. Louis, the noted artist has studied under such masters as Louis Schultze of the Berlin Academy, Hrdliczka of the Royal Academy, Vienna, and Johann Schumacher in Dresden. He has given scores of exhibitions in large cities throughout the country and is represented by the John Levy Gallery of New York which deals with antiques and primitives and very few contemporaries.

The most widely known and often reproduced painting of turing spirituality that was human with this oil painting which is reproduced the world over.

After the success of "Light of the World," Mr. Chambers continued with his religious pictures, hundreds of which now hang in churches and monasteries here and abroad. In this, his first Palm Beach exhibition, there is also another child portrait entitled "St. John," whose dark-headed subject is depicted wide-eyed and appealing, clutching in his small fingers a cross. Again the artist has caught the richness of color and the genuine expression which gives life to his brush and is so often lacking in many religious paintings. Another important canvas and among the artist's favorites of his own works is "Ecce Homo," depicting Christ with the crown of thorns, a favorite with priests and religious institutions. There is an unknown quality of expression about this painting which will make it survive the ages for Mr. Chambers has interpreted the face with its hurt expression and superb eyes more humanly than the majority of artists who have ever attempted to portray Christ.

Also in the religious group are "The Holy Family" and a study of Christ as a young boy entitled "Thy Will Be Done." The former depicts a scene in a wooded glen with the three members of the Holy Family while the latter shows Christ in Joseph's carpenter shop as a youth in thoughtful reverie. On the table before him are the nails which convey so much in his later life. Others in the religious group include "The Little Brother," "Beloved Disciple," "Queen of Peace," "We Have Sought Thee Sorrowing," "Mystical Rose," "Mother of Divine Grace."

Mr. Chambers has in all these religious paintings given his subjects expression and feeling and distinct human qualities so often lacking in work of this nature. His use of color is masterful and rich and he has a technique of conveying emotion which is very rare in a contemporary. The expression of intermingled relief and surprise on the face of the Blessed Mother when she discovers Christ in the temple in "We Have Sought Thee Sorrowing" is great artistic achievement.

Mr. Chambers is not only the producer of these inspiring religious canvases but also has another forte, namely, portrait painting, a number of impressive oil portraits also being in the current exhibition. "Hon. Murray Hulbert" is a striking oil of the New York judge in judicial apparel, another is "The Marquise de la Tourette," and still another is "Mrs. Sanford Treat." All have the richness, background, and feeling revealed in the artist's other works.

Another group which is delightful is the collection of Orientals, some of which are taken from the Arabian Nights and border on the fantastic, "Haroun Alrachid," "Bathing Scene" are interesting and especially lovely studies are the "Green Veil," "The Fair Persian," "Sultan and the Sage," "The Slave Market" and "A Pot of Basil" are others in this group of Orientals which show the individuality of the artist.

Children's portraits are also one of C. Bosseron Chambers' specialties in oil. Two in the present collection are "Robin" and "Alice." In all Mr. Chambers' work American types are prevalent in his choice of subjects and one of the secrets of his brush is his understanding of human nature and its involved characteristics as revealed in the human face and body against a varied background.

NOTED ARTIST, WHOSE WORKS ARE ON EXHIBITION AT THE MICHAELYAN GALLERIES.

Mr. Chambers is "Light of the World," the original canvas now being on exhibition at the Michaelyan Galleries in Mr. Chambers' group of religious paintings. The artist was working on two altar pieces for the St. Ignatius Church in Rogers Park, Chicago, when he decided to do the head of the Christ child there represented. The painting won him fame for the subject became a "universal" child whose golden head and expressive features inspire awe and stir the emotions with their hidden appeal. CLUSTERS OF THE GOLDEN DISCS WHICH HAVE CONTRIBUTED TO THE PROSPERITY OF THE SUNSHINE STATE. THIS LUXURIOUS GROWTH OF ORANGES IS TYPICAL OF THE PROLIFIC BEARING TREES TO BE FOUND THROUGHOUT SOUTH FLORIDA. EARLIER IN THE SEASON WHEN THE BLOSSOMS COVER THE TREES WITH THEIR SWEET-SCENTED BEAUTY, A TRIP THROUGH THE ORANGE GROVES OF THE STATE IS AN UNFORGETTABLE EXPERIENCE. MILES OF ORANGE AND GRAPEFRUIT GROVES LINE THE PRINCIPAL HIGHWAYS IN MANY PARTS OF THE CITRUS BELT.

INTRODUCTION OF THE ORANGE TO UNITED STATES

THE beginnings of the orange can be traced as far back as ancient days when the Arabs found both the sweet and the bitter variety of the fruit growing in the far interior of India, says J. N. McBride, General Agricultural Agent of the Seaboard Railway, whose department has been active for years in promoting the growing of oranges throughout Florida.

The Arabs then took this sweet orange, later to be called the China orange, into Persia and Syria and the bitter variety or the Seville into Arabia, the north of Africa, Spain and Egypt. Mr. McBride does not believe that the China orange originated in China, because Marco Polo would have mentioned it. That world traveler was also a keen reporter of everything he saw and heard. Polo did not mention the orange in his writings. From Spain the sweet orange was carried to Sicily, Portugal and the West Indies and was brought to North America by the early Spanish and Portuguese voyagers.

Humboldt tells about the time he was traveling along the Rio Cedeno in the midst of a great forest when he came across a wide belt of orange trees. He later learned that this forest had been planted by the early Aborigines from seeds obtained from the Spanish Conquistadores. The orange groves of Florida have come from these same orange groves. It was Ponce de Leon who directly introduced the orange into Florida, but it was only in comparatively recent years that the fruit has been one of Florida's main products. The reason for this is, says Mr. McBride, that Florida was for so many years in the possession of various nations that a definitely-formed system of agriculture could not exist. A few people did raise oranges on a small scale but they never operated groves further inland than the northern section of the State.

William Bartram in his book published in 1791, states that in 1773 there were orange groves along the St. Johns river from Jacksonville as far south as DeLand but the fruit was not grown on a commercial scale. The only method of transportation at that time was by boat, but building of a parent company of the Seaboard into Florida a little less than a hundred years ago has resulted in this and other fruits being shipped by fast freight in refrigerator cars to all parts of the Union.

The growing of oranges and other citrus fruits reached a commercial scale in 1870 and by 1834, production had increased to approximately 600,000 boxes a year. The only citrus fruit planted during the ten years between 1870 and '80 were oranges chiefly in Duval, St. Johns, Volusia, Putnam, Alachua and Marion counties. For the past 30 years, the citrus section of Florida has been moving southward and many improvements have been made in cultural methods and in controlling diseases and insects. Perhaps the greatest strides, Mr. McBride states, have been in harvesting, packing and shipping the crop.

One of the earliest Florida pioneers in orange growing was an Englishman by the name of John Eaton. He served in the American army during the war with the Seminole Indians and in 1837 at the close of the war took his 160 acres of land given him by the government. He accepted lands on the St. Johns river in Homestead county and decided to end his days there. One day he budded some fifty wild orange trees which were thought little of in those days. Almost before he knew it he had a thriving orange grove and upon his death, his orange trees were valuable.

Varieties of oranges best adapted for Florida are the Parson Brown and Hamlin (early): Seedlings, Pineapple, Enterprise, Seedless and Jaffa (mid-season): Valencia and Leu Gim Gong, (late). The kid glove oranges are Fancy Tangerine, Mandarin, King oranges and Satsuma. The Seaboard recently pioneered in its dining car service by featuring tangerine juice as a breakfast appetizer.

PENELOPE IN FLORIDA

EVER since I heard Clarke Gable sing, "The Horse With the Dreamy Eyes," I have been interested in horses.

Before that time I was more interested in seeing Mother get out of a two-wheeled thing she calls a gig all in one piece. We just watch and pray while she gigs. Mother has always been a great traveler, camel back, swaying over the desert to see great hunks of stone, or zooming through the clouds clipping the ocean liners it is all one to her . . but since she bought a maiden we dash from track to track dragging the horse with us . . A maiden is a horse, you know, one that has never won a race, it has nothing to do with the sex of the horse, calling it a Maiden.

Mother's interest in racing reached fever heat when she heard that over $900,000.00 had passed through the mutuel windows that day we were at Santa Anita. Even Father said it was nice to know that money was whizzing about somewhere even if it was at Santa Anita. Mother said we could put a stop to that by not going to the cinema, but think of all the fun we would miss.

To get back to Mother's maiden, every time I see that horse I realize how dangerous it is to let Mother ask questions. We were at Santa Anita and Mother asked what a claiming race was. It seems at a claiming race anyone can buy any horse entered for the claiming price which is always listed. You just put the money up before the race and at the end of the race the money is gone but the horse is yours. If the horse wins the race the money won goes to the owner who entered the horse in the race, but if the horse dies in the race you have to cart the carcass away, and that has been known to happen actually. Mother says it beats betting anyway as you get something for your money even if it is only a carcass.

The women who have brought their horses to Miami are just champing at the bit so to speak waiting for Mr. Joseph E. Widener to give that $50,000 away, on March 5th. Some of their horses are eligible for the Widener Cup Handicap.

Mother and Father had a big argument today about her owning this maiden, but she pointed out that in the Hialeah Inaugural Handicap for three-year-olds and upward seven eligible candidates of the twenty-four named are owned by women. Three horses, Higher Cloud, Orientalist and War Minstrel belong to Mrs. Emil Denemark and Miss A. Doris owns Lady Higloss; Mrs. G. H. Emick Rollin Home and Rollin Home came in second in the Inaugural; Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs Caballero II; and Mrs. T. Stevenson Kingsbury.

Father said that was evading the issue he was thinking of the expense to him, not the fact that some women who understand horse training enter well trained horses in stake races and sometimes win. Mother seemed to take exception to that sometimes and she told Father that out of the eight races run January 12th women owned horses came in second in six races and won two races with only one horse coming in third . . . that day . . . Mother told him that Mrs. Ella K. Bryson intends to enter Carvolo in the March 5th race and she is bringing Carvolo here to Miami for the event, taking a chance on the weather, it may rain and Carvolo doesn't run so good on a wet track. Father seemed to get real angry then and he said . . . "You don't think you can class that nag of yours with a stake horse, do you?" It seems a stake horse is tops in race horses.

Mother swung back to expense that is the way she confuses you . . . she said, "I only paid $1000.00 for my horse and who can tell about the future. Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs paid $4000.00 for Caballero II and Caballero II won $24,207.00 in 1937." Mother said Mrs. Jacobs will attempt to lift the handicap with this horse of hers that she claimed for $4000 last summer and she has a very good chance to win the $50,000.00 Widener Challenge Cup Handicap of a mile and a quarter. Mother dared Father to show her any $4,000.00 investment of his that had netted him $75,000.00 in less than a year.

Father seemed to think it was useless to point out that the money hadn't been won yet or that all this was beside the point. He just said he would postpone the argument until after March 5th. He seems to think War Admiral that valiant son of Man of War owned by Sam Riddle may settle a lot of things. With some remark about pigs is pigs in which mother's maiden was involved he left the place of battle.

Horses must have French blood because the biggest insult you can hurl at a horse that has let you down is to call it a pig.

Every horse's birthday is January 1st and no matter if the horse is born December 31st or January 2nd the poor horse is one year old on the January first following its birthday . . . So a three-year-old may not be a three-year-old at all . . . or a four-year-old may not be a four-year-old . . . etc. Mother thinks it is only when you get beyond thirty that the time has come for shaving off a year or so . . . and that it is sort of silly to be deceitful so early about the age of a horse . . .

Personally I am still looking for the horse with the dreamy-eyes and although I have looked and looked into horses eyes I have not found one with dreamy eyes. They are a wide-eyed snorting lot. Father says it may have something to do with my hats. He thinks one of my hats with me under it of course thrust under an unsuspecting stallion's nose is something to snort about . . . I must say I miss his point . . .

WELCOMING SPRING AT THE GREENBRIER

THE parade of the seasons will pause next month with a special salute to the Greenbrier at White Sulphur Springs, where for 160 Aprils society has been wont to gather and welcome spring. In a day of changing values such an anniversary is impressive. It is something new and interesting to the American traveler . . . it is an accomplishment which has few equals in a land where resorts are comparatively recent in origin.

In thus commemorating its establishment as one of America's first world famed Spa, this year-round resort offers the homeward bound Florida visitor an opportunity to enjoy a very delightful sort of spring vacation. There is the chance to know an incomparable Easter week-end in a setting rich in Colonial lore. Spectator sportsmen may witness championship tennis played on the very site where a Revolutionary War general first tested the waters of the spring and spread its fame throughout the Valley of Virginia. One may play golf over perfectly built courses and know that nearby is the scene of the first organized Golf Club in America. Equestrians may ride over miles of mountain trails that were familiar to such noted horsemen as General Robert E. Lee, General Joe Johnson, Presidents Millard Fillmore and Benjamin Harrison during their visits to the "Old White." Shaded walks and lanes lead by low rambling cottages occupied by newlyweds as long past as 1830, past the famous President's Cottage once known as the Summer White House and now exquisitely intact as a museum and center of local historical interest. Should art be the thing of the hour, there are classes to be had at the Old White Arts School and Colony housed in picturesque Louisanna row where each brick cottage is permeated with eighteenth century atmosphere. Against this background of time-mellowed charm and loveliness a distinctive program of sports and social entertainment will be unfolded this year. A completely new type of tennis tournament, the second annual $2,000 United States Open Tennis Championship will be staged at the Greenbrier Golf and Tennis Club from April 25th to 30th. The event ranks as the major sports attraction of the entire year at White Sulphur and has proved the impetus for considerable comment due to the fact that for the first time in tennis history a tennis tournament has been endorsed by a prominent club which permits both amateurs and professionals to participate. Spectators who next month will fill the stands at White Sulphur will see a more vital kind of tennis, a keener and faster game, played by a more varied group of tennis exponents than is seen in the usual closed events. An outstanding contender for the title will be Karl Kozeluh, who defeated Bruce Barnes for the 1937 championship.

Opening the season's sports program will be the 18th annual Mason and Dixon Amateur golf tournament for men which is to be played the week of April 11th. Long one of the most popular golfing events of the spring season, the Mason and Dixon attracts an outstanding field of golfers, many of whom come up from Florida tournaments with a stop-over in Pinehurst for the North and South.

Colonists will find innumerable items of entertainment to engage their interest. Heading the list will be the Princeton Glee Club recital, which takes place the first week in April and marks the first appearance of this noted club at White Sulphur in several years. Always popular with Greenbrier patrons is Madame Mogabgab's annual Easter Fashion Show to be presented this year on April 22nd.

Throughout the weeks preceding Easter there are gay crowds at the resort, even as was true a century ago. It is a favorite time for family reunions and young folk throng here from Eastern schools and colleges to join their parents. Nightly dinner and supper dancing in the Colonnades room where music is provided by a Meyer Davis orchestra; golf luncheons in the colorful Tangerine room at the Casino and champaign breakfasts at the rustic Kate's Mountain Lodge are but a few of the customs familiar to those who return each year for a traditional Easter holiday at White Sulphur.

Major events on the sports calendar for the remainder of the year include: the 25th annual West Virginia State Amateur Golf Championship, July 3rd to 9th; the West Virginia State Tennis Tournament (five events) July 18th to 23rd; 10th annual Virginias Seniors Golf Championships, August 1st to 3rd; Travelers' Round Robin Tennis Tournament (five events), August 22nd to 24th; 6th annual Mason and Dixon Women's Golf Championship, August 29th to Sept. 3rd; 9th annual Middle Atlantic States Intercollegiate Invitation Tennis Tournament Oct. 10th to 13th.

Concluding the program will be first annual $3,000 White Sulphur Springs Open Golf Championship on Nov. 8th, 9th and 10th. Sam Snead, Ryder Cup team members and local Club pro will be among those to take part.

America's most beautiful resort is the name given The Greenbrier at White Sulphur Springs by seasoned travelers.

THIS GLIMPSE OF THE WEST VIRGINIA RESORT FROM THE RUGGED HEIGHTS OF GREENBRIER MOUNTAIN SUGGEST WHY ITS NAME IS SO WELL DESERVED.

Palm Beach Homes and Hotels Today and Yesterday.

Howard Major, Architect.

AN INTERESTING EXTERIOR OF A BRITISH WEST INDIES COLONIAL TYPE OF HOME IN PALM BEACH.

THE most widely known winter resort in America, if not in the world, and one of the most beautiful, is Palm Beach. There is a charm about this gem of beauty dotting Florida's East Coast, which is a bit difficult to put into words, but one of the loveliest things about it is, that it has become not only a resort, but a city of magnificent homes, occupied by their owners, in many cases, from early winter, until balmy spring days in the north lure them away.

Many years ago, when Henry M. Flagler made his dream of beauty come true, by building on the shores of Lake Worth, a mansion which today, as a hostelry, still holds its own among the more modern structures, he also built the Royal Poinciana and Breakers Hotels. They were wooden buildings, the Poinciana being the largest hotel of its kind in the world.

The homes, too, of socially prominent persons who followed in his footsteps to this land of promise, were mostly of wood, with large screened-in porches, —(mosquitoes in those days being many and large).

They were built not for permanency, but for coolness and convenience, and six weeks was approximately the duration of the season.

In those days, little was known about interior decoration and the co-ordination of the architecture of the house with its furnishings, was very seldom taken into consideration.

Wicker furniture predominated, some of it painted, some left in the natural color, being selected with the idea that the lighter and more airy, the better.

Floor coverings were mostly of matting, and it is a matter of great conjecture, how many hundreds of yards were used to cover the bareness of the floors in the Royal Poinciana and how many of the very ornate wicker chairs and tables were used in the lounges.

Each section of the country has its type of home which is closely interwoven with the life and history of its residents, and in most instances, with changing times, really fine architectural examples have been destroyed in order to make way for newer forms, but a number of the old homes still stand in Palm Beach.

However, the old Breakers and Palm Beach Hotel burned to the ground in 1925, and the Royal Poinciana, which had become a trifle too antiquated, was torn down recently.

With the building of the new Breakers, the Palm Beach Hotel and the Palm Beach Biltmore, a new era in architecture made its appearance, perhaps washed in by the tide from far away Spain, and homes, as well as hotels, began to spring up with an eye to permanence. In fact, the entire state of

ONE OF THE FAMILIAR LOUNGES OF THE OLD POINCIANA WITH WICKER FURNITURE PAINTED WHITE.

Florida was assuming an air of stability, and it was no longer the dream of a few persons that here was a Paradise wherein not only to spend a few short weeks, but in which to spend the entire winter.

Colorful stucco was employed and architects worked zealously to bring to this colony the beauty and magnificence of the palatial homes of Spain, for more and more, the real wealth of the entire country, during the winter season, was being concentrated in Palm Beach.

Furniture, draperies and floor coverings were used to conform with the Spanish architecture. In fact the whole atmosphere of the place took on the appearance of the watering places which dot the Mediterranean from Spain to Italy.

Entire rooms, in some instances, including pannelled and carved walls, with all of the furnishings, were shipped over from Spain or Italy, or sometimes France, for although most of the new houses were of Spanish architecture, Italian or French furniture was most adaptable to these homes.

Across Lake Worth, in West Palm Beach, Addison Mizner began the manufacture of Spanish furniture, wrought iron and employed a noted sculptor to do his stone work. Numerous smaller factories sprang up and in New York, importers grew rich from the sale of magnificent tapestries, draperies and rugs, with which to adorn these Spanish palaces in Palm Beach. Christopher Columbus' vision of a new Spanish Empire, became a living picture.

The transition from the palatial Spanish to the more simple type of Mediterranean or Southern Colonial came gradually, and during the depression, the wealthiest of our socialites, felt the necessity of a more simple mode of life, or perhaps learned that the more ornate and massive type of home and surroundings did not reflect the American idea of how to live and entertain in tropical surroundings.

At any rate, along with the change in architecture and with interior decorators earnestly endeavoring to make the furnishings of a home conform with the exterior, Early American and Eighteenth Century furniture, draperies, carpeted floors and papered walls became the vogue, where heretofore rough plastered walls only were used and wall paper was unheard of, due to climatic conditions. However, now, the walls of homes were made to withstand the elements and today, very few of the walls in the new Palm Beach homes are left unpapered.

These papers have been so prepared that there is no question of their practicability in Florida, and they add greatly to the charm of the modern interior, whereas the walls of the Spanish home, if they were not wood pannelled, could only be softened by the use of the tapestries or paintings.

But to get back to the changes in architecture and furnishings. Rapidly on the heels of the Colonial type came the Modernistic, and at the present time, there are a number of these homes, completely furnished in the modern manner, in Palm Beach.

These homes, it is true, are not palatial in appearance as are the ones of the Spanish era, nor do they seem to settle down and become a part of the landscape in quite the same manner. However, the reason for that may be, that the modernistic home is so startlingly white and geometrically proportioned, that it is difficult to reconcile this direct contrast with the subdued magnificence of the older homes.

The key-note to its popularity perhaps, in this exclusive resort, is the lightness and airiness as contrasted with the massive darkness of the Spanish.

Completely insulated, and with every conceivable device for convenience and comfort, the furniture of light woods and upholstered in white, or light shades of fabrics and leather, rugs and carpets delightfully soft and designed in geometric combinations of colors, with venetian blinds and gaily patterned chintzes at the windows, the modern house seems to have gained a place for itself under the sunny skies and in the shade of the palms.

However, a few of us hope that with the march of time, a few of the old wooden houses and especially, the Spanish homes, will still stand as monuments to the era when we still had time to think of tradition and to revere the memory of such men as Christopher Columbus and Ponce de Leon,—having seen with our own eyes, these changes in Palm Beach, and being a trifle old-fashioned, we are a bit sentimental about it all.

Beauty's Hymn to The Sun

SOUTHERN suns and sparkling sapphire seas sing their annual siren song, luring thousands of the winter weary, and those who shudder at the mere thought of a blizzard, away to sunkissed Palm Beach, there to relax on golden sands, or dance away the night under twinkling tropical stars.

Of course, taking along the right Beauty Preparations is of paramount importance, as no vacation will reach the fulfillment of your dreams unless you are looking your best, as well as indulging in the ultra voilets, and relaxing to your heart's content in a carefree world of sun and sand and surf. And Madame Rubinstein advances some practical suggestions that will keep you at your best from dawn to dark . . . or from dawn to dawn if you're a nighthawk! Before you invest in the scientific Beauty Aids that she suggests, decide, first, whether you're going to tan or not! Deep, mahogany shades are no longer the zenith of smartness, but a golden, toasted shade makes you look healthy and sunkissed, and is easy to achieve, if, before you sun worship, you apply Sunproof Cream to all exposed areas (judging from a preview of the new swim suits, these will be pretty vast!) Sunproof Cream not only prevents you from burning . . . it keeps your skin satin-smooth and soft, helps prevent "squint" lines, and makes an ideal foundation for make-up—your powder will "stay put" over it for whole sun drenched hours! Use this versatile cream generously for that delectable pale golden shade—more sparingly if your heart is set on a deeper tan.

But perhaps you will decide to follow the example of many fashionable Continentals, and keep your tan at a minimum. In which case your fairness will be dazzling in contrast to the sunkissed maidens around you. To achieve this effect, apply Sunproof Cream at frequent intervals (no half way measures will do) and don't expose yourself to the sun's rays too recklessly. It's also a good idea to invest in several of those huge beach hats that have a piquant allure all their own!

When you're not daring the ultra voilets, however, and especially when bent on a bit of evening glamour, apply Helena Rubinstein's Town and Country Make-Up Film, and, after you've acquired your tan, use Terra Cotta Powder and Lipstick. The right creams, of course, are vastly important items on your beauty schedule. Take along Herbal Cleansing Cream to thoroughly cleanse each pore, and leave your complexion feeling snow-cool and refreshingly clean (Note to wives: husbands love this soothing cream—better play safe and take along an extra jar!) Also—very important—take along a supply of Hormone Night Cream, to re-vitalize, and replenish the natural oils that constant exposure to the sun has a tendency to dry out. These two essential creams will arm your precious complexion against wrinkles, and the most rigorous onslaughts of strong sun and spanking breezes.

By all means, take along Madame Rubinstein's Mauresque powder to blend with your complexion as your tan deepens . . . later on, her Riviera Tan will do right by you, being unequalled for bringing out those deep golden glints that are journey's end as far as your sun tanning is concerned!

In brief, the rouge situation: Cream rouges are definitely "in" this season(they stay on much better and are worth the few extra minutes it takes to blend them into your Town and Country Make-up Film). This season, there's a decided accent on such breath-taking shades as Geranium (for daytime), and Red Coral, a clear, vibrant red that's very super indeed under electric lights. Terra Cotta rouge will likewise blend exquisitely with your suntan. While news to cheer is the fact that these three shades are all available in the new type of lipstick that has the smart world agog . . . since it contains a special scientific ingredient that preserves the natural moisture of the lips regardless of how many hours you elect to sunworship! The finish is softly lustrous, which guarantees you a high percentage of allure . . .

HELENA RUBINSTEIN
NOTED BEAUTY AUTHORITY, GIVES PRACTICAL ADVICE TO KEEP YOU LOVELY.

As to your eye make-up: Blue mascara is one of the most exciting of the new shades on the fashion horizon . . . a blue that matches the tropical sea being especially lovely. For additional allure, smooth a little jade or emerald eye shadow over your eyelids. Pluperfect, both these shades—especially under electric lights, whether your skin is sunkissed or alabaster fair.

Toes and fingernails are also due to be spotlighted this season, and Madame Rubinstein advises: "Be bold about it—don't be afraid of clear, bright shades! Complement the vivid coloring of sea and sky and palm by choosing a good strong shade such as Red Velvet or Red Geranium."

Final admonition: To protect your hair against the drying effects of sun and sea, spray it lightly but often with Enchante brilliantine. It's non-greasy, and a sterling guarantee that your crowning glory will emerge triumphantly lustrous and shining at the end of the season!

So heave ho! For the lure of Southern sands . . . and a good even suntan!

FROM the sun-kissed sands of the island's exclusive beaches to the immaculately groomed expanses of vivid green fairways one finds Palm Beach's feminine contingent enjoying every minute of every sparkling day in the world's premier winter resort. Healthy, happy and as virile as their maculine contemporaries, they make the rounds of the golf courses; join fashionable Palm Beach at the beaches; attend the tea dansantes in the afternoon and sally out after dark to enjoy the night life. And most intriguing of all indulge in the fascinating occupation of shopping on Worth Avenue between all of these activities.

MRS. EDWARD F. HUTTON

AN ENCHANTING SCENE FROM THE MCKEE JUNGLE GARDENS WHICH CONTAINS ALL THE MYSTERY OF THE ACTUAL JUNGLE WITH ITS VERDANT GROWTH OF RARE PLANTS IN A LOVELY GARDEN, SHADED WALKS, GRACED WITH DELIGHTFUL LILY PONDS SPANNED BY INTRIGUING RUSTIC BRIDGES.

The McKee Jungle Gardens

DID you ever hear of calabashes which catch ducks? Gourds which tighten up any loose teeth you might have? Fruits that burn like candles, or prevent seasickness; nuts that put you to sleep, keep you awake or counteract intoxication; coconuts which float thousands of miles to scare the wits out of Indians who think they are the false teeth of an angry monster; berries which at first make a cool, refreshing drink, then a piece of candy, and finally a button as hard as ivory? Incredible, you say. Not a bit of it! For these things, and more, are within an hour and a half drive of Palm Beach and can be seen at McKee Jungle Gardens, at Vero Beach, 75 miles north of the Queen of Winter Resorts.

Obviously, once upon a time, people tasted this fruit, or munched on that nut, or cut off a piece of tree to discover inside a liquid, if freely imbibed, got one delightfully tipsy. They were adventurous souls, those anonymous explorers who discovered the things which nowadays seem so casual and commonplace to us.

If you got lost in the Everglades, for example, would you like to try out all the different fruits and berries to keep yourself alive? Things you did not recognize and had no idea whether they were good or poisonous?

Yet there was a time when people all over the world did just that thing. And the result is today we have tea and coffee, chocolate and quinine, curare and strychnine. And if you see the trees and plants upon which they grow, you will be staggered by the ingenuity of the men who wrested these secrets from Nature's ample bosom.

It wasn't so long ago that St. Augustine was practically the last outpost of Florida's enchanted southern peninsula. A little sandy road wandered down the east coast and passed by such spots as the future sites of Palm Beach, Daytona and Miami. But one place that little road had to go round and not through, for it had come to an almost impenetrable jungle which had somehow chosen that spot to overrun, and this one place seemed a touch of the Amazon basin. And the tiny sand trail, now a broad ribbon of cement, went through—not around,—the jungle. And the jungle itself has become the McKee Jungle Gardens at Vero Beach, and today are to the botanist what the Louvre Museum is to artists, and what the New York Zoo is to amateur Frank Buck. For here Waldo E. Sexton, curator of the Gardens, has succeeded in "bringing back alive," weird flowers and plants and trees, delicate things ten times more difficult to transplant than the most fragile duck-billed platypus.

It's when you wander through the verdant paths of the Gardens that you speculate upon the inconceivable genius of the human race that the bark of this tree will cure arthritis; that this bean makes vanilla; and this flower (if you smoke it) will spell Magnolia.

The growing things of every country, every climate almost, on the face of the earth is here represented. In themselves stupefyingly lovely to behold, you look at them in self-conscious awe as a member of a race which had enough nerve and courage to peel the bitter, repellant husk from a coffee bean, roast the bean inside just so long, crush it just so, boil it in water, add a little sugar, and drink it down. All this took place, incidentally, where any moment a python might drop out of a tree, or a Zulu come charging up, emitting a few feral warwhoops.

In the McKee Jungle Gardens, down on U. S. No. 1 Highway, you find yourself in a jungle containing specimens of a large percentage of the world's flora, but practically no fauna. The result is that you wander through the jungle on well-groomed paths, covering more than 25,000 miles of the world's geography in about as many inches of path. And not once being shot at by a Ubangi, or growled at by a jaguar. Furthermore, you haven't been obliged to pay off a safari.

When you find yourself in the Gardens standing under a Bo tree, mark it well, for the Bo tree is the sacred tree of the Buddhists. This tree represents Vishnu, the destroyer, who is believed to have been born among its branches. These trees are holy shrines in India, regularly cared for by devout pilgrims with water from the sacred Ganges river. The leaves are particularly venerated, yet none dare pluck one on pain of death. These graceful trees are reputed to grow to tremendous antiquity, and one in Benares, India, is said to be more than 2,000 years old.

More strange than the trees themselves are the seeds they produce. There are seeds with patterns as varied as snowflakes, perfectly designed, executed and adapted to the environment which develops it. Burr-like seeds, floaters, drifts, leapers, flyers—all fighting for their chance to germinate. In the deepest jungle where seeds have difficulty in floating or dropping to earth, grow seeds which burst with great force. At the exact hour of the seed's maturity the pressure becomes too great for the pod to withstand, and it shoots the seeds out like birdshot from a shotgun.

The orange-sized pod of the sandbox tree bursts with such a violent report that it is called the "monkey's dinner bell," and when the monkeys in the McKee Gardens hear it, they dash madly toward the scene of the explosion, and gobble up all the seeds they can find.

Then, there are floating seeds which spread their gossamer wings and take off in the rising air currents of the jungle's tepid breath. These spores have been found carried by airplanes thousands of feet above the ground, often hundreds of miles from the plant which bore them. There are seeds which shoot out rapier-like claws when an animal brushes by. Others, like the "grapple" plants, known in Australia as the "wait-a-bit," clutch passing bodies with such force they have been known to strike lions.

"Monkey bread" which grows on the baobab tree from Africa always excites the interest of visitors. Sweetened with honey, there is no more delectable drink on the face of the earth. Some prefer to taste a cannibal tomato from Polynesia, quite as much an adjunct to a meal of "long pig," (which is none other than a missionary done to a turn) as sage is to turkey, or corned beef to cabbage.

And so as you wander through this paradise, you feel as though you've spent a day with Ripley. You've seen trees and orchids, and ferns and exotic flowers, water-lilies and palms, and rare, priceless woods. Plants that catch flies for a living, palms containing gallons of heady wine, rubber trees, fruit salad trees, exquisite jungle flowers and lotuses,—specimens of plant life to be seen nowhere else on earth in any one spot.

That's what a trip to the McKee Jungle Gardens, a non-profit seeking organization, does for you. In six short years these Gardens have been visited by such eminent scientists as Dr. Ludwig Diehls, of the Botanical Gardens, Berlin, Germany, considered one of the world's greatest botanists, who pronounced them the finest jungle extant at present accessible to the average visitor; Dr. David K. HEADWORK

The distinctive new coiffures recently introduced exclusively at the Elizabeth Arden Salons throughout America by Guillaume of Paris, are now being greeted with great enthusiasm by the smart clientele of Miss Arden's Palm Beach Salon.

Feeling that this season climaxes the highest degree of femininity experienced in twenty years, Guillaume studied the paintings of Watteau, fashionable French artist of the early 18th century, for inspiration in creating new hair styles this season.

"Watteau in his paintings and portraits crystallized a very feminine type . . . a type of great charm and great distinction. His women were aristocrats, with small, well-modelled features. Everything about them suggested delicacy of line . . . and they achieved a simplicity in grooming which still denotes the height of good taste and true elegance.

"Since these qualities are being emphasized in the trend toward luxury for winter and spring, 1938, I have tried to merge this eighteenth century influence with present fashions," M. Guillaume explained on his recent visits to the Elizabeth Arden Salons in New York, Washington, Chicago, Toronto and Montreal.

With great foresight Guillaume realized that no radical change from long Page Boy bobs to upswept curls could be made overnight. So, while he created a series of coiffures that are extreme with hair swept high, he was aware of the fact that until the eye has become accustomed to this newness, a world-wide vogue cannot be established. Therefore he has created hair styles for the woman who wishes to be conservative, as well as for the woman who dares to bridge the gap of the transitional stage.

One of his youthful, enchanting coiffures cleverly named "La Transition", carries out the necessary high line of the season in the arrangement of the front hair, which is brought upward and held in place with small concealed combs. In the back, the hair is long and softly arranged.

In Guillaume's charming and distinctive coiffures, as in Watteau's paintings, simplicity and a delightful, fanciful quality are combined. The hair is drawn away from the face and curled in soft, natural-looking tendrils high on the head, at the back or on the sides, so that the head presents a lovely picture from every angle.

The Guillaume coiffures shown exclusively at the Elizabeth Arden Salon in Palm Beach, are named after the famous paintings which were their inspiration. For the evening, there are Concert, Le Bal, La Danse, Theatre, Surprise, and Columbine. Daytime coiffures include Chasse, Iris, L'Accord Parfait, Harlequin, Cythere, Finette, and Antiope.

In the same imaginative spirit of grace and charm which characterizes these lovely new coiffures, this master hair stylist created ornaments of every description to place in the charming upswept curls. There are feathered butterflies . . . sprays of glass orchids and anemones . . . stiffened velvet ribbon pieces with delicate little blossoms suspended on fragile stems . . . glazed ribbons and ribbons stiffened just enough to stay in place, but easy to adjust at unusual angles . . . and many other gay touches of sprightly fancy.

One particularly charming ornament he brought from Paris is a spray of velvet morning glories in bright blue velvet, with palest blue aigrets forming the stamens. This flower ornament is held in place by a clip which may be concealed in a high-swept cluster of curls.

Another striking evening coiffure ornament is a huge gold star, thickly studded with red and blue stones. For still another decoration a narrow scroll of slightly stiffened velvet, covered by close-clipped feathers, is used.

No smart head will appear on formal occasions without some sort of headpiece adorning it.

A CABLE SLEIGH CARRIES SKIERS FROM SAANENMOSER, GSTAAD, BERNESE OBERLAND, SWITZERLAND, UP TO THE BEAUTIFUL SNOW FIELDS OF THE HORNBERG.

WINTER GALA IN SWITZERLAND

WHEN cities and lowlands shiver under gray blankets of cloud and mist, Switzerland's winter resorts are basking under bright sunshine that glitters on a white world of snow. From all parts of the globe come the seekers of sunshine, health and laughter. They have discovered that winter doesn't have to be sniffing and aspirin time any more. Mountain slopes are dotted with skiers; ice rinks are alive with skaters, hockey players and curlers; and on the bob and skeleton runs the speed kings are racing against split seconds. Everyone is doing something. It's holiday time.

Just as here in newly won America, skiing is the most popular winter sport in Switzerland. Every day from mid-December till late March finds new fans taking their first uncertain steps on the twin wooden runners. Even gray-beards venture cautiously on the gentler slopes, and between hesitant stem-turns, enviously eye the Swiss youngsters who skim surely and easily through powder snow.

Since so many of Switzerland's skiers and would-be skiers are visitors, the affiliated Swiss Ski-Schools were introduced. All the more important resorts in the Bernese Oberland, the Grisons, Valais, Central and French Switzerland have their own schools, and under the expert guidance of licensed instructors who usually are able to speak three languages, novices are soon able to ski with surprising skill.

Every Swiss Ski-School teaches the same method, and so a visitor may travel all over the country and know that at the next resort he can immediately start at the point where he left off. The system taught is simple and based on natural laws, and due consideration is given to the aptitude and physical strength of pupils. Schools are divided into classes for beginners, intermediates and advanced skiers.

First thing you learn is how to carry your skis, and next, how to pick yourself up after one of the inexplicable tumbles everybody takes at first. After learning the sliding steps, and how to climb, you are ready for a try at running down one of the very slight slopes on "nursery hills," an adventure which the instructor allows you merely to give you a taste of things to come. Put your skis together, one a little ahead of the other, and now let go. You glide down easily and stop automatically as the ground levels out. You throw out your chest and say to yourself: child's play. But suddenly you realize that if the slope had been longer and steeper, you could have done nothing but sail along till you hit something solid or gravity came to your rescue. You can't brake and you can't turn.

So you are glad to take your first lesson in straight stemming, or "snow-plowing," which is the easiest method of controlling your speed on steeper slopes. Simply spread your legs wide apart, and assume a slightly knock-kneed position so that your weight is on the inside edges of the skis. As you move along in this position, you can achieve the ski alternative to the direction you wish to take.

After you have mastered the stem-turn you progress to more difficult things. You learn the skating step, the stem, open and closed Christianias, the Telemark, which is excellent in deep snow, the jump turn and other fine points which belong to the expert's repertoire. Under proper instruction you will soon be amazing yourself; it doesn't take half as long as you think. Of course it takes time to reach the expert, or even the near expert class. But you will soon be good enough to get a great kick out of being able to speed gracefully and confidently over smooth snow.

Jumping is the ultimate thrill of skiing. But for experts only. It takes timing, balance, nerve, and as many downhill and slalom addicts think, a suicide complex. But all agree that a jumping meet is a top spectacle. Besides the perfect jumps, there are times when even the best take a spill, and then they go tumbling down, a tangle of pin-wheeling arms, legs and skis.

Take a look! At the edge of the jump the starter's flag whips down, and now a small black figure is racing down the slide. Crouched low, gathering speed, the skier dips out of sight for a moment. Suddenly he is zooming into space, his arms spread wide, his body leaning well forward as he soars high over the heads of breathless spectators. Then slap! His skis hit the hard-packed snow sharply as he lands, and now the crowd is cheering as he races down, perfectly balanced, to level ground, where a closed Christie brings him to an abrupt stop. A seventy-five yard flight with a pair of long hickory blades as wings!

Besides the skiers, there are the ice-sports enthusiasts: the skaters, the hockey players, and the curlers, each group insisting that their sport is the one and only.

Ice-skating in Swiss resorts, many of which have skating schools, is confined mostly to fancy skating, most graceful of winter sports. There is nothing quite like a Sonja Henie pirouetting over a glassy ice floor, or a couple like Maxie Herber and Ernst Baier doing the Pair.

Skating possesses just as varied, though not as numerous fans as skiing. On the rinks that all the larger hotels have, you can see exhibitions, both good and bad. Curly-headed tots glide easily past corpulent gallants who billow ponderously round and round, and teetering, weak-ankled beginners gape wide-eyed at the intricate figures traced by elegant experts. And on the hockey rinks, tough shinned puck chasers hammer enthusiastically into each other.

Curling, though little known in America, has plenty of followers in Swiss winter resorts. Beloved prodigy of the Scotch, no game is more aptly nicknamed than the "roaring game." Half of curling is to "talk it up," and by common consent, all the chatter of sturdy lunged devotees is carried on in English. The crisp air crackles with cries of "Sweep it! Sweep it!" "Well laid!" "Thank you, sweepers! Thank you!" "Let it curl," etc. Along with its conversational appeal, curling presents a fine excuse for wearing loud colored tweeds, impudent berets, shrieking scarfs. If you are lucky, you may also see Scotch legs in kilts.

There are four men on a curling team, and the key member is the "skip." When he points hopefully to the spot where he would like the next stone to end its brief journey toward the charmed circle, and calls to the bowler that he thinks an "in-handle" shot best, the bowler meekly nods, tightens his lips, then gives his all. When "skip" urges the sweepers to sweep, the two legionnaires armed with brooms frantically brush an even smoother path in front of the slowly twisting stone. This imitation of the industrious housewife is not as futile as it looks. Sweeping can add two yards or more to the distance a stone covers.

Speediest of winter sports are bob-sleighting and tobogganing. The four men bobs come bumping into the straightaway, zoom at a mile a minute pace round the huge banked turns, then whizz out of sight. The success of a bob-team depends almost wholly on the driver and the brake.

If you feel like giving yourself a heart-stopping thrill, try a trip on a skeleton when the run is slow enough that beginners are allowed on. Rigged in a helmet, metal elbow and knee guards, and a collection of other protective pads, you may have a moment of doubt. But it's too late now. You're off!

The ice rumbles away under you, and your head seems absurdly, uncomfortably far ahead of the skeleton. The first turn is already past before you have really settled down. That wasn't so bad. But you're picking up speed, faster and faster, and now the world is a white streak zipping past you.

ICE HOCKEY AT MONTANA-VERMALA, SWITZERLAND.

Here comes another turn, and the high white wall is rushing at you. Frantically you dig the toes of your boots into ice, and they scrape and squeal and scratch but don't seem to do any braking. You close your eyes just as the wall is going to crash into you. But nothing happens. Miraculously you have banked around the turn, and before you can sigh your relief, you have reached the end of the run. There ought to be cheers for the new record you've set. Strange that nobody notices you. Finally you approach the timekeeper, and he tells you with a tolerant, just-between-us smile that your time was so slow it isn't worth posting.

Well, it was a lot of fun, anyhow. And this is always the verdict of holiday-makers and sportsmen who attend Switzerland's annual Winter Gala.

UNDER THE STARS

UNDER the Stars! . . . There's magic in that phrase and I wouldn't change the title of this page if I could . . . For it seems to me that it is emblematic of the very spirit of Palm Beach . . . the urge to get out and dance to thrilling music under a matchless canopy of sky and stars, with perhaps a fleecy cloud or two to give it that properly ethereal setting . . . How often you've heard the term "sun worshippers" applied to the smart crowd who make Palm Beach the most glamorous spot in the world each winter . . . but what of the star worshippers? . . . They are legion in tropical Palm Beach and only a torrential downpour of rain (that rare and unusual phenomena in Palm Beach) will force them to hold their dinner and supper parties under anything even resembling a roof . . . Every night finds them dancing in the picturesque out-door settings of the Colony Club and the Patio, with nothing between them and the heavens except the myriad patterns of twinkling stars.

And little wonder after all . . . when the trade winds caress that burning sun tan you've just acquired from a day spent between the beach and perhaps the deck of a bobbing fishing smack . . . and that romantic feeling, engendered by an occasional whiff of night-blooming jasmine, is aided and abetted by Al Donahue's dance compelling music at the beautiful Colony Club or the swinging rhythm of Val Ernie's dance music at the jewel-like Patio . . . Who cares about sun bathing with its peeling when you can bathe in the soft rays of the moon and the friendly light of the stars without worrying about whether or not you will have on the morrow that skin you can't bear to have touched?

Not to change the subject too abruptly but society seems to be having a lot of fun with its own divertissements . . . playing the old and always fascinating corn game under a new name at the Patio . . . plucking cash prizes from hundreds of colored balloons as they are lowered on the dance floor within reach, at both of these gathering spots . . . taking home magnums of champagne . . . bottles of aromatic perfume and other interesting dividends on the Patio's Dividend Night, and all of the intriguing things that the smart set find to do at these scintillating clubs . . .

MRS. JEAN COCHRAN ATWELL AND MR. ROBERT SWEENEY WERE GUESTS OF MR. AND MRS. PHILIP HILL ON THE NIGHT THIS PICTURE WAS TAKEN AT THE COLONY CLUB.

versary of some sort for them . . . immaculately-groomed William Rhinelander Stewart and his photoesque wife, who is justly the most photographed women in the country . . . the brilliant Dr. Franz Mayr . . . Mr. and Mrs. Mario Pansa, who seem as interested in each other as they did the day they were married . . . the attractive Mrs. Wesson Seyburn, with sparkling Peggy Seyburn and Eddie McIlvaine . . . Captain Alastair Mackintosh and the lovely Mrs. Jean Cochran Atwell.

Francis Warren Pershing danced the evening away with Muriel Richards on the same night . . . Young Warren's likeness to his famous father coming in for comment from several at a nearby table . . . Another startling resemblance, young Joseph P. Kennedy to his father, the newly appointed ambassador to the Court of St. James . . . the same frank Irish grin and much the same forceful personality . . . and while we're on the subject of look alikes how about the charming Meem twins, Anne Carroll and Eleanor Eastbourne? . . . That was an interesting re-union staged between Richard Crooks and Mme. Lucrezia Bori at the Colony Club on Roman Night . . . Saw Sonia Phipps and J. A. Peter Strassburger dancing the rumba the same night and the only couple on the floor who danced as well were Prince Rospigliosi and Contessa Di Zoppola.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barry Ryan love to drop into the always different Patio at odd hours . . . The Sidney Legendres have a soft spot for the care-free atmosphere of this same gathering spot . . . The tall, broad-shouldered southerner and his wife who can make lovely clothes lovelier with her inimitable flair for smart gowns, were hosts to Sidney's brother, Morris Legendre, Mrs. Legendre's father, John Sanford, Mrs. Grover Loening, Mr. and Mrs. Howell Van Gerbig, and Robert Sweeny at a gay looking party that lasted until the early hours at this spot . . . And of course the Patio is the mecca for the colony's artists . . . Nicolas de Molas, Bernard Boutet de Monvel, McClelland Barclay, Philip Giddens . . . just to mention a few who enjoy the atmosphere of gay camaraderie found at the Patio.

Woolworth Donahue rarely misses a night at the Patio and he often puts the place to bed in the wee hours with a gay party . . . Elliott Sperber admits that Val Ernie's music is his first thought when he lands at the airport here . . . and

James Donahue has been the honored guest at more parties than he has years since he arrived in Palm Beach with his mother, Mrs. James P. Donahue . . . The popular Edward N. Townsends have gone in for backgammon at the Patio's Sunday tourney, and incidentally, who hasn't? . . . Quite a list of expert players in the cocktail room at this spot last Sunday and not a sound except the quick shuffle of moving disks and the murmur of an interested audience . . . Tommy Goodwin, who plays almost as good a game of backgammon as he does golf . . . Pierre L. Barbey, Jr., one of the best players in Palm Beach . . . Mr. and Mrs. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld, Muriel Richards with Francis Warren Pershing, usually hovering in the background . . . Frank Colgan, brilliant lawyer and unusually good at backgammon . . . Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Goodman . . . Mrs. Goodman being the acknowledged champion in that family and incidentally one of the best players in the tournament . . . Count Castagnola, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ittleson, Jr., and many more fine players.

That really was a lovely gown that earned Mrs. Clifford W. Smith the title of the most beautifully gowned woman at the Colony Club on the Saturday night prior to the Washington Birthday Ball . . . Mrs. A. Carver Livingston earned the attention of some of the judges . . . Mrs. John Wentwood, Jr., was another lady who came in for favorable attention from the masculine portion of the committee . . . Philip Giddens made his choice and dashed out to attend a party, leaving McClelland Barclay and Mrs. Ellen Holland Little to carry on . . .

More than 100 members of the Miami Music Club and their friends were guests at a luncheon recently at the Miami Biltmore to raise funds for the convention of the Florida

Federation of Music Clubs, which will take place here March 29 to April 2.

Florida year-round Club members have begun a series of moonlight horseback rides with supper in the open, a sport which is always a favorite with the resort colony. A treasure hunt also is being planned for early next month.

While thousands of dollars were raised for the Helen Lee Doherty Milk fund at the lace ball, Feb. 18, at the Miami Biltmore Country Club, many thousands more were added to the fund from the proceeds gathered at the tea dance in the Palm gardens of the Roney Plaza Cabana Sun Club recently.

Sonja Henie, the queen of the ice rink, was an honored guest on the occasion. Mrs. Henry L. Doherty, who came here from Philadelphia for the event, entertained at one of the larger parties for her house guests, Mrs. Carl S. Fairbank, Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. B. C. Forbes of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. William Pawley entertained 40 guests in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Sanderson of Orange, N. J., and Guy Vaughan of New York. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. H. NASSAU

WITH flag-bedecked cruise ships in the harbor, quaint old Bay Street thronged with holiday merry-makers and brilliant parties being held at the hotels, Nassau has taken on a mid-season gaiety. The cottage colony has been engrossed in a veritable whirl of parties with many visitors from the northern clime being entertained. Sir Frederick and Lady Williams-Taylor gave a dinner-dance at the Porcupine Club recently for their daughter, Mrs. Frederick N. Watriss of New York. The cornerstone of their new residence on Prospect Ridge, "Star Acres," was recently laid, His Excellency, the Hon. Charles C. F. Dundas, C.M.G., O.B.E., officiating. They sold their winter home on Hog Island to Lieut.-Commander James Dugdale of London.

A brilliant assemblage of socially prominent visitors from two continents filled the Flamingo Grill of the British Colonial to capacity for the annual George Washington Birthday party. A burlesque dance cavalcade was staged by Ramon and Renita, noted ballroom duo, with the co-operation of Dario and Diane, America's most colorful dancers, and the six Arthur Murray dancers. Gloria Grafton, international song stylist, was the featured singer.

Much entertaining is being planned in connection with the International Star Class Yacht Races, March 23-29, sponsored by the Nassau Yacht Club. The officers are the Hon. Charles C. F. Dundas, C.M.G., O.B.E., Governor of the Bahamas, Commodore; Roland T. Symonette, President; W. H. H. Maura, Vice-President; Robert J. Robertson, Treasurer and Basil McKinney, Secretary.

Sailing, which is always a popular sport in the Bahamas, is attracting many new devotees this year, especially among the women. A Ladies' Race for the Dr. James C. Ayer Cup has been scheduled for Sunday, March 13. A Bahamian Fish Chowder luncheon will be served at the Royal Nassau Sailing Club on the British Colonial quay.

The annual regatta, sponsored by the Royal Nassau Sailing Club has been set for Saturday, March 19, when the Open Race for auxiliary cruises for the Hon. Walter K. Moore Cup will be held. The Challenge Cups won during the season will be presented at a cocktail party at the club following the races.

The second annual Nassau Dog Show will be held at the Botanical Gardens on Thursday, March 10, the Bahamian classes in the morning and the thoroughbreds in the afternoon with trophies for each class. An innovation this year is the Puppy Class exhibited by children.

Former Ambassador to Germany, James W. Gerard and Mrs. Gerard, are at the British Colonial for the season. Mrs. Frank McEwan and Miss Margaret McEwan of Madison, N. J., have also arrived for their annual season visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Merlin K. Duval of New York, accompanied by Edward Allen Pierce of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Chester Cuppia and Mrs. Arthur Powell of Montclair, N. J., are passing three weeks at the British Colonial.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman H. Messmore of New York entertained Monday evening in the Flamingo Grill of the British Colonial at the annual George Washington Birthday party, in honor of the Hon. Wilfred Egerton of London, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Winkworth of London and Edmund C. Lynch of Locust Valley, L. I.

Ralph J. Maloney of Poughkeepsie, who is at the British Colonial for the season, entertained for friends recently.

Economies That Are Important

Under the unique policy of guest entertainment at both the Roney and the Miami Biltmore, you receive extraordinary value for your money—not only all the refinements of living in two of the world's greatest resort hotels, but also a complete vacation, all for the one cost of your accommodations.

Mementos in Sculpture

Individualize your garden with original garden sculpture. See our designs for the lily pond, pool, or the fountain. A beautiful model of your own son or daughter, life-size or in miniature, makes the loveliest of exterior decorations and a memento of childhood that will be an everlasting joy and delight.

Whether you're a Marxist, a Fascist, or a Buddhist . . . a Black Shirt, a Brown Shirt, or only a stuffed shirt, you'll get a lot of fun out of playing "Dicto," the latest novelty sensation of the Palm Beaches. You'll be out of the social . . . if not the political . . . swing, unless you're enjoying this new armchair outdoor sport.

HOLIDAYS WITH A BRITISH ACCENT...

... OVERNIGHT BY SEA, TWO HOURS BY AIR

Cross the blue Gulf Stream from Miami by ship or the daily airliner—discover the rich pleasures that bring so many fashionables from England and America to Nassau's British Colonial Hotel . . .

STRONGHOLD: Nassau, rambling beside its fine harbour on the hills of the 20-mile-long island of New Providence, is the capital of England's Bahamas colony. Home port of Blackbeard, rendezvous of pirate and blockade-runner, it was taken and sacked more than thirty times by French and Spanish—retaken finally for England when Deveau and his 150 volunteers by sheer daring drove out the Spaniard de Cagigal and his 5000. The past still lives in Nassau's Old World streets, under the guns of its ancient forts. As the setting for smart modern resort living it is unique.

FINE HOTEL: Commanding the sea, harbour and town from the gardens of its quayfront estate, the British Colonial is the center of holiday Nassau. Its facilities include huge outdoor swimming pool at the hotel, transportation direct to the ocean beach across the harbour, private yacht landing. Guests take their golf on 27 seaside holes—gather nightly in the smart grill for dancing and entertainment. Just outside the British Colonial gates are Nassau's famous shops and their treasures. Conveniently near are race track, casino and other interests.

Here is the Way to Come North!

A too-sudden change of climate may cancel many of the benefits of your Southern visit. Better stop off here in this beautiful, mild, invigorating long-leaf-pine country and get yourself set for tough weather ahead.

Sports? They are all here and at their best. Polo, Skeet, Tennis, Fox Hunting, Riding, Golf on three 18-hole courses with grass greens and "picture" fairways. Pinehurst's social life is famous.

Emblems of Personality

Clothes are a potent form of self-expression.

By a natural law of life we are at our best when most ourselves.

The supreme art of the tailor, not only covers the body with grace and fitness, but releases personality. Thus it comes about that by your dress shall you be known.

Yet to realize this consummation your garments must be designed for your individual needs.

Roadmaster is the name!

THESE are the statistics: Its bonnet houses 141 ready-willing-and-able horsepower.

Its swift wheels can spurt you from ten to sixty in 18 seconds flat.

From a ten-m.p.h. start at the bottom, it will swoop you over an eleven per cent hill with an easy forty-four at the top.

But the smoothness of its panther-like gait is something statistics can't picture; the heart-warming satisfaction in its eye-wink answer to your treadle foot is something you can only feel.

The point is that it's boss of any road, with its DYNAFLASH engine to set the thrilling pace and its TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING to make smoothies out of rough spots.

We wish you'd try it—just to see if you can name its rival within a thousand dollars of its price.

The Buick shown is the ROADMASTER touring sedan, delivering at Flint, Mich., at $1645, complete with standard equipment. Fenderwells, white sidewall tires and special accessories extra. There are 4 ROADMASTER models ranging in price from $1645 to $1983, and 3 LIMITED models from $2176 to $2453 delivered complete at Flint. State and local taxes if any and transportation extra.

HOLIDAYS WITH A BRITISH ACCENT...

... OVERNIGHT BY SEA, TWO HOURS BY AIR

Cross the blue Gulf Stream from Miami by ship or the daily airliner—discover the rich pleasures that bring so many fashionables from England and America to Nassau's British Colonial Hotel . . .

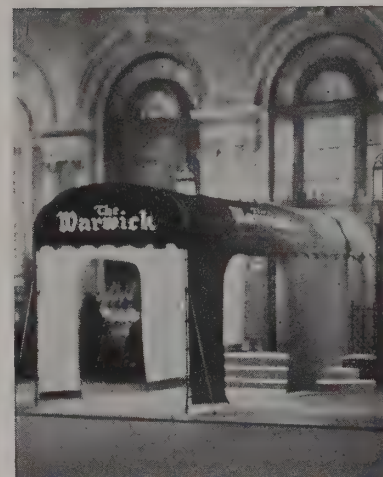

STRONGHOLD: Nassau, rambling beside its fine harbour on the hills of the 20-mile-long island of New Providence, is the capital of England's Bahamas colony. Home port of Blackbeard, rendezvous of pirate and blockade-runner, it was taken and sacked more than thirty times by French and Spanish—retaken finally for England when Deveaux and his 150 volunteers by sheer daring drove out the Spaniard de Cagigal and his 5000. The past still lives in Nassau's Old World streets, under the guns of its ancient forts. As the setting for smart modern resort living it is unique.

FINE HOTEL: Commanding the sea, harbour and town from the gardens of its quayfront estate, the British Colonial is the center of holiday Nassau. Its facilities include huge outdoor swimming pool at the hotel, transportation direct to the ocean beach across the harbour, private yacht landing. Guests take their golf on 27 seaside holes—gather nightly in the smart grill for dancing and entertainment. Just outside the British Colonial gates are Nassau's famous shops and their treasures. Conveniently near are race track, casino and other interests.

AMONG THE PALMS

MEMBERS of English royalty escaping the bad weather of winter in the British Isles and Canada have found an Eden-like haven, this month, in the Palm Beach Biltmore. Daily the English colony at the hotel grows larger.

Lady Borwick of London has been the guest of honor at many parties given since she arrived here two weeks ago to spend the remainder of the season, Sir Gordon Ley is another

Miss Helen Keller, most famous of all living blind persons, and her companion, Miss Polly Thompson, took a few days off from their lecture tour this week to rest at Whitehall which, Miss Keller described as the "Most beautiful hotel."

In the height of the season The Breakers is one of the active centers of resort life. As in former years dinner parties, in the beautiful circular dining room and in the charming Venetian room, are many and members of the Cottage Colony, as well as guests of the hotels find the daily tea dance in Cocoanut Grove a gala affair.

The largest dinner parties of the season at The Breakers were the annual parties given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry McSweeney, within a week of one another, to celebrate their birthdays. Mrs. McSweeney's party was the second of these and scores of friends gathered to honor her. The event of the evening was the reading of a poem written in tribute to Mrs. McSweeney by Maud Howe Elliott, who was unable to be present. The ladies received corsages of lilies of the valley and hybrid orchids while the gentlemen received boutonniers of Prince of Wales carnations. Floral decorations were jonquils, delphinium, roses, and other blooms to carry out the color scheme of blue and yellow. The International Trio played. Guests included: Judge and Mrs. John W. Kephart, Justice and Mrs. Ruby R. Vale, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Howes Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Emil C. Kischel, Mr. and Mrs. Milton A. Bill of Hartford, Conn., who were guests of his brother, Mr. Nathan Bill and Mrs. Bill at their villa. Mrs. Ledyard Cogswell gave a dinner party recently in the North Lounge followed by an evening of contract.

Among the arrivals of late were Mr. and Mrs. Lynn McNaughton of Detroit, who returned for their usual sojourn at The Breakers and were welcomed back at a party in Coconut Grove given by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Cornwell.

Major M. C. Migel, President of the American Foundation For the Blind, made a return visit to The Breakers, where he is enjoying a few weeks' sojourn.

Mr. Arthur G. Hoffman of New York, vice-president of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, is enjoying his usual visit at The Breakers. In his party are, Mr. and Mrs. Lindley Hoffman, Miss Elise Gioletti, Miss Mimi Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Robertson.

Other annual visitors arriving recently were, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lotspeich and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, and Charles Smith, 2d.

The Patio and Terrace Restaurant of the Hotel Seaglade grows more beautiful each day as the tropical plants bloom and spread their green and vari-colored leaves. Every day a host of visitors gather for luncheon, cocktails and dinner and enjoy the artistic setting of this garden overlooking the sea, giving this popular spot an unprecedented success.

Well-known additions to the winter colony at the Brazilian Court Hotel include, Mr. J. Lester Parsons and his bride, the former Mrs. Helen Boynton Wells of St. Louis, who since their wedding in New York on January 22nd, have been cruising in his palatial yacht, Pleiades. TASTES AND TOILETTES

TIME Marches on, is a phrase with which we are all very familiar, but Time did an about face and marched backward, on the night of the All-American Ball at the Everglades Club, and beautiful ladies of Colonial days, mingled with those of Civil War times, while to make the picture still more colorful, there were some attired in costumes from the Gay Nineties, and too, there were alluring señoritas from Old Mexico.

The brilliant costumes amid a setting of the Old South, gave to the exotically lovely Orange Gardens and lounges of the Everglades Club, a picturesque glamour long to be remembered, and although today's fashions are arresting in their beauty, still, there was something extremely fascinating and refreshing in the costumes of years gone by, donned by the socially prominent members of the winter colony for this occasion.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Miss Dana Maher of Cincinnati, Ohio, was given the prize for the most beautiful period gown, which was an American version of Louis XIV, made of cloth of gold, the very voluminous hoop skirt tucked up with roses, the bodice tightly fitted with ruffles of gold lace at the neckline and around the sleeves.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Going back to the year 1840, Mrs. Evalyn MacLean chose a hoopless gown of dark green velvet, the bodice shirred and with magenta flowers on the shoulders.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. G. Huntington Hartford II, wore a gown from the Gay Nineties, which was of green plaid taffeta, with a bustle. Her hat of the same material, was trimmed with plumes.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Robert J. Faulkner, the charming mother of Mrs. Frank C. Henderson, was becomingly gowned in a costume of the 1810 period, made in Empire style, of a handsome gold brocade. With it Mrs. Faulkner wore a quaint little bonnet of yellow net.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Marie Calhoun's gown was of the 1860 period, of blue and silver brocade, the hoop skirt very wide, and the bodice snugly fitted. A head-dress of flowers completed her costume.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Hugh Dillman also represented the year of 1860 in a handsome gown of blue taffeta, trimmed in purple velvet ribbon, with a matching hat, trimmed with plumes.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Miss Peggy Seyburn was attired for the ball in a typically 1890 frock of Alice Blue taffeta, and a shirred hat of the same material, trimmed in blue plumes.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Frank C. Henderson chose to picture the year 1668 in an exceedingly handsome gown of pale olive green satin, trimmed in silver, the original gown having been made for Lady Castlemaine to wear at the Court of Charles II, and the copy worn by Mrs. Henderson, belonging to Mrs. Peter Stuyvesant. Her large black velvet hat, was trimmed in plumes.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Maurice Fatio was a picture in an 1860 gown of apple green taffeta, which had a tremendous hoop skirt, and was trimmed in ruffles of magenta velvet.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Robert McCoskry Butt was charmingly attired in a pink and blue taffeta dress of the early French period in New Orleans. The low cut bodice was tightly-fitted and the blue hoop skirt was trimmed in pink ruffles at the bottom and had a tuck-up of pink.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Butt's sister, Mrs. Aste, wore the costume of a typical early Spanish dancer. The waist was of yellow satin, and the skirt was entirely ruffled in vari-colored satin, piped in yellow ribbon. A Spanish shawl embroidered in red roses and with a deep fringe, and gay flowers and combs in her hair, effectively completed her costume.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. MacDowell, Jr., also affected a Spanish costume, but that of a grande dame. It was of black lace, with a lace mantilla, both embroidered in large red roses.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. William C. Fisher was lovely in an authentic Martha Washington gown of sky blue satin, and over the hoop skirt was a tuck-up of black lace trimmed in black velvet bows. Her accessories were onyx jewels and black silk mitts, and she wore a poke bonnet, tied under the chin with black velvet streamers.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Harold Allen Braman was picturesquely attired in a Mexican peasant costume, the skirt of white satin, the blouse white organdy and the black over-bodice colorfully embroidered.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. McAlpin Bell chose a Mexican peasant costume, which had a wine and white calico skirt, a white organdy blouse, a very colorful serape and blue bandana.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. H. H. Windsor, Jr., wore blue taffeta trimmed in silver lace, with velvet bows of orchid and deep blue. It was of the 1860 period with the prevailing hoop skirt and tight bodice.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Miss Kathleen Buckley was attractively attired in an 1860 gown of rose taffeta, and her guest, Miss Peggy Kerney, chose chartreuse taffeta of the same period.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Henry Ellsworth Bemis was a lovely Southern Belle in French blue silk, a white lace petticoat and pantaloons demurely showing below her skirt. Her jewels were a diamond lavalier and ear-rings.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Walter Beh was exceptionally lovely as a Colonial Dame, in a costume of watermelon pink chiffon, fashioned in accordance with the times.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Miss Virginia Stephens was also dressed in a Colonial costume of green taffeta, trimmed with gold lace.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Earl E. T. Smith was becomingly attired in a very handsome evening gown of 1860, which was of pale yellow taffeta, trimmed in white fur.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Wesson Seyburn also wore a very lovely 1860 gown, made of very dark rose and green changeable taffeta, with the prevailing hoop skirt of the period.

ALONG THE AIRWAYS

YOU can get to Jamaica from Palm Beach or Miami between breakfast and luncheon-time! And on the way you see Cuba and Cienfuegos, 'city of a hundred fires,' on Cuba's colorful southern shore. You make the trip sitting at ease in deep upholstered cushions in a luxurious compartment wider than a Pullman car or strolling around the fifty-foot cabin of your giant flying yacht, with a crew of five veteran airmen, two-way radio communication and all the manifold facilities of the world's greatest air transport organization to provide you with science's final word in security, comfort and smartness.

Why go to Jamaica is answered in part by the delightful trip itself. Picture yourself, some bright morning, at the beautiful International airport at Miami—aerial gateway between the Americas. You are on board one of the famous giant flying boats, which for seven years have carried tons of men, mail and merchandise on swift and regular schedules between Florida and the countries of the Spanish Main, Central and South America.

Off the blue waters of Biscayne Bay with effortless energy, you see the marvelous panorama of Miami, Miami Beach and Coral Gables, spread out in all its glory. As your steady craft takes the smooth skyway toward the tropics your cares seem to drop away from you, as the earth itself is left behind. There it is, more beautiful than ever from the air and always waiting underneath as a haven when the journey is done. Then vista after vista opens up before you—the soft vast spaces of the sea and sky, the fantastic and colorful Florida Keys, the deep purple of the Gulf Stream.

In two brief hours we come to the fairest of tropical scenes as you float over Cuba to the southern shore—smiling slopes and spaces in a thousand shades of greens—fields of sugar cane and pineapple, groves of royal palms growing wild on the quiet countryside.

Then the huge harbor of Cienfuegos slides underneath and you settle gently to the surface. A brief stop in this little Spanish town on Cuba's southern shore and you are off again over a corner of the sparkling Caribbean and over the picture book hills of Jamaica into the harbor at Kingston, the capital, a few minutes after noon.

You find that it is unique, in being both tropical and mountainous and edged all around by golden beaches. There are hotels, both elaborate and quaint; fine drives winding through valleys of ferns, bamboo avenues and past banana and sugar plantations. You see gorgeous orchids and every known kind of tropical fruit and flower. The country is striking in its scenic beauty. There is every kind of recreation available—bathing, riding, polo, golf, tennis, badminton and of course the old reliable hands of bridge are found on every porch.

Air travel between Havana, Cuba, and Miami, Florida, the "air gateway between the Americas," averages more than 2,000 Pan American passengers per month, the year around.

To and from the West Indies, Central and South America, a total of nearly 48,000 air travelers passed through the Pan American Airways International airport at Miami, Florida, last year. This year placed Miami at the lead of all United States ports as port of entry for air passengers arriving from other countries.

A native dish representing each of the Latin American countries and colonies served by the international Pan American Airways System is served each day in the restaurant at the famous Miami airport, which the airways company operates. The chef was formerly cook for the emperor of Austria.

Women air travelers flying in and out of Miami, Florida, to and from Havana, Cuba, and other Latin American ports by Clipper planes are now totaling 2200 per month. Male Clipper passengers average 4,000 per month.

On the boundary line between Argentine and Chile in the wildest and most desolate part of both countries, stands the famous Christ of the Andes statue.

Dedicated to everlasting peace between the two nations, the mammoth monument is located at an altitude of 12,000 feet. For miles around there is only ice and snow and bleakness except for a Pan American-Grace Airways weather station which sits but a few hundred feet away. From here weather reports are flashed to the airliners which fly over the great Andes range on what has been termed the most spectacular air trip in the world.

Among distinguished Florida visitors making the half-day trip by air to Jamaica of late were: Major John A. Herbert, M. P., with his wife, Lady Herbert; Sir Phillip Sasson, M. P.; Mr. Anthony Wimbush of the British Air Force; Mr. Harold Mitchell, M. P.; Lord Beaverbrook, arrived in Lord Beaverbrook's private 'plane; Lord Forbes, arrived and departed in January; Lord Louis and Lady Mountbatten, (cousin to His Majesty the King); Madame Yvonne Letellier, Lady Doria Neumann, Sir Granville Bantock of The Royal Academy of Music, London; Major A. A. Nathan, owner of Nathan & Co., Ltd., Kingston; Mr. Wm. Bross Lloyd of Boston, Mr. A. J. Bailey, solicitor of Mandeville, Jamaica; Messrs. John Gosch and Fred S. Meyer, U. S. Distillers of N. Y.; Major G. M. Gamble of local military headquarters, Lt. Godfrey Pease of the Royal Air Force, Mr. John Vandercook, well-known novelist; Arthur Hendrix, U. S. tennis player.

REMINISCENCES OF GOLF

RESORTERS have enjoyed a world of sports activity the past few weeks, with internationally known stars in the realm of golf playing on the island links in spirited competition. Starting with the famed Artists and Writers tournament, which officially launched the important mid-season play, sports followers, of which there were many, were right on hand the next week to watch the nation's most prominent feminine linksters make the 18-hole trek over the Palm Beach Golf Club course.

In the Artists and Writers affair, Fred C. Painton, well-known writer from Westport, Conn., defeated the famed Rex Beach, veteran member of the illustrious contingent, and perennial runner-up, by the score of 4 and 3.

Painton, who also won the medal round, in the event, made a 37 on the back-nine, which was played first in true Artists and Writers style, to a 38 chalked up by Beach, leading 1 up at the turn.

Rube Goldberg, well-known cartoonist, won the second flight, defeating George Abbott, noted producer, 2 and 1, and Tom Webb, illustrator, defeated Herb Roth, prominent cartoonist, 5 and 3 in the consolation.

Passing on to the Women's Championship of Palm Beach, we find Kathryn Hemphill, top-flite feminine golfer from Columbia, S. C., pitted against Mrs. Helen Hockenjos of Lake Hopatcong, N. J., in the finals, which was carried to the 19th hole before Miss Hemphill won the title.

Miss Hemphill, who was semi-finalist in the Nationals at Memphis last summer, was 3 up on the 11th but lost her putting touch on the 14th to drop three in a row, Mrs. Hockenjos steadying to square the match on the 16th and halve the next two holes and force the match to 19th, where she missed the deciding putt to give the match to the Columbia, S. C., girl.

In the second flight finals, Miss Diana Fishwick, blonde and dynamic London golfer, who held both the British and French championships in 1933, but got off to a bad start in the qualifying round, defeated Miss Kay McCloskey of Pittsburgh, 6 and 5, making a 37, two over men's par on the out-nine.

Scene of the next week's tournament play, was the colorful Everglades Club course with Miss Jean Bauer, personable young Providence, R. I., golfer, and former New York State Amateur Champion, defeating Miss Sally Guth of Webster Grove, Mo., 1 up on the final green, after battling her way through a roster of seasoned tournament players.

Marking a high point in golf competition the next week, were the Annual South Florida Championships held at the Palm Beach Golf Club and the Third Annual Palm Beach Invitational Mixed Foursome tournaments at the Everglades Club.

Tommy Goodwin, Monroe, N. Y., golfer, won the South Florida event when he defeated Joseph H. Schenck, III, New York by the wide margin of 10 and 8, the match ending on the 28th green.

VETERAN RIVER MAN

CAPTAIN MOSES W. COLLYER, whose home is Chelsea, N. Y.—in Dutchess—President Roosevelt's home county, has just returned north after being a guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. McAllister, in their Palm Beach Hotel suite.

The Captain, though an octogenarian, is a practical sailor, having never lost touch with water sports and utilitarian activities along his native Hudson and elsewhere. Only last summer he won a river race with his speed boat "The Rival" against "The Pollywog," owned and manned by Russell Lent, Commodore of the Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Yacht Club. By this victory Captain Collyer protected the speed-boat cup for the Chelsea Yacht Club, of which he is Commodore-emeritus.

Captain Collyer is also a writer of parts. He is co-author with the late William E. Verplanck of a fascinating book entitled "The Sloops of the Hudson" (Putman Press), in which he describes the coming of the first Dutch sloop to American waters, and explains how for a number of years that type of sailing vessel was used as a carrier of produce up and down the Hudson. His father before him was a sloop owner. Captain Collyer followed in his footsteps and served all the way from a cabin boy on the sloop to owner of valuable packets.

The Captain was intensely interested in Palm Beach activities, especially the water sports. He and the McAllisters drove to the inlet frequently to see the fishermen bring in their hauls. He explained this interest by remarking: "I once was a sturgeon fisherman myself, you see."

Of keen interest to the eighty-year-old river man were the tides in Lake Worth. Laughingly he said with a twinkle in his very clear and keen blue eyes, "I suppose everybody down here knows that Lake Worth is really a part of the Atlantic Ocean, not a 'lake' really. The tides in Lake Worth, where one wouldn't really be looking for them, remind me of those on the Hudson. The sea, there, backs up or washes in as far north as Albany . . . it's salt water, too, up as far as Newburgh, almost across from Chelsea where I live."

Captain Collyer explained that in his boyhood the Hudson was always a busy trade thoroughfare because of the sloops. One of the sloop landings was at Chelsea, another—18 miles away was at Hyde Park, the ancestral Roosevelt estate. The house was then occupied by President F. D. Roosevelt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt. It is over 100 years old, and the President's mother resides there.

It is interesting to know that Captain Collyer remembers when F.D.R. was such a small lad that his father would lead him by the hand when they came down to the sloop landing. "I often saw them there," said Captain Collyer. "They used to enjoy watching ice-boat races between myself and companions and Franklin D.'s uncles. We often went up there to race those Roosevelts on the ice and tried hard to beat them but we never could," laughed the Captain.

"I am sorry," he concluded, "to go back North, but I shall certainly return next year. There's so much in Palm Beach to interest an old boatman like myself. I thought at first I would fly home, but after looking at a plane, decided I'd feel more comfortable on the Orange Blossom Special."

Mr. and Mrs. McAllister were driven down by their chauffeur from New York City, traveling in a leisurely way, taking six days for the trip. They are enthusiastic over the good roads, fine hotel accommodations and scenic beauties that feature the trip.

Mr. McAllister, like his father-in-law is a river man. He is manager of a line of passenger boats plying between New York City and the famous Bear Mountain recreation Park. He and Mrs. McAllister are ardent Palm Beach fans coming down each season and making the Palm Beach Hotel their winter home.

It is interesting to know that Dutchess County, so long the home of our present President, was frequently visited by the first president. Mr. Washington not only quartered Revolutionary troops near Fishkill in this county but also visited in Beacon and elsewhere. Perhaps the most noted mansion so visited was Mount Gulian, the ancestral home of Captain Collyer's collaborating author in "Sloops of the Hudson," Mr. Verplanck. The mansion which burned to the ground a few years ago, was located only about sixteen miles from the Roosevelt estate where another President of the United States was to be born.

This old home at Hyde Park is still the haven to which our president hies when weary of the many cares of the White House.

Letters received by the McAllisters from Captain Collyer since his return say the trip home was made in 26 hours from Palm Beach to New York City. "It is wonderful how easy it is to get to Florida these days," he said. "I shall certainly go back next year." Meantime this irrepressible river sportsman is preparing to enjoy some ice boating on the Hudson.

CAT CAY

DURING the last few years a resort, offering the ultimate in informal elegance, has zoomed over the horizon. This is Cat Cay, in the Bahamas, British West Indies, which was referred to by a recent sojourner there as "a choice bit of Eden set down in a sapphire sea. This description conveys in some degree a word picture of the alluring beauty of this Cay.

This coral isle, fringed by palm trees and laved by the glistening blue waters of the Gulf Stream, was once the cache for gold and jewels of the Spanish Conquistadores, as well as a rendezvous for notorious pirates, one of them being Sir Henry Morgan.

In the walled garden on the north end of the Cay is an old well, which tradition records, was dug by order of a Spanish King, so that it might be used as a repository for gold, silver and gems brought here from the coffers of the South American colonies. This accumulated treasure later was piled into large casks and placed in the holds of galleons and carried to Spain as a tribute to the Crown . . . that is if the expedition escaped the looting buccaneers infesting these seas at that period.

With the happenings of these early days a matter of history . . . and romance . . . Cat Cay, now a British possession, has taken its place in the tropic sun as an international playground of charm.

This resort in its short existence has attracted to its shores many colorful colonists from the various Americas, as well as from European countries. To become a guest here, one must be invited. Needless to say that invitations are sought by discriminating travelers.

Cat Cay is located fifty miles east of Miami, Florida. A thirty-five minute flight in a Pan American Clipper from Dinner Key in that city, brings the visitor to the landing place in Pirates Harbor. As the plane circles the isle before gliding gracefully down to the water, both the English and Colonial flags are seen floating in the tropical breeze, waving a welcome. Passing through the Custom House with brief formality, the guest soon is on this Bahaman isle.

Picturesque coral cottages with red tile roofs, with rooms en suite or single, offer hospitality to the sojourner . . . or if one prefers, headquarters may be made in the English Manor House.

Carved panels from an English monastery in the Tavern with its Kitten Cay Bar and Lounge accent the British theme of decoration. Here is installed an electric Hammond organ, and musical entertainment is offered daily. Dancing is often enjoyed in an adjoining terrazo patio. But before we leave this Bar, let us glimpse the sturdy chairs, brought here from English Pubs. What romantic tales they could relate if they could talk!

Skeet, tennis, croquet, quoits and bicycling over miles of palm-shaded concrete-paths are among the favorite pastimes at this resort. However, it is needless to say that game fishing in the encircling indigo waters of the Gulf Stream is the major sport at the Cay.

Fishing is excellent here at all times of the year for white and blue marlin, sailfish, wahoo, dolphin, bonita, kingfish, barracuda, mackerel, bonefish, amberjack, as well as many other varieties of tropical fish. A giant tuna run can be counted on each year from about May 15th until about July 1st.

While skill with the rod and reel is unquestionable an asset in bringing game fish to gaff, often a rank amateur by sheer luck is able to boat a monster of the deep. Such was the case in the latter part of January of this year, when Miss Frances Weir, a debutante from Steubenville, O., captured a 450-pound blue marlin. Aboard the Cruiser Sea Cat with Captain Fred Whitfield, Miss Weir was in a comfortable chair, dozing in the sun, when suddenly she had a strike . . . and whrrrrr away went her line. A battle of forty-two minutes ensued, packed with thrills, while the huge fish jumped and thrashed the water in an attempt to regain liberty, only to be finally brought back to Cat Cay pier as a trophy. A feature of this catch was the light tackle used by Miss Weir . . . a 9/0 Atlapac reel, 16 oz. saltaire rod and a 24-thread Tarpsail line. Miss Weir by this feat has been thrust into the international spotlight of game fishing circles, having gained thereby a woman's world record. The Rod and Gun Editors Association, New York, recently presented her with a citation and further honors await her in Miami Beach, where she is one of the leaders in the Annual Fishing Tournament, and at Cat Cay. A sequel to making this catch is that she and her mother, Mrs. David Manson Weir, who were relaxing at the Cay before taking off for a winter in Honolulu, changed their plans and are making the Everglades Club in Palm Beach their winter headquarters.

Many yachts have dropped anchor this season in Pirates Harbor at this resort, where they remain various periods, often making headquarters at the English Manor House. Among yachts there recently was the Rene with owners, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Sloan, Jr., New York, aboard; Mr. and Mrs. William B. Leeds, New York, with their newest 250-foot Moana recently terminated a 5,000-mile cruise from California through the Panama Canal with various side cruises at this resort. They, with their several cruise guests, enjoyed the hospitality of the Cay several days. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Ryan aboard their boat, Bidgee, while cruising the West Indies, joined the fleet in Pirates Harbor. Mr. Thomas M. Howell, Chicago, and Los Angeles, recently anchored his palatial yacht, Thalia, here. Lord Iliffe, Yattendon, N. R., Newbury, Berkshire, England, recently arrived at this Bahaman isle aboard the yacht Radiant. His cruise guests were Lady Napier, Colonel and Mrs. George W. G. Phillipi and Mrs. Effie P. Simmons, all of London. A feature of this port is the Marlin Clubhouse, which has been provided for the Captains of yachts and cruisers riding the waters in Pirates Harbor.

The English village on the Cay has several new homes completed during the past few months. "Glorious Pool" at the tip of the Cay is the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sears of Boston and Greenwich. They entertain frequently for their house guests, who come and go. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Durand, Rochester, N. Y., who are occupying their new house, frequently entertain there.

Viscount Almocaden, of Jarez, Spain, was a host earlier in the season at several parties in the Kitten Cay Tavern, followed by dinner in the Manor House.

The quaintness of this English isle is being preserved. Guests are frequently entertained by native colored Bahamians with their primitive songs and dances. The musical instruments are crude and are often made by these performers, many from reeds and gourds. On occasion, they go modern and give their version of the Big Apple. "Smoky Joe" and his Cat Cay Troubadors, as they have named themselves, afford amusing diversion, and are always anxious to display their artistry.

THE HOME OF MR. AND MRS. H. SEYMOUR SHONNARD, JR., ON LAKE WAY, WHICH IS ARCHITECTURALLY OF THE MODERN COTTAGE TYPE, SO POPULAR AT THIS TIME.

Spend the Spring in MIAMI and MIAMI BEACH

Let the Miami Biltmore be your host in Miami, the Roney Plaza in Miami Beach . . . where there's always something doing, something to amuse you . . . golf on the championship course of the Miami Biltmore Country Club . . . surf bathing on the private beach of the Roney Plaza Cabaña Sun Club . . . rare fun at the Sunday Water Carnivals of the Miami Biltmore Pools . . . deep-sea fishing at the Key Largo Anglers Club . . . gay afternoons at the races, with an aerocar to take you there and bring you back without cost . . . and a wealth of other vacation diversions.

Economies That Are Important

Under the unique policy of guest entertainment at both the Roney and the Miami Biltmore, you receive extraordinary value for your money—not only all the refinements of living in two of the world's greatest resort hotels, but also a complete vacation, all for the one cost of your accommodations.

Getting Around

When you're a guest of the Roney Plaza or the Miami Biltmore, you have the privilege of using without cost the private aerocar system—big, comfortable auto lounge cars—to take you to the resort activities beyond the hotel estates. Research shows that approximately one-third of the normal vacation expenses are for local transportation. Think what an economy this is for the Roney and Miami Biltmore guests!

Club Privileges

In addition to all the attractions on the hotel estates, guests in these hotels have membership privileges (after they have been approved by the membership committees) in the Miami Biltmore Country Club, Roney Plaza Cabaña Sun Club and Key Largo Anglers Club, without payment of initiation fees or dues. Think how this courtesy opens the door to all the fun in this glamorous playground!

Write or wire either hotel for rates, reservations and information.

UNDER THE STARS

MILES of wordage have been turned out this season anent the glamour and glitter of Palm Beach and most of the superlatives in the English language have been bruited about from typewriter to typewriter in the struggle to do justice to a description of the gaiety and color to be found in the world's premier resort . . . And I strongly suspect that the hitherto "Gentle" reader would like to arise in open rebellion against more superlatives no matter how aptly chosen they may be . . . So here's for a bit of missionary work in society scribbling . . . a society saga without superlatives.

Socially speaking, Palm Beach may or may not have found its stride, and the Anglo American colony here might possibly be larger than last year and then again it might not be . . . We do find it necessary to admit however, that everybody seems to be having a good time in Palm Beach this season . . . As a matter of fact there are times when I think that the smart set on the island are finding sun-bathing, golfing, yachting, swimming and night-clubbing almost as much fun as we scribblers claim for these pastimes . . . The after dark picture, for instance, is proving rather attractive to the resorters in Palm Beach, who, as usual, are going about from one house party to another, and generally winding up at either the Colony Club or the Patio.

Dining and dancing to Val Ernie's music at the Patio, and ditto to Al Donahue's dance rhythms at the Colony Club, continues to attract a representative crowd of socialites, with the latter club a bit more restrained in its gaiety than the Patio . . . At the Colony Club somehow, society is a bit more on its dignity both in dress and demeanour, with the smaller and more intimate Patio holding to its reputation as a rather care-free and soignee meeting place, where one need not stop one's chatter for pretentious floor-shows or lengthy entertainment.

At the Patio the only perquisite to an evening's entertainment is a gay crowd of friends and the ability to dance well to very good dance music . . . Occasionally, the management interrupts one's pleasant reminiscing with one's friends to suggest politely a game of "It's on the House" . . . but the slightest sign of annoyance on the part of the guest sends the questioner back to wherever it is that questioners go when they are rebuked . . . While, over at the Colony Club, these same representatives of the social world prefer to sit back and watch floor shows, totally ignoring any remarks their guests may care to make on any given subject . . . Such is the power of environment.

Prince Rospigliosi for instance, would never dream of singing Neapolitan love songs from his table at the Colony Club with the entire band grouped around his table . . . but at the Patio this popular nobleman does that very thing with or without the slightest provocation . . . Nobody ever saw Lillian Feitner making her friends laugh heartily with her Charlie McCarthy routine at the Colony Club . . . but the guests of the Patio have had many a chuckle over the lovely Lillian's tom-foolery . . . and so it goes, with Captain Cecil Boyd Rochefort, Woolworth Donahue and his brother, James H. R. Cromwell, Mrs. John Randolph Hearst, Wendy Iglehart, Theresa Schey, Muriel and Dorothy Richards, Peggy Seyburn, Prince Mikhail Goundoroff, the Marquis de Cuevas, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hill, Frances Munn, Mary Munn, George Baker, Pauline Munn Doyle, Miguel De Braganza, Rodman De Heeren, Pierre L. Barbey and any number of other socialites relaxing and having as much fun as high school children on a picnic at the Patio each night.

When Anne Carroll Meem and her twin-sister, Eleanor Eastbourne romp into the Patio their friends group around them and it looks like old home week . . . At the Colony Club recently they were greeted very demurely by Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean and Mrs. Cobina Wright and hardly a word was exchanged between the group while they sat back and enjoyed the very funny Hartmans in their nonsensical dance performance . . . Close by the McLean party was the Hon. Mrs. Frederick Guest and an interesting group of guests, who included Mrs. Marc Sevastopoulo, Mrs. Pauline Munn Doyle, Miss Frances Munn, Mr. George Baker, Mr. Chadwick Braggiotti, Mr. Miguel De Braganza, Lillian Feitner, Charles A. Munn, Jr., the Misses Muriel and Dorothy Richards, Mrs. Barclay Kountze Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. T. Dennie Boardman 2nd, Milton W. Holden, Mr. and Mrs. G. Huntington Hartford

MR. AND MRS. HERBERT TAYLOR

and Charles A. Munn, Jr. . . . The interchange of greetings between the two tables was friendly and gracious . . . no more . . . This same party at the Patio would have greeted one another as though they hadn't seen the others for at least two years.

Enough of this bragging about the joy de vivre atmosphere of the Patio and stressing the beautiful formality of the Colony Club . . . After all there are so many other things to talk about in Palm Beach . . . the entertaining of the J. Jay O'Briens at home and at the Colony Club and Patio . . . That every interesting party given by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence K. Jennings at the Colony Club for Mr. and Mrs. Duer McLanahan, Mr. and Mrs. Elrey Husted, Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Harding, Mr. and Mrs. James Noyes Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. William Seward Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Field and Mr. Witherbee Black, Jr. . . . That was a nice party given by William Cresswell at the same spot. His aunt, Mrs. James P. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. George Rich, Mrs. John W. Crowley, Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Graf, Mr. and Mrs. Edward U. Roddy, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. H. Mitchell Harper were the guests at this dinner gathering.

I love to pick an inconspicuous spot at the entrance of the Colony Club or the Patio and watch those long sleek automobiles slither to a stop at the porte cochere while the starter scurries over to open the door . . . One of my favorite cars (odd that I should think just now of the Queen of a benighted land, who was so naive as to say, yes, every time any of the subjects she called upon asked her whether or not she would like to have the object she was admiring at the moment. Necessitating incidentally a hurried hiding out of all of the family treasures when this ruler made her calls) . . . To get back to one of my favorite cars. That's a lovely Buick the G. Hunting Hartfords drive up to the Colony Club . . . Then there are the imported jobs which Peter A. B. Widener, Prince Rospigliosi and several others drive up to the door of the Patio . . . I've had my eye on several swank Cords, especially that one of Alex Richardsons (even if he did have to push it for three blocks the other night to get it started) . . . I like the rakish look of Eddie Shore's special-built Buick, with its red and my eyes water when I see Mrs. Joseph Moran's underslung roadster, leather upholstery and blue chassis . . . and why go on . . . It's like pricing champagne and then stopping in at your favorite lunch wagon for a bottle of beer . . . Henry I. Barbey can have that pint-sized Austin he is so proud of . . . I'll stick to my antique Chevrolet . . . At least there's no danger of being run down by a urchin on a bicycle.

I notice Elliot Sperber is still squiring the beauteous Anita Colby to the Colony Club and will be glad when Sonia Phipps gets over her illness so that I can watch this youthful beauty dance with Peter Strassburger on Gala Nights . . . Both of them are a credit to their teachers, the Herbert Taylors . . . McClelland Barclay seems to be dodging many of his fair friends since he was selected as one of the judges in the recent Gala at the Colony Club, which found Mrs. Clifford Warren Smith chosen as the properly-gowned woman at the club on that night . . . After all there are so many well-gowned women in Palm Beach it is a thankless job trying to designate any one of them as the (musn't say the naughty word) gownned.

Some dazzli . . . (Oh! oh! I almost slipped in a superlative) . . . Let's begin again . . . Some good floor shows at the Colony Club these days . . . It all started after the Kiwanis Benefit . . . Hal LeRoy showed guests at the Colony Club why he is called the (—st) tap-dancer in the world.

Clothes are a potent form of self-expression.

By a natural law of life we are at our best when most ourselves.

The supreme art of the tailor, not only covers the body with grace and fitness, but releases personality. Thus it comes about that by your dress shall you be known.

Yet to realize this consummation your garments must be designed for your individual needs.

Jolly Roger Cruises

It's down with the blues and up with the Jolly Roger of Happy Vacation Days if you're planning on cruising the isles of the West Indies this season. Nature never devised a more colorful, more romantic spot than these Jewels of the Caribbean . . . Haiti, Jamaica, Santo Domingo, . . . the music of whose very names conjures up the glamour and excitement of Old Spain, the Conquistadores, and the Buccaneers who sailed the Spanish Main.

Other sun-drenched tropical ports are also calling from the ancient lands of Mexico, Central America and South America . . . Cartagena, Curacao, Colon, and a host of others. We will be happy to give you complete information on all the latest cruises and itineraries to these glorious ports of call, as well as make all arrangements . . . including tickets, reservations, hotel accommodations, and sightseeing trips. More than meets the eye

LOOK at it. You are impressed with its size and majesty and grace of line. Sit in it—your appreciative eye finds it faultless in all its appointments. But to measure the merits of the Buick LIMITED you must drive it. For the most surprising thing about this arresting car is its brilliance of behavior. Faster on the take-off, lighter in all its handling, smooth with a fluid ease exclusive to Buick alone, it is nimble as no car of its size has been before. Add that to its stunning style and to its luxurious roominess and you have the reason why you'll fail to match its value elsewhere within a thousand dollars of its price.

"Better buy Buick!"

It's Smart to Ride a Bike

It's not just the added chance it gives you to wear fetching togs, nor the fact that it "does things" for your figure. It's not merely that it offers such handy transportation—goodness knows we manage to get about, one way or another, anyhow. It's the downright fun of it that's made riding a bike catch on the way it has—made it so definitely smart and so very much the thing to do. Riding a bike is a vogue that is here to stay—
it's high time you rode one of your own!

The white West Indies sun welcomes you to another British Colonial day, lazy or packed with action. Your favorite sports are here splendidly provided, within the hotel estate or elsewhere on the 20-mile-long island. The soft West Indies moon brings vivid nights—the compelling swing of modern music in the British Colonial's grill, the primitive beat of Grants Town drums as natives dance the jungle "goombay", the sophisticated excitements of the casino . . .

This winter, taste the rich pleasures of a British Colonial Holiday—overnight from Miami by sea, or two hours via daily airliner. For information telephone the Miami office at 4-1661, or consult any travel agent.

AMONG THE PALMS

THE BREAKERS is experiencing one of the most active seasons in its history. Since its opening in the first weeks of December The Breakers has been host to scores of nationally and internationally known figures and during the last few weeks the house count has exceeded all records.

Especially popular this season has been the attractive Cocoanut Grove, where dancing to the music of Walter Miller and his orchestra is held three times daily. Many gay parties are always in evidence here at the pre-luncheon social hour, the daily tea dances and the regular evening dance. Featuring the tea dance is the performance of the Big Apple and La Conga under the direction of Mr. C. C. Roberto and Miss Lilyan Piccoli, which continues to attract participants and spectators. Among those who have entertained at tea recently are: Mrs. Robert A. Kennedy, Mrs. Dean C. Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whelan, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sills, Mr. and Mrs. George Tipling, Mrs. Paul Healy, Sir Robert and Lady Falconer, Mr. and Mrs. Ray F. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Victor D. Barbour, and Mr. and Mrs. John T. Beatty. Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Gayle Rosson, whose guests were: Mrs. John M. Gray, Mrs. M. Bingham Plunkett, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bode, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Many resorters are arriving to enjoy the remainder of the season in Palm Beach, before continuing their northward trek, making the charming Vineta Hotel their headquarters.

Davis of Oak Park, Ill., and Mr. J. C. Warren, Chicago.

Mrs. George White Baxter of New York and East Hampton, L. I., for many years a winter resident here, celebrated her eightieth birthday anniversary recently with a large dinner at the Cottage Restaurant. Mr. H. H. Vreeland acted as toastmaster for the notable occasion. The table was attractively decorated with rare orchids sent down from the famous collection of Mrs. Albert C. Burrage of Boston, and Mrs. Baxter served the beautiful cake with its eighty candles.

Joining her for the birthday celebration were, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Beadleston of Hewlitt, L. I., and Mrs. Russell Burrage of Boston. Mrs. Baxter is passing the season at The Villas on Worth Avenue, but formerly was an annual guest at The Breakers with the late Mr. Baxter.

COTTAGE COLONY SOCIETY LIFE

IN THIS, the next to the last issue of Palm Beach Life for the current season, it might be interesting to look back for a moment to consider events and circumstances which from one point of view have made this year one of the most unusual in the history of the resort. The underlying theme of most activities this season seem to lean to the serious side, whether artistic, social or otherwise. Without a doubt most colonists have been busier than ever before with their pet projects and whatever the nature, they have claimed an unusual amount of time and effort.

The Everglades Club, always a setting for several outstanding social events during the season, gave us this year the All-American Ball, successfully staged by Mr. Hugh Dillman, president of the club. Mrs. Alexander M. Hadden and her capable committee of leading resort hostesses worked for weeks on the "Night of Nations," a pageant held last week at the club which ranked as one of the most beautiful and interesting programs ever witnessed in Palm Beach. Among those who entertained guests for the evening were, Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, honorary chairman of the pageant; her associate, the Honorable Mrs. Frederick E. Guest; also Mr. and Mrs. W. McMaster Mills, Colonel and Mrs. John B. McLean, Miss Bell Gurnee, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Eppley, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Loening, Mrs. Alfred Lustig, Mr. and Mrs. E. Victor Loew and many others.

The Society of the Four Arts with its well-rounded program, has contributed greatly to cottage life in inspiration, recreation and education. Exhibits of Art and Sculpture have been numerous there, and the drama committee has sponsored several interesting events, including the presentations of the Jitney Players, and a marionette show. Mrs. Grover Loening is chairman of the music committee of the Four Arts Society, which first brought to Palm Beach a concert by the Miami University Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Arnold Volpe, and last week presented Beveridge Webster and Gerald Warburg at the Paramount theatre. The permanent gardens, which have been developed in the grounds of the building, will be of interest and benefit to many home owners in the surrounding community. The success of the last flower show held at the building of the Society is perhaps largely responsible for Palm Beach's first representation at the New York Flower Show, which opened this week in the Grand Central Palace. Mrs. Alfred G. Kay, president of our Garden Club, is now in New York supervising arrangements for the exhibit. She is being assisted by Mrs. Horace Hutchins Work, Mrs. David Hugh McCulloch, Mrs. Daniel J. McCarthy and Mrs. Wiley R. Reynolds, all well-known members of the Palm Beach winter colony.

For the past fortnight methods of raising funds to build and equip the new Convalescent Home has been the main topic of conversation at dinners and cocktail parties, with everyone working overtime on tag day and the Orange Blossom Ball at the Colony Club. Mrs. R. Stuyvesant Pierrepont, winter resident here for many years, is the guiding light in the project and has received the wholehearted co-operation of the colony. Mrs. J. Jay O'Brien was chairman of the committee and has been assisted by such well-known resorters as Mrs. Dodge Sloane, Mrs. Wesson Seyburn, Mrs. Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, Mrs. Cyrus Miller, Mrs. Henry K. Harding and Mrs. Henry Ittleton. In a like manner society women were in a large measure responsible for the success of the annual drive for funds for the Good Samaritan Hospital this year, under the direction of Mrs. Bernard H. Kroger; and the Tropical Ball at the Palm Beach Biltmore for the benefit of the Children's Milk Fund. Miss Mary Munn acted as chairman of this latter event and was ably assisted by a committee of Palm Beach matrons and debutantes.

Fashion Shows by the dozen have captured the attention of not only milady, but the audience has often included a large representation from the Old Guard Society of Palm Beach Golfers and from the Tuesday Card Club.

Romance has played an important role in the news of Palm Beach this season, and a week rarely passes that does not bring the announcement of a marriage or betrothal. Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Nelson Tevander of Palm Beach and Lake Geneva, Wis., recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Althea Tevander to Mr. Gilbert G. Drake, son of Mrs. Neil C. Drake of Comelybank, North Lake Trail, and Maplewood, N. J. The announcement was made at a luncheon given on March first, at the Tevander home on Barton Avenue. The prospective bride and her fiancé are popular members of the younger set here and have almost grown up in the resort. Mr. Drake is a well-known sportsman, who passes the greater part of the year in the south on fishing and hunting expeditions. Their marriage will be an event of early December at the church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea.

The marriage of Mrs. Harvey Hubbell of Bridgeport, Conn., and Mr. James T. Roche of Fairfield, Conn., took place here last Monday and the couple will pass the remainder of the season at The Breakers. The bride has visited here annually for many years, as the guest of Mrs. Earle Perry Charlton at her Ocean Boulevard home. Mr. Roche, prior to his retirement, was vice-president of the Locomobile Company of America.

The long-awaited arrival of Mrs. Vincent Astor finally came to pass a few days ago and the well-known social leader is now the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Barry Ryan, Jr., at their ocean front home. Mrs. Astor is well known for her charities and annually serves as chairman of the Musicians Emergency Fund. Mr. Astor visited here earlier when he joined his mother, Lady Ribblesdale, at Brazilian Court. Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, who paid a brief visit to Palm Beach several weeks ago, has returned from Nassau and is now with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps at Heamaw for an extended sojourn. Her daughter, Mrs. Howell van Gerbig (Dorothy Fell) and Mr. van Gerbig are occupying a house here this season. The T. Markoe Robertsons have been making the rounds visiting first with Mrs. James P. Donahue, then Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Blair and finally with the J. Gordon Douglasses. The Harry Payne Bingham have now joined her sister, Mrs. Blair and Mr. Blair at their beautiful home.

Popular additions to the younger set in Palm Beach were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson Magowan (Doris Merrill) of San Francisco who are here to visit her father, Charles E. Merrill at his picturesque lake front home, Merrill's landing. Mrs. Magowan before her marriage two years ago was a member of the young set at the Bath and Tennis Club.

The Drayton Cochrans are established for a sojourn at Thatch Cote which they leased from Mrs. Benjamin Rogers. After spending a few days with Mrs. Myron C. Taylor, Mrs. Rogers returned with her hostess to New York. The G. Huntington Hartford villa is being occupied during their absence on a cruise, by Horace Luttrell of Washington, D. C.

TASTES AND TOILETTES

MAKING much of fashions is woman's heritage, and the height of the season finds the styles decidedly playing up to Spring. For day-time, the little suit, with a varied type jacket is much in evidence, and because of the vogue for shorter, pleated and flared skirts, which often show the petticoat when the figure is in motion, colored taffeta petticoats are being worn to match the accessories of the costumes. For evening, gowns are of fragile materials, made with gentle fullness and many of them horizontally trimmed.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

For the many gala occasions which have marked luncheon, tea and dinner, the socially prominent members of the winter colony have been attired in charming ensembles, many of which will set the pace for summer fashions in the north.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Miss Theresa Schey was attractively attired on a shopping tour several days ago, in a peasant costume, which featured a light blouse with a low round neck, short sleeves, and a full dark skirt. Her wide sash and hand-bag were of colorful stripes, and her shoes, the popular Mexican huaraches.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Edgar Garbisch, at the Kiwanis Benefit, was stunningly gowned in very sheer black lace, styled in the very newest manner, with a long tight bodice, joined to a very full skirt. The heart-shaped decolletage had a narrow halter of flesh chiffon.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. M. Dorland Doyle affected the new slinky type of evening gown for the Kiwanis Benefit, which was of black sheer crepe, with a shirred bodice and narrow shoulder straps. Her wrap was of silver fox.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Gilbert H. Miller wore for shopping on Worth Avenue recently a spectator sports dress of white with colored buttons, and trimmed in navy blue. Her sweater and accessories were of navy blue.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Miss Muriel Richards chose for the Kiwanis Benefit one of the black and white combinations for evening, with a black crepe tightly-fitted skirt, a bodice of white pique, pleated at the shoulders and with a low back.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Henry A. McSweeney, also a guest at The Breakers, was costumed at the Everglades Club one evening in a gown of white taffeta, with butterfly motifs on the full skirt. Bodice and puffed sleeves were studded in rhinestones. With it she wore a coronet of pearls and sequins, and her full-length wrap was of ermine.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Frederick Johnson shopped on Worth Avenue a week or so ago, in an attractive gray cotton print, made on peasant lines, with a full skirt and a tight bodice piped in red. Her accessories were also of red.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Lady Prescott, who, with her husband, Sir George, is a guest of the Philip Hills, was seen at the Palm Beach Biltmore

one morning wearing a white skirt, with a red, white and blue striped sweater. Her shoes were red and white and she wore a red ribbon bow in her hair.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Clifford Lilley, who is a guest at The Breakers, was attractively attired for luncheon at the Boca Raton Club several days ago, in a blue and white spectator sports frock, made with a flared skirt and blouse having the new vest front and short sleeves. Her hat, shoes, and other accessories were of dark blue.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Charles Lambert was attired for dinner at the Palm Beach Biltmore a week or so ago in a lovely gown of chiffon, printed in pastel shades, with green predominating. It had a gracefully full skirt and blouse with long sleeves and V front, at which she wore a handsome diamond brooch.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas was seen at the Palm Beach Biltmore recently dressed for morning, in a gray printed dress, which had a pleated skirt and shirtwaist top. With it she wore several handsome heavy gold link bracelets.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. McAlpin Bell shopped on Worth Avenue not long ago, in a very smart slacks costume of the popular hop-sacking, the trousers dark, with slanting patch pockets, the tucked-in shirt of a lighter color and also with slanting patch pockets.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Miss Shirley McAlpin Bell shopped with her mother in one of the peasant frocks so popular with the younger generation. The background was dark, printed in white, the skirt flared, with box pleating of the material around the bottom. The same trim was used around the collarless round neck and puffed sleeves, and the belt was a heavy cord with tassel ends.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. W. Douglas Burden was apparently headed for the beach recently as she entered her car carrying one of the large new beach bags, with her sweater nonchalantly draped through its handles. Her slacks costume had a tuck-in shirt with a colorful scarf around the neck, and she wore with it a huge Mexican sombrero.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Bryan de F. Sheedy, who is the guest of the H. Seymour Shonnards, is quite a tennis enthusiast. She was seen on the Everglades Club tennis courts several days ago wearing white sharkskin shorts and a tailored shirt in a pastel shade. White tennis shoes completed her play suit.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. R. Stuyvesant Pierrepont chose for her daytime wear at home several days ago, a very attractive printed dress with a dark ground and the flowers in white. The skirt was flared, the blouse had shirrings of the material down the shoulders, around the short sleeves, and looped at the V front. Her accessories were a handsome triple strand of pearls and pearl ear-rings.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

HAIR STYLES AND COLORING

RAJAH RABOID, crystal gazing over at the Patio, can see right through swathings of adhesive tape and cotton. If we femmes could only borrow his X-ray eyes for an hour, we could see through the blindfolds of self-deception and realize just how awkward and untidy we look with long bobs cluttering up our neck-line and going scraggly between our weekly trips to the hair-dressers.

Joan Clair, the youthful, vibrant president of Clairol, Inc., talking over the sea-food cocktails at the Patio, put on a little crystal-gazing act concerning hair grooming for the woman-of-the-minute.

"Shorter hair isn't just on the way," she said, tilting her head to show her own clean-as-a-whistle neck-line. "It's here." "You think it's made me look younger? Well, so does my fourteen-year-old son. But that's not a patch on the way it's made me feel . . . like a bird on the wing."

This is diametrically opposite to the belief to which so many thirtyish and fortyish women are clinging—that is, that a Hollywood shoulder-length bob makes them look like the belles of the screen. Anything but. On the contrary, the chic new coiffures, fluffed above the ears to give flattering fullness about the face, beautifully swirled in back, are definitely youthful.

With that off her chest, Joan Clair proceeded to give the latest angles on that subject-of-the-minute—color in hair—on which she is the leading authority in the United States. They go together—youthful hair-styling and youthful hair-coloring.

"You've been saying to yourself, 'Why isn't there some simple way for me to have my own natural hair-coloring intensified and heightened without having a major operation performed?' That's just what Clairol has done for you in our new personalized color-shampoo. Starlight, for instance, is simply divine for women with naturally white or gray hair. Dawn is lovely for ash blondes, giving lustre and highlights without brilliance."

So much for the younger women who have no gray hairs to worry about. But what about the gray hair that has already arrived and which is adding years to the appearance of women who could otherwise easily pass for ten or twelve years less than their actual age?

Joan Clair is practically spending her life in taking that worry out of other women's lives. She did it for herself, some eight years ago. To look at her lustrous chestnut waves today, you would never dream that almost one-fourth of it would now be gray if she hadn't discovered Clairol over in France at just the psychological moment.

"No woman can help being startled when the realization first sweeps over her that she is getting gray. It is a moment as personally significant as her first proposal. But unlike the proposal, it brings anguish to her heart and wrinkles to her brow.

"This crisis in life is being smoothly passed over by thousands of women every day through the constantly increasing acceptance of Clairol. They scarcely have to acknowledge the gray hair to themselves, let alone their husbands."

Before the discovery of the Clairol formula, based on a blend of pure vegetable oils, one of the deadliest arrows that could be aimed by one woman at another's defenseless head was to assert, "She dyes her hair!" Even from the most malicious intentions in the world, this fearful indictment was rarely spoken above a whisper. Such precaution was hardly necessary, though, because her shame was obvious enough for all the world to read. Thanks to the perfecting of this original formula by years of research on the part of highly trained scientists, it is almost impossible to tell when a sensible, modern-minded woman stops letting nature take its course and starts Clairoling her hair.

After a few treatments, she finds that she is actually abetting nature, because at the same time the deadening gray is being superseded by life-like color, her crowning glory is being subjected to restorative, reconditioning oil treatments. Many women who can't be bothered to take a special course of oil treatments practically have this beneficial process forced upon them when they decide to keep their hair as youthful as their complexions, figure and spirit by Clairoling the gray.

Up-to-date mothers, too, have found that they can retain the sunshiny glow of their small daughters' natural blond hair by giving them regular semi-monthly Clairol reconditioning oil shampoos, using the Progressive rather than the Instant form.

Here are a few other hints garnered from Joan Clair's sheaf of beautifying knowledge. Women who have been bleaching their hair not wisely but too well should have a few reconditioning Progressive Clairol treatments before their permanent wave.

This same reconditioning Clairol is marvellous for use right here at the sea-shore, where everyone lolls about on the beach, hatless and careless of consequences to their sun-dried locks.

So. Now you've had your permanent, and your favorite hair-stylist has snipped and sheared and shaped your head into a glorified, up-to-the-minute coiffure.

MRS. JOAN CLAIR GELB

GENTLEMEN FARMERS

AS A RENDEZVOUS for celebrities, Palm Beach takes second place to none. Singers, writers, artists, opera stars, flyers, speed boat aces, movie stars, actors, radio celebrities, business tycoons, diplomats, ministers, and yes . . . farmers! Or should we say more explicitly, "Gentlemen Farmers!"

For these gentlemen are a long way from the getting-up-before-dawn, drawing-water-from-the-well, and hog-calling type of folks that we usually think of as farmers.

Ye northerners! Have you ever seen tomatoes grown in the middle of the winter or broccoli and strawberries blossom in the season of ice and snow? As honey goes with bees and fish with water so should the land of perpetual summer merge with a land of perpetual farming to create one of the most glorious farm lands of our country. For after all, we do have to eat. Ladies and gentlemen . . . let's go west . . . over flat low ground by mystical cypress swamps. (By the way, cypress growth and high pines are excellent indications of good soil) to about one mile south of the West Palm Beach canal and one-half mile west of Military Trail to "Sandy Loam," an ultra modern, beautifully landscaped, one hundred and sixty acre farm belonging to Mr. Hugh Dillman. It seems a veritable oasis with its beautiful buildings, wide lawns, glimmering pools and artistic gardening. Great Danes add a sophisticated touch. Mr. Dillman specializes in cut flowers, the principal ones being gladioli and roses. A few vegetables are cultivated there and "Sandy Loam" also boasts of a poultry department. Mr. Dillman has secured practically every known variety of pineapple slips, and has had excellent success in their propagation so far.

"Playa Rienta" is the home of Mr. Dillman in Palm Beach, on North Ocean Boulevard. He has two yachts, "Delphin," a steam yacht, and "Anna," a power yacht. Mr. Dillman is president of the Everglades Club and also belongs to the Bath and Tennis, the Seminole, and the Gulf Stream of Palm Beach. His other club interests are divided between Grosse Pointe, the Scioto Country, Columbia Yacht, the Old Club, Country, Lochomoor, Bloomfield Hills, Colony and Montauk Yacht.

Whatever the connection is between toothpaste and farming, Mr. Kenneth G. Smith, President of the Pepsodent Company, must have found it. Fancy Lady Cow rolling her own with a toothbrush or the little piggie of song fame going to market for a basketful of mouthwash! Mr. Smith has a much improved farm northwest of Boynton, about two miles north of Boynton and one-half mile east of Military Trail, of about one hundred acres and beautifully landscaped. About 40 or 50 acres of this is planted in citrus groves, the major fruit being temple oranges. Avocadoes, mangoes and some vegetables comprise the other crops of this well equipped farm. Mr. Smith comes from Winnetka, Illinois, to his home "Pino Torcido," on Via del Mar in Palm Beach. He finds the Everglades sufficient for his club activities, and he goes yachting on "KenKora II" a power yacht.

Ample rainfall, the proximity of the Gulf Stream, the accurate reports of the weather bureau, a comparatively frost-free are "cash market" platforms, water controls to impound water and prevent overdrainage, large pumping plants to pump the necessary water from the fresh water lakes back into the canals and laterals as a safety measure against overdrainage, abnormal dry weather, seepage, and evaporation . . . these factors contribute to the production of large average crop yields.

The fascination of the good earth also claims Mr. I. Sheldon Tilney of The Terraces, Llewellyn Park, Orange, N. J.; 430 Park Avenue, New York City, and Pendleton Avenue in Palm Beach. Mr. Tilney's farm is located on the Range Line canal about one mile south of the West Palm Beach canal. Here are three hundred and sixty acres of very real and practical farming. This is only one of many farms owned by Mr. Tilney. In Minnesota, alone, he has thirty-six farms in operation. The entire farm here is provided with drainage and irrigating ditches, with dikes placed where necessary. Two pumping units are so arranged that they can be used either to lower the water level in their own ditches in wet weather or pump water from the equalizing canal into their ditches in dry weather. The two pumps have a capacity of 10,500 gallons per minute. Mr. Tilney has also purchased just recently about half a section and plans to have this additional three hundred and twenty acres in cultivation in the very near future. He is a very good manager and is making quite a success of his farm. Tomatoes, lima beans, peppers, squash and eggplant are the principal crops. There are about 1500 lime trees on his farm. The University of Florida Experiment Station is responsible for the recent installation of a U. S. Weather Bureau minimum thermometer at the Tilney Farms. This, and five other thermometers placed at various points in the East Coast Farm area are additions to the equipment of the Weather Bureau frost warning service.

MILTON HOLDEN'S Philadelphians redeemed themselves for several smarting defeats when they nosed out Woolworth Donahue's New Yorkers by the close score of 11 to 10 in the Twenty-Eighth Annual Society Baseball game, played for the benefit of the Palm Beach Police Pension Fund on the Poinciana field, before a smart crowd of resort socialites.

Two homers gave plenty of pep to the game with Earl Blair scoring a homer in the first inning and Bill Kohler knocking one out of bounds in the second, the bases being full each time.

Two double plays also gave the fans plenty of thrills, with Wolfe of the Phillies picking up a fast one, lining it to van Gerbig on second who threw to Holden on first, and Bob Sweeney, British amateur champion, on third for New York, featuring in the other. He stopped a line drive to wing the ball to Syd Smith, who tossed it to Wooly Donahue on first, to retire the Phillies in the sixth.

Mr. E. T. Stotesbury appeared to toss the traditional first ball at the game with Mayor Owens on the receiving end. Umpire Charlie Connelly, former big league mentor, took his position behind the plate, with Eddie Zimmerman covering the bases from first, shouted "play ball," and the game was on.

Four runs were tallied by the New Yorkers in the first frame, when Blair poked out his homer with the bases groaning, but the Phillies staged a rally in the same inning to chalk up seven singles, a two-bagger and a three-bagger, to make it seven markers.

In the second inning the Phillies made for more runs on Kohler's homer to a goose egg for the Gothamites.

The New Yorkers staged a comeback in the third as the result of a three-bagger by Dolly Stark and a single by Sweeney after Donahue walked for his third time at the bat.

There were no results in the fifth and sixth, both pitchers doing a swell job, Wooly Donahue making a spectacular catch, which was marked by one equally as thrilling by McClain, New York catcher.

Playing an air-tight brand of ball in the seventh, the New Yorkers tried desperately to gain a margin but succeeded in bringing in only one run after Gilbert Kahn, Earl Smith and Wertheimer clouted singles, with Kahn crossing the home sack on a line drive by Donahue to end the game.

Adding a note of harmony to the affair were the dulcet notes rendered at the piano by Lew Springer of Val Ernie's orchestra, and orchestral innovations by Micky, Johnny and Joe of Wert's Three Bad Habits. Eddie Reeves did a fine job of managing for the New Yorkers, while William Rhineland Stewart officiated for the Philadelphians. Larry Fuller managed everything and did a fine job, while Chief Borman was on hand to count the dough, which added up to $535.00, not counting checks that are expected to be sent in by those who left early or could not attend.

Members of the contribution committee who passed through the stands included: Mrs. William Rhineland Stewart, Mrs. Horace H. Work, Mrs. Pauline Munn Doyle, Mrs. Lawrence C. Fuller, Miss Phyllis Dickinson, Miss Frances Munn, Miss Peggy Seyburn, Miss Mary Munn, Mrs. Edmund Thayer, Mrs. Joseph Thayer, Miss Anne Krumbhaar, Mrs. Anson Hard, Mrs. Marc Sevastopoulo, Lady Willmott Har-sant Lewis and Miss Dorothy Richard.

AN IMPOSING VIEW OF THE FRONT ENTRANCE OF WHITEHALL, SHOWING THE ORIGINAL BUILDING WHICH WAS FORMERLY THE HOME OF THE LATE HENRY M. FLAGLER. THE HOTEL IS ONE OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL IN THE SOUTH AND IS THE RESORT RESIDENCE OF MANY PROMINENT FIGURES IN SOCIETY AND INDUSTRY.

WHITEHALL

THE tea dansant in the Jardin Royal of Whitehall continues to be the most popular daily event of the hours between 5 and 7 in Palm Beach during the month of March. John Philip Sousa, 3d and his Whitehall orchestra, the singing of Cobina Wright, Jr., and Alexander Gray, and the dancing of Miss Marion Wilkins and Jack Walters each afternoon draws young and old to Whitehall.

March with its perfect Palm Beach weather has brought many northerners down for the late season at Whitehall.

Beatrice Lillie, most famous English musical comedy star, is taking a respite from her stage duties at Whitehall, where she is the guest of Mrs. Cobina Wright. Miss Lillie, in private life Lady Peel, is being feted at a round of parties by her many friends in the Palm Beach colony.

Hal Pfyfe, famous artist whose sketches in Esquire are the cause of considerable comment, is to be a guest for the rest of the month at the beautiful hotel, which was the former Henry M. Flagler residence.

Bernard H. Ridder, publisher of the Journal of Commerce, is another New Yorker who will escape the wintry blasts of a northern March here.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Koeckert will arrive this week. Mr. Koeckert is managing director in the United States for the Commercial Union Assurance Company, Ltd., one of the largest British insurance companies.

Prominent visitors have included Francis B. Upham, Jr. and Donald Ross, both of New York City, who spent a greater part of their time last week with Walter P. Chrysler, who, with his wife, is at Whitehall for the month of March. The Chrysler's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Garbisch, are also at the hotel.

Among those who attended the Gypsy Carnival party given by Mrs. Cobina Wright at Whitehall in honor of Beatrice Lillie were: Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, who was hostess to five friends, Mrs. Hope Slater, Mrs. A. T. Hert, Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock, Mrs. Henry Morgan Tilford and Mrs. Henry R. Rea.

Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean entertained a party of twenty Saturday night at the gypsy carnival in honor of Lady Peel.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Phipps were in a party that included Mr. Phipps' brother, Ben Phipps, and other members of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Garbisch were present. Mrs. Garbisch is the former Miss Bernice Chrysler. In another party were Mr. and Mrs. A. Carver Livingston and Mr. Stewart Davis. Mr. and Mrs. Parker Bryant were there as were Mr. and Mrs. Ira F. Warner.

THE PALM BEACH BILTMORE

MID-MARCH has brought new impetus to the whirl of social activity at the Palm Beach Biltmore, which continues to hold "full house" for its guests. Most of the visitors at the hotel have been busy making preparations to attend the St. Patrick's Day "Back to Erin" party to be held in the Muleteer Grill of the hotel Thursday night, March 17.

The influx of new arrivals, who are here to spend the rest of the month on the sands of the Sun and Surf Club by day and in the Muleteer Grill by night has brought many interesting personalities to the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Soper of New York City arrived last week to spend the remainder of the season and another prominent couple are Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Marshall. Mr. Marshall is president of the Continental Baking Company.

From Pennsylvania have come Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McSoley of Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. John F. McGraw of Aspinwall, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Crock and Miss Bette Crock of Greensburg, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Howard of Harrisburg and others.

The Massachusetts colony has also grown considerably during the past week with the arrivals of J. H. Hand, Mrs.

L. H. Howe and Mrs. Paul Hildreth, all of North Falmouth.

Mrs. T. J. Courtney of Chicago, Miss Jane F. Crain of Evanston, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gambill of Oak Park, Mrs. Jane Haley of Chicago, and several others have joined the ranks of Illinois visitors at the hotel.

Visitors from across the seas who are vacationing in Palm Beach will celebrate the patron Saint's birthday in a setting as Irish as Killarney. Among the visitors from England and Canada, who will attend the "Back to Erin" party are Lord and Lady Milton, Miss Pamela Hunter, Lady Borwick and Sir Gordon Ley of London, England, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McKinnon, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Harris of Toronto, Canada, and Mrs. R. J. Cromie and Miss Grace Cromie of Vancouver, B. C.

Joining in the spirit of the party, guests will wear souvenir shamrocks as they dance Irish jigs to the music of Maximilian Bergere and his Palm Beach swing orchestra. Muleteer Grill, which opens onto the Infanta Garden Terraces, will be decorated with sprays of thorn, shillalahs and greens. A special floor show and dinner, featuring dishes of native Ireland, will carry out the theme of the party.

MIAMI

WITH the slight recession in festivities caused by the early days of Lent more or less overcome by now, the Miami season swings along at the same breath-taking pace which marked it early in the season as one of the gayest in many, many years.

At the tea dance this week in the palm gardens of the Roney Plaza Cabana Sun Club, a group of models showed early spring styles to one of the largest gatherings of the resort colony this season. Two orchestras played for the dancing, which lasted until dinner time and Eva Ortega, the continental singer, who made such a hit in Palm Beach this season, sang.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Babcock were among those entertaining large parties. Other hosts included, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Gray of Chicago, Mrs. Louise Dickinson Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brown, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel D. Bixby, Mr. and Mrs. David Williams, Mrs. Grace Wagoner, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Dillon, Judge Joseph Buffington, G. S. Wrightson, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keefe, Mrs. Edgar Franklin Shilts, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson Ostrander, Edward B. Jouffret, Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Norton, Miss Patricia Lane Welton and Mr. and Mrs. Lyons Burke.

The embryo Gar Woods and Sir Thomas Liptons had their innings here March 13, when they competed in the eighth annual Roney Plaza sailing regatta. More than 50 boats were entered in the competition for the Henry L. Doherty trophy cup.

In order that research into the mysteries of the malignant cancer might be furthered, society danced here recently for the benefit of the Cancer Clinic of the Jackson Memorial hospital.

Serving on the committee were, Mrs. Hicks Allen, chairman; Mrs. Charles D. Leffler, Mrs. John Norman, Mrs. Dale James, Mrs. Charles K. Weaver, Mrs. John S. Rentschler, Mrs. Homer Dickson, Mrs. Alexander Orr, Jr., Mrs. C. Larimore Perry, Mrs. Robert McConnell, Mrs. Charles Deering, Mrs. R. S. Hicks, Miss Mary J. Bennett, Miss Celia Perry and Miss Marie Sanders.

Glenn F. Ireton of New York, secretary of the committee, was in charge of the entertainment, which was featured by a dance contest, the final in a series, all of which have been for the benefit of the cancer clinic.

Much talent from the Greater Miami area was contributed for the occasion. Harry Richman, noted entertainer, raffled a group of celebrity dolls sent here by Miss Jeanette MacDonald, Gene Raymond, Miss Grace Moore, Freddie Bartholomew, and Joe Penner, the motion picture stars.

Among those who entertained large parties were Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson Ostrander, Saratoga, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Beemer, Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. K. T. Dodd, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Richards, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Disson and Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury Johnson.

Mrs. Thomas F. Kennedy of New York gave a dinner recently in the Viennese room of the Roney Plaza for a group of New Yorkers. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. William Alton Jones, Mr. and Mrs. William Shepard, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Adams, Mrs. M. W. Marvin and Miss Margaret Page.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Knapp of East Orange, N. J., also gave a dinner party for Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Sallade of Haddonfield, N. J.; Mrs. W. N. Knapp and Miss Mary Kennedy of East Orange and Mrs. Mary Chalman of Middletown, N. J.

Mrs. Hary Hull and Mrs. Claggett Wright, both of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. J. P. Smith of New York were the dinner guests of Victor Emanuel of New York.

Mrs. E. V. Babcock, who has been passing some time in Palm Beach, joined her husband at the Roney Plaza and was hostess at a dinner party, which included Prince and Princess Wolfe-Heinrich von Stolberg of Stolberg, Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander entertained Mrs. Roland Wright Smith and her son, Roland Wright Smith, Junior, Frank W. Lawrence and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Phipps Sanger.

Confetti, noisemakers, and paper hats, flaunting their streamers in the breeze, added a gala note to the dinner dance which took place here when Bob Hall, who composes rhymes on the spur of the moment, opened a two-weeks' engagement.

Many members of the colony were on hand to give a rousing welcome to this popular entertainer. Among them were Samuel D. Riddle, proud owner of War Admiral, Mrs. William Candler, Howell Ross Hanson and Mrs. Ada T. Sperl.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Hess of Summit, N. J., also gave a party for Mr. Hess' parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. I. Hess, of Summit.

PORTRAIT OF MARGUERITE AND MORGAN BROWNE OF NEW YORK WHICH IS IN CURRENT EXHIBITION BY PHILIP H. GIDDENS AT PRINCE GEORGE SCHERBA-TOFF'S SHOP. THEY ARE THE GRAND CHILDREN OF MR. AND MRS. DANIEL G. TENNY OF BREAKERS ROW.

Among other hosts were, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hector, Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Loomis, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wigglesworth, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Mangin, Newark, N. J.; Mrs. Constance Chambers, the noted artist from New York; Mrs. Thomas Clarke of Manhasset, L. I., and many others.

Among the distinguished guests at the Roney Plaza for a late winter vacation is Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson of Tulsa, Okla., and Washington, D. C., the national president of the American Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Lawson was here two years ago, when she presided at a national convention of her organization, more than 600 members being in attendance at the Miami Biltmore Country Club. This time she is here for a rest and is accompanied by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Lawson of Tulsa. The Babcocks gave a party for them recently. The guests were, in addition to Mrs. Lawson and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lawson, Mrs. Samuel Henger Campbell, Jr., of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Dixon of New Canaan, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brander of Tulsa and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Jr., of Atlanta, son-in-law and daughter of the hosts.

One of the loveliest luncheons given here recently was that of Mrs. George E. Trorey on the tropical terrace. Her guests were Mrs. Alphonse L. Bowes, Mrs. Hugh S. Larrick, Mrs. D. Ward White, Mrs. William Hosler of Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Mrs. Albert Kerr of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. George Ripley and Mrs. Louis Mooer.

Enjoy the best LIVING and playing in FLORIDA ... and still save Expenses!

Do you want facts? Figures? Accurate data on Florida vacations? We have them, and we want to share them with you, to help you plan your vacation budget—and to prove to you that THE BEST COSTS LESS, when you know how to get the most value out of your recreation dollar.

Economizing with low-priced hotel accommodations doesn't give you the most for your money, if you are the type who wants to enjoy all the sports and social interests.

We want to show you that by staying at one of the best hotels—either the RONEY PLAZA, America's finest ocean-front hotel, Miami Beach, or the MIAMI BILTMORE, center of the playtime world, Miami (Coral Gables)—you actually save on your normal vacation expenses!

Think what taxi fares alone cost you in any metropolitan area. When you're a guest here, you can eliminate this cost of going places, because there's always a private aerocar—auto lounge car—available to take you and your friends to all the centers of resort pleasure, WITHOUT CHARGE. This economy alone, our researches show, saves the average vacationist one-third of his normal expenses!

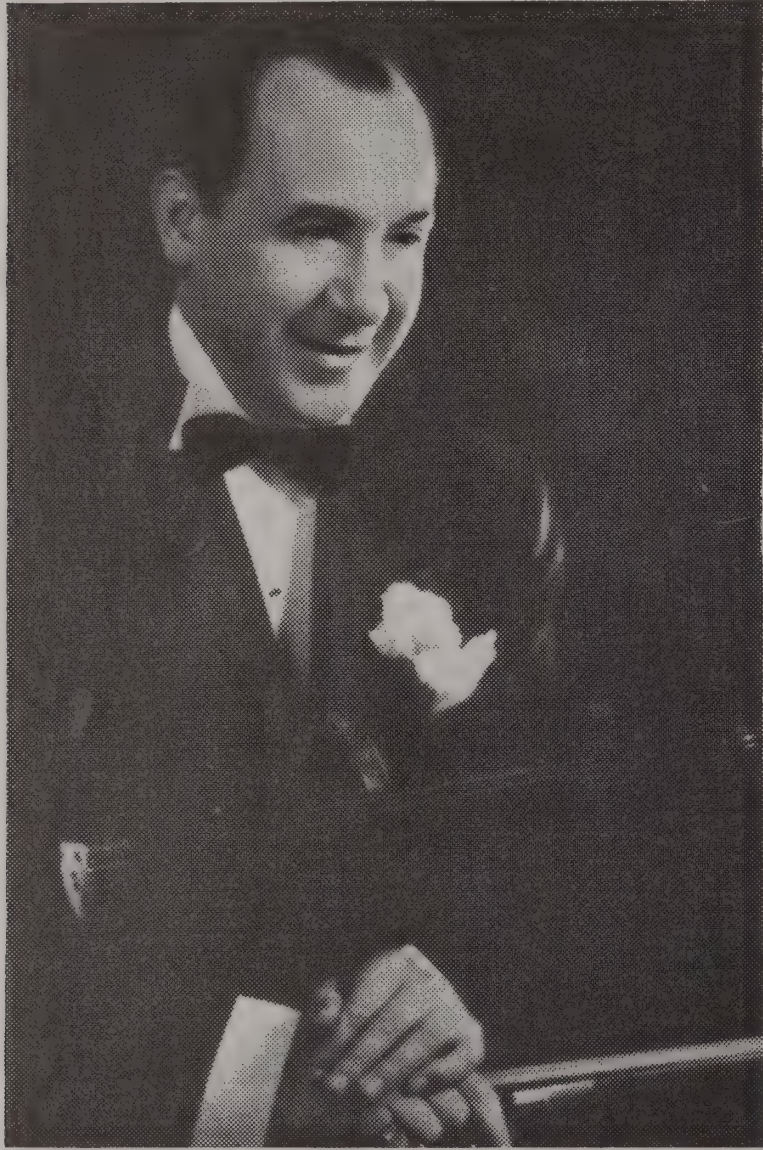

And that's just one of the many advantages offered by these celebrated hotels. Guest courtesies include membership, after approval by the membership committees, in three of America's smartest sports clubs. WITHOUT PAYMENT OF DUES OR INITIATION FEES. These clubs provide exceptional advantages for golf, fishing and surf bathing on a private beach—thousands of dollars' worth of facilities and privileges made available to you for the one cost of your hotel accommodations!

"The best costs less" isn't a paradox here. It's a fact. Acquaint yourself with the details of this revolutionary plan of resort living and playing.

UNDER THE STARS

MAYBE there is something to that old adage that there's nothing new under the sun . . . for after all how many times something happens, or is apparently originated, that seems as new as the China Clipper, only to have the historians find that Herodotus, or King Tut, or one of those fuzzy old chaps whose names made news back in the days when a Sphinx was a peculiar shaped rock pile, instead of a Hollywood actress with size eight shoes, had done the identical thing some few thousand years ago . . . Now that they've proven more or less definitely that the ancients built sky-scrappers, flew through the air, (a dubious but interesting assertion) and did most of the things that we pride ourselves on having originated, I, for one, am prepared to grant that the statement that there is nothing new under the sun has some basis in fact . . .

However, I challenge even the scientists and historians to prove that there is nothing new under the stars . . . Try to find anything in ancient history approximating the complete transformation of the Colony Club recently into a fragrant orange grove for the Orange Blossom Ball . . . A complete miniature grove of orange trees was transplanted into the Colony Club for this night and the lovely gardens of the club were turned into a veritable bower of orange blossoms . . . Incidentally, everything leading up to this dazzling social function smacked of an innovation and maybe I'll question that old bromide after all . . . Surely Queen Isis nor any of the socialites of the dusty days thought of persuading the loveliest and most prominent ladies in the kingdom to sell little tags painted with orange blossoms (or the Egyptian equivalent in blossoms) to anybody who would donate any sum from a dollar to a thousand to the fund for the Convalescent home.

At least orchids to Mrs. R. Stuyvesant Pierrepont for her splendid work in putting over this humanitarian venture and to the island's leading figures who assisted her in making this drive a splendid success . . .

Captains in every sense of the world were Mrs. J. Jay O'Brien, Mrs. Henry K. Harding, Mrs. Sidney Piers, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Mrs. Lawrence Waterbury and Mrs. John M. L. Rutherford, who led an army whose equivalent has never been found . . . Who wouldn't surrender if they were confronted by fair warriors like . . . Lillian Feitner, Paulette Goddard, Jane Rovensky, Mrs. David Brooks, Sonia Phipps, Audrey Phipps, Mrs. Frederick Johnson, Mrs. Earl E. T. Smith, Mrs. John M. L. Rutherford, Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mrs. Wolcott Blair, Mrs. Zenas Sears, Mrs. Edward S. Beck, Kay McCulloch, Mrs. Jesse Spalding, Mrs. John Baldwin O'Day, Mrs. Robert McCoskry Butt, Mrs. Robert L. Aste, Edna Brokaw, Mrs. Messmore Kendall . . .

Mrs. William Royster Johnson, Mrs. Lawrence (Chip) Robert, Mrs. Walter D. Randall, Grace Amory, Anne Liese, Mrs. Angus Morrison, Mrs. L. O. Peck, Mrs. John Randolph Hearst, Madame Stiassni, Mrs. Raymond Brook-Short, Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer, Peggy Seyburn, Mrs. Philip Hill, Mrs. Edward J. S. Donovan, Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller, Mrs. Halpine Smith, Mrs. Henry Ittleson, Mrs. Ada Greenbaum, Mrs. James B. Drew, Mrs. Johnson Gensler, Mrs. Howard Major, Mrs. Grover Loening, Mrs. Howell van Gerbig, Mrs. Marie Calhoun, Cobina Wright, Mrs. Nugent Head, Mrs. Henry Oliver Rea, Mrs. Frederick Alger, Mrs. Albert H. Schmidt, Mrs. Roscoe Anthony, Mrs. Gilbert Miller, Muriel Richards, Mrs. John Barry Ryan, Jr., Mrs. A. Putnam Humphries, Mrs. Bradford Norman, Mrs. Minola W. Bryant, Princess Odescalchi, Mrs. Blaine Webb, Mrs. Frederick Morrish, Mrs. T. Dennie Boardman, Countess di Zoppola and Mrs. W. Palmer Dixon.

These lovely ladies not only contributed generously of their time but were among the most generous of the financial contributors to the cause . . . The community will soon point with pride to a splendid Convalescent Home and they may well point with pride to a splendid group of warm-hearted socialites . . . Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury made one of her infrequent sallies into Palm Beach night life at the Orange Blossom Ball and was heartily greeted by her host of friends at the Colony Club on this night . . . Another gracious hostess was Mrs. Philip Hill, who seems destined to wear the mantle of the colony's most popular hostess . . . Mrs. J. Jay O'Brien was lovely as usual against the breath-taking background of orange blossoms.

Possibly some of the resorters did not show up for the Orange Blossom Ball at the Colony Club, but it seems doubtful when one scans the guest lists . . . Even Mr. Anonymous, who contributed so generously to the fund must have been there . . . Thousands of dollars were donated by this bashful gentleman in the person of several of Palm Beach's most prominent residents . . . We suspect who each of the grand people were who gave such staggering sums to the fund to take care of less fortunate people in the community . . . It seems to be the custom to give a nominal sum openly and a small fortune anonymously in Palm Beach . . . The longer I live in this place the more I wonder who could possibly try to tear down a government guided by such wholesome folks. No wonder we needn't worry about dictatorship or communism or any of the dreadful things that plague our continental neighbors.

Let's not get too serious with this page though . . . After all we're supposed to tell the world what a grand time society has in the world's premier winter resort, so . . . Everybody was glad to see Sonia Phipps up and about after her recent bout with illness . . . She and Peter Strassburger continue to do the Herbert Taylors credit with their dazzling footwork on the dance floor . . . If Morris Legendre ever decided to become a professional dancer I think he'd land on Broadway in a hit in less than a year . . . Saw Morris Legendre and Lillian Feitner tripping the airy fantastic at the Patio the other night and they were rhythm personified . . . Laddie Sanford, bronzed and healthy, with his lovely wife, back from playing polo with the Maharajah of Jodphur's team in India, were welcomed by dozens of friends at the Patio recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Chrysler have been doing some interesting entertaining, both at home and at the Patio, since their arrival in Palm Beach . . . The distinguished automobile magnate, whom Hugh Johnson lists among the twelve greatest men in the nation, piloted one of his old Chrysler models in the Orange Blossom Cavalcade . . . Their guests at the Patio the other night were, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence (Chip) Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merriman, Mrs. Messmore Kendall and Mrs. C. B. Webb . . . You would never guess that attractive Maude Rutherford was one of the most daring speed-boat drivers in the world when you see her stepping out with her equally famous racing husband, Jack Rutherford . . . They make an interesting couple as they dance to Val Ernie's music at the Patio . . . I've often wondered where the Rutherford's manage to find room for their many trophies . . . They'll soon have to take to the air for more worlds to conquer, for between them they seem to have garnered honors in most of the major speed events on water.

I notice that Bill Less is back again with his private plane . . . Bill is one of the colony's most faithful air commuters and admits that Val Ernie's music and the Patio's intriguing cuisine are the first things he thinks about after landing at Morrison Field . . . In fact Bill Less and Elliot Sperber have been accused of piloting their planes from New York to Palm Beach for the sole purpose of dancing to the little maestro's music with their favorite dancing partners . . . Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Quinn are among the most faithful of the Patio visitors and running them a close second are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Warren Smith . . . If there's such a thing as personality in night clubs I think the Patio has it, for this spot seems to attract all of the talent in Palm Beach . . . Eddie Garr thinks nothing of putting on an impromptu show without the slightest provocation . . . Hal LeRoy, Hildegarde and many other brilliant stars of stage and screen find the Patio's gay atmosphere conducive to putting on an impromptu show every now and then . . . but most intriguing of all, the island's talented socialites occasionally amaze their friends with their ability to outshine the professionals with their unexpected proficiency in the arts .

More than meets the eye

LOOK at it. You are impressed with its size and majesty and grace of line. Sit in it—your appreciative eye finds it faultless in all its appointments. But to measure the merits of the Buick LIMITED you must drive it. For the most surprising thing about this arresting car is its brilliance of behavior. Faster on the take-off, lighter in all its handling, smooth with a fluid ease exclusive to Buick alone, it is nimble as no car of its size has been before. Add that to its stunning style and to its luxurious roominess and you have the reason why you'll fail to match its value elsewhere within a thousand dollars of its price.

"Better buy Buick!"

NASSAU

SAILING, which is a popular sport here in the Bahamas, has attracted many new devotees this season. Originally confined almost entirely to the British colony, the Americans have become sailor-minded. A whirl of social activity will usher in the annual regatta on Saturday, March 19, sponsored by the Royal Nassau Sailing Club, climaxed by the presentation of the Challenge Cups won during the season at a party at the club's headquarters on the British Colonial quay.

The big race will be for open-race auxiliary cruisers for the Hon. Walter K. Moore Cup for working schooners, working sloops and a sculling race. The hosts to the carinthian crews will be: His Excellency, the Hon. Charles C. F. Dundas, C.M.G., O.B.E.; The Hon. Walter K. Moore, the Hon. Ormond H. Curry, Franklyn Remington, Harry P. Sands and H. The sailing season will be climaxed by the International Star Class Championships to be held March 23-29 in Nassau harbor sponsored by the Nassau Yacht Club.

The annual race for the Santa Maria Trophy is scheduled as the opening event and the Johnnie Walker series will continue throughout the week. The Spring Championship was held here two years ago and in Bermuda last winter. The races climax a gay season and already formal and informal parties are being planned at the British Colonial, the Nassau Yacht Club and the Royal Nassau Sailing Club on the British Colonial quay.

The Melody, owned by Paul H. Smart of New York, arrived from Havana in the S.S. Munargo, which also brought the Lotus of the Central Long Island Sound Fleet, owned by Harold L. Nash; Jay owned by Stanley Ogilvy of the Western Long Island Sound Fleet; and Delilah, Sampson Smith's new star boat.

Zoa, which will be sailed by Miss Elizabeth Miller, treasurer of the New Orleans Gulf Star Fleet, arrived this week. She was transported by trailer from New Orleans to Miami.

In a glamorous setting of green, white and silver, the annual St. Patrick's Night Party was held in the Flamingo Grill of the British Colonial Thursday, March 17, which was crowded with a fashionable throng.

An Old Erin program was the feature of the evening, with Charlie Wright, popular singer-accordionist, singing Irish comedy songs; Wesley Pierce and Hazel Harris, dance entertainers, satirizing the Irish Jig; Patricia Lynn, soprano, singing the haunting melodies of Old Ireland, and the six Arthur Murray dancers in an Irish quadrille, in which the guests joined.

Residents, cottagers and hotel guests gathered recently at the Cocomanut Grove adjoining the tennis courts of the British Colonial for the singles match between Bobbie Riggs of Chicago, U. S. ranking No. 2 player and Charles Hare, British ranking No. 2 amateur. They are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edmund C. Lynch of Southampton and Locust Valley, L. I., at their winter home on Hog Island.

NOT ONLY DOES GLORIA BAKER KNOW HOW TO DRESS HERSELF UP TO BE GLAMOROUS BUT SHE CAN DO THE SAME WITH FOOD

Society and the Culinary Art

BEING AN ARDENT FISHER YOU KNOW MRS. JOHN CHARLES THOMAS WOULD CONCOCT JUST THE PERFECT SAUCE TO BE SERVED WITH HER CATCH.

BEAUTY of arrangement, tasteful combination of flavors plus tempting pleasant aromas unite in a delightful conspiracy to make the culinary art one of the most interesting of all arts to all folks everywhere. In Palm Beach where the height of exquisite cuisine is reached let us peek behind the scenes to see what we can see.

Here we find versatile Mrs. Henry Rea going artistic to the flavor of chicken St. Regis. The ingredients used in this culinary creation are:

Chicken breast	Flour
Butter	Bread crumbs
	Well beaten eggs

And she gives the directions:

Take a chicken breast and beat it well down in the middle; wrap it around a piece of butter which has been well chilled. Dip it into flour, then into raw beaten eggs. Roll in breadcrumbs; once more dip it in the eggs and cover with breadcrumbs. Fry in butter for ten minutes. A Marsala or Madeira Sauce is to be served with it. Delicious!

On the next set is glamorous Gloria Baker. When it comes to something to eat, the best thing she can think of right now is Cream Brulie. This consists of:

I pint of cream	1/4 c. granulated sugar
8 yolks of eggs	1/4 stick vanilla bean

Bring cream to a boil in double boiler, have sugar and eggs well beaten, split vanilla bean. Pour hot cream on the sugar and eggs. Boil all until it thickens, pour into the dish that you serve in. Cool. Place in a pan of cracked ice. Put plenty of brown sugar on top, place under broiler so the sugar melts. Serve.

Miss Baker has some very good ideas on dressing up everyday eatables. The humble cottage cheese becomes royal with a little cream and served with Bar-le-Due.

She finds another unusual place for cream in Cold Slaw:

1 green cabbage	Juice of half a lemon
1/4 cup of cream	1 teaspoon of chives
	mayonnaise

Leave the cabbage in ice water for one hour. Dry very carefully in cloth before shredding very fine. Mix with mayonnaise, add 1/4 cup of cream, juice of half a lemon, and 1 spoonful of chives cut very fine.

For a Florida dish, Miss Baker chooses Fried Bananas:

Bananas	Butter
	Brown Sugar

Fry bananas cut in half in butter with plenty of brown sugar until soft and golden brown. Serve hot. Chicken Hash Pancake fried in the same manner is very delicious also, says the heiress.

Further down the lot our ears catch the strains of favorite melodies. Cautiously we go behind this scene and there behold with the glory of the tropics, the majesty of the palm, and the sparkle of the water Mrs. John Charles Thomas smiling reminiscently of the fishing trips which she and her husband have enjoyed on the Florida Keys as she tells of their delectable "Fisherman's Sauce:"

6 fresh crawfish (Florida lobster)	1 small can pimentos
1/2 cup sauted onion	Several chopped pitted Spanish olives
2 tablespoons butter	Black pepper
1 can of tomatoes	Paprika

Boil the crawfish in sea water for about twenty minutes. Remove meat from shell and cook in casserole over a slow fire for about ten more minutes with a half cupful of sauted onions, butter and tomatoes, pimentos and the chopped pitted Spanish olives. The whole is further seasoned with black pepper to taste and a dash of paprika. Olive oil may be substituted for butter. When cooked, pass through a collander and serve liberally over the spaghetti. This is a delightful change from the usual tomato or meat sauce.

What's this? The curtain is down! Our trip is over. We leave with fond regrets having our imagination stimulated, ambitions stirred and appetites whetted.

The strains of music by John Philip Sousa, 3d and his orchestra drift across beautiful Lake Worth on March nights as guests fill the dance floor of the Jardin Royal at Whitehall.

At the dinner hour Eva Ortega, who recently returned from the Roney Plaza in Miami Beach, thrills listeners with her vivacious manner and interpretations of the most popular of the continental songs.

Many prominent visitors have made Whitehall their stopping-off place in the past week. His Eminence Patrick Cardinal Hayes, archbishop of New York, was the guest of Marquis George MacDonald at luncheon in the penthouse of Whitehall last week. SPORTS IN RETROSPECT

SPORTS activity having reached its climax in the resort, with the exception of one or two club tournaments, participants and spectators have unanimously agreed that this season's program of outdoor diversion has exceeded that of any previous season in the number of interesting events held and the excellent sportsmanship displayed.

In the world of golf, a vast improvement has been noted in the general scoring of those taking part in both handicap and scratch play, those failing to break 80 having a hard time to reach the first flight play in the majority of the tournaments.

Whether this is due to the improvement in the general condition of the courses, or to the fact that most of the golfers are playing a better game, is subject for loud and long discussion, with the probable result that both will have to be taken into consideration, in the final analysis.

On the tennis courts, scoring has also vastly improved

Daly of Boston, his amateur partner, won the event when they fired a scorching eight-under-par, best ball card of 64.

Participating in the tournament were 34 teams, made up of outstanding stars in the professional and amateur world.

Craig Wood, veteran New Jersey pro, shot a 71 to be low among the professionals and won first money.

Members of the committee at the Seminole Club, which handled the affair, included, Col. Latham R. Reed, chairman; Edward F. Hutton and Elmer Rich, with Wilfred Reid as club professional.

Team scores, with professionals listed first, follow:

Final club tournament play at the Palm Beach Golf Club, found Joseph H. Schenck III, of New York and Allan K. Wylie of Winnetka, Ill., winning over John Barry Ryan, New York, and Hugh L. Willoughby, III, Port Sewall, Fla., 1 up on the 37th green in the finals of the annual two-ball foursome event.

The third extra hole match played during the tourney by Willoughby and Ryan, proved their Waterloo.

with the same spirit of camaradie prevailing as on the neighboring links, everyone agreeing that the season on the courts has equalled that on the links, in the matter of enjoyment derived.

Recent tourney play has attracted many members of the resort colony as well as noted tournament players from all parts of the country.

One of the most unusual golf tourneys of the season was the recent pro-amateur play at the famous Seminole Golf Club, known as the Second Annual International Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament.

Jimmy Hines, Garden City, L. I., professional, and J. J.

One up going to the 36th, Schenck and Wylie lost the hole when they two-putted against a birdie scored by Willoughby and Ryan, forcing the match to the 37th green. Willoughby dubbed his drive, but Ryan put a beautiful shot over the trees to the green which rolled over the edge. Schenck's second shot was within 15 feet of the pin. Willoughby muffed a ridiculous little chip shot and Ryan put it within two feet of the hole, but realizing the fruitlessness of trying to even the match, they conceded the hole and Schenck and Wylie took the match.

Schenck and Wylie rounded the turn two up on their opponents in the morning match, making a 37 to their opponents' 41, halved the next four holes, lost the 14th, but took the 15th with a par three to put them 2 up again. The 16th was squared but they lost the 17th when their opponents garnered a birdie three, winning the 18th with a birdie to score a 35 and a margin of 2 up to a 36 registered by Willoughby and Ryan.

In the afternoon round, extra putts cost Willoughby and Ryan the 19th and 21st, but they won the 20th in par figures. Willoughby and Ryan then settled down to take the 23rd, 26th and 27th, halving the remaining holes to make it all square at the turn with a 38 to Schenck and Wylie's 41. The next two were halved but Willoughby and Ryan made a par three on the 30th. Schenck and Wylie staged a comeback on the 32nd and 33rd, matching par, to forge ahead 1 up, but lost the 36th on short putting to force it to the 37th.

Not to be outdone in 19-hole play, A. E. Wilson and H. E. Ferguson defeated H. A. Bedford and G. K. Morgan in the consolation flight on the extra green by the tally of 1 up.

Among the most interesting series of competitions held this season over the golf courses of the resort, were the interclub matches of the Palm Beach Golf League, in which the Golf Club team emerged the victors with a total of 138 points, after the final playoff over the Everglades Club course.

Taking second place was the Everglades Club with 113½ points and trailing was the Old Guard team, last year's champions, with a total of 68½ points.

Two members of the Old Guard team were unable to play, forcing the team to default in the fourth and fifth divisions.

Total points for the match were as follows: Palm Beach Golf Club, 45; Everglades, 28½ and Old Guard, 21½.

Summary:

First division, Tommy Goodwin, Palm Beach Golf Club, 5 points; John Cushman, Old Guard, 9 points; Elmer Rich, Everglades, 1 point.

Second division, Joseph H. Schenck, Golf Club, 5 points; W. B. Langford, Old Guard, 1 point; R. L. Stevens, Everglades, 9 points.

Third division, J. E. McAuliffe, Golf Club, 7½ points; H. L. Willoughby, Jr., Old Guard, ½ point; H. A. Bedford, Everglades, 6 points.

Four division, Shel Greer, Golf Club, 7 points; B. S. Cunningham, Everglades, 8 points; Old Guard, by default, 0 points.

Fifth division, H. L. Willoughby, 3d, Golf Club, 8½ points; Charles F. Meyer, 3d, Everglades, 6½ points; Old Guard by default, 0 points.

Sixth division, R. C. Maxwell, Golf Club, 8 points; Edwin G. Lauder, Old Guard, 5 points; G. K. Morgan, Everglades, 2 points.

Seventh division, George Gordon, Golf Club, 9 points, Alex Ritchie, Old Guard, 5 points, Jack Ross, Everglades, 1 point.

Turning to the sport of tennis, we find that well-known resort professionals provided one of the most stirring singles finals seen here in many a season.

In a five-set match that lasted for almost three hours, Daniel Watson of The Breakers Tennis Club defeated James Pressly, defending champion, to win the singles' crown in the Palm Beach Tennis Professionals Tournament at the Poinciana courts. Watson prevailed over Pressly by scores of 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 2-6 and 6-3. In the 1937 final Pressly defeated Watson in four sets. A large gallery watched the match and rounds of applause greeted the winner as he came to the net after the final point.

Watson won because he came through in the final set after Pressly was practically out on his feet with exhaustion.

In eight games Pressly had tucked away the fourth set to even the match at 2 sets all and won the first two games of the final stanza for a 2 love lead. Watson broke through Pressly's service in the third game to draw closer, but Pressly broke through Watson's delivery in the fourth to gain a 3-1 lead. But that was all he could stand and Watson ran off the next five games for the set, match and championship.

The McGuckin trophy, a large silver pitcher, was presented to Dan Watson as symbolic of his victory and Pressly, the runner-up, received two smaller silver cups, presented by B. F. McGuckin, resort tennis enthusiast. George Agutter was in the chair for the match and did a fine job of scoring.

Johnny Cardegna and Bill Kenny, defending champions, successfully defended their doubles title, won last year from Allan Wylie and James Kenny.

COTTAGE COLONY SOCIETY LIFE

PALM BEACH life owes much of its color and excitement to the celebrities and titled visitors, who, from necessity or their own contriving, come to the resort during the season. The interesting parade of notables begins in December, reaches its peak in February and continues on at a good pace right through to the close of the season.

Many of them are annual visitors, who after a time are accepted as regular winter residents and thereby have an opportunity to relax and be themselves. They still willingly donate their time and talents to charitable enterprises when called upon, but in between times they have opportunities for golf, fishing, swimming, etc., according to their fancies. Other famous visitors come upon the scene for an all too-short vacation and often find themselves caught in a social whirl even gayer than the one they left behind.

Nothing but grim determination kept Joseph P. Kennedy, recently appointed Ambassador to the Court of St. James, free of social obligations this winter. He and Mrs. Kennedy and their family remained here for several weeks at their home overlooking the ocean, and after completing arrangements for his journey to London, Mr. Kennedy returned for a few days of sea air and sunshine before taking on the arduous task of representing the United States in the most important of European capitals. He had as his guests, James Roosevelt, the President's son and secretary; also Harry Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator.

Mrs. Kennedy returned to Palm Beach to recuperate from an illness and brought with her Mr. and Mrs. Boake Carter. Mr. Carter ranks as one of the country's outstanding journalists and commentators whose voice is known to millions of Americans through his radio work. During their stay here Mr. and Mrs. Carter accepted few invitations, preferring to rest for the greater part of the day and then meet informally with friends during the evening.

Conde Nast, socialite publisher of Vogue, Vanity Fair, House and Garden, and other well-known publications, was another distinguished visitor in the resort who managed to avoid publicity during his brief stop-over. He is known as one of New York's finest hosts, and invitations to a famous Nast party are angled for weeks in advance by members of metropolitan society.

Commuting from the Boca Raton Club to Palm Beach, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings and his charming wife have been entertaining frequently during their Florida visit. Recently they were guests of honor at a dinner given at the Beach Club by Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Worswick of London.

To many residents of Palm Beach, no season could be called interesting unless John Charles Thomas was among those present. This year the popular baritone found time for a few flying trips south between concert engagements. Shortly after the Christmas holidays, however, he waved goodbye to Palm Beach to leave on a long singing tour that will continue well into the spring. Mrs. Thomas has remained here on their yacht, Masquerader II.

The announcement that Beatrice Lillie would appear at one of the weekly galas at Whitehall attracted several hundred guests to the hotel for just a glimpse of the famous English actress, who can keep her audience in stitches by the merest gesture or intonation. Miss Lillie (in private life Lady Peel) spent only a week here but was entertained at several parties, including a dinner given by Dr. Leland Eggleston Cofer and Mrs. Cofer, and another at which A. Atwater Kent was host.

By this time Brian Aherne's visit to Palm Beach is probably only a memory, but from all accounts of his social activities, it must be a pleasant one. The handsome, elongated British film star flew his own plane here from Culver City, California, after completing his recent picture, "Merrily We Live" for the Hal Roach studios. After spending several weeks at the Palm Beach Hotel, Mr. Aherne returned to California to report for work on a new picture, expressing his approval of Palm Beach and its residents and promising to return if possible next year.

The handsome and popular composer, Vernon Duke, also visited at the Palm Beach hotel before joining the G. Huntington Hartford house party. Mr. Duke came here after completing the unfinished melody score of "Goldwyn Follies" started by the late George Gershwin. His popular successes include the scores for the last two Ziegfeld Follies, such song hits as "April in Paris," "This Is Romance," "Suddenly" and "Moment of Moments." Mr. Duke has also composed two symphonies and eight ballets in the serious field.

A lecturer of national fame, author and economist, Stanley High, was enthusiastically received when he lectured here in January at the Society of the Four Arts. His well-known books include, "The Revolt of Youth," "Europe Turns the Corner," "China's Place in the Sun" and "The New Crises in the Far East." William C. Bullitt, Ambassador to France, visited the resort this season for the first time in several years. He and his daughter, Anne Bullitt, were guests of Mrs. Verner Z. Reed at Hobe Sound. The well-known diplomat and author formerly held the post of Ambassador to the U. S. S. R., which was later assigned to Joseph E. Davies. Mrs. Davies, who accompanied Mr. Davies to the Russian capital, was the former Mrs. Post Hutton, who still maintains a winter home here.

Living at the Everglades Club, Marjorie Hillis, author of "Live Alone and Like It," "Orchids on Your Budget" and "Corned Beef and Caviar," is combining pleasure and work during her visit here. Paulette Goddard, motion picture star, who has been discussed for so long as a possible "Scarlet O'Hara," came in and out of Palm Beach very quietly, stopping for a few days at The Breakers, and then moving to a house at Boynton Beach. Another glamorous screen beauty to arrive for a short vacation was Miss Gwili Andre. Phillips Holmes also chose Palm Beach for a well-earned vacation and spent most of his days angling for sailfish. Mr. Holmes will be remembered as the youthful star of "An American Tragedy." He is at present under contract to Associated British Films to make two pictures a year.

The world of sports has been represented by Robert Sweeny, Jr., British amateur golf champion, who has been passing the winter here as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hill. Mr. Sweeny has no doubt reveled in the perfect golfing weather afforded here and the sporty courses on every side. He has participated in several tournaments, playing in one with his hostess, who is one of Britain's outstanding woman golfers.

Fred Perry, former World's Amateur tennis champion, and Ellsworth Vines, again played to a capacity gallery during their exhibition match on the courts of the Everglades Club.

His Eminence, Patrick Cardinal Hayes, Archbishop of the Archdiocese of New York, passed a few hours in Palm Beach enroute from Nassau, and was the luncheon guest of Marquis George MacDonald at his Whitehall penthouse.

TASTES AND TOILETTES

THE oleanders are in full bloom, flaunting their pink, red and white daintiness everywhere. The moon and stars have taken on that eerie quality which makes them seem hung from the heavens by invisible cords—and "Going Home" Fashion Shows are quite the vogue—but not for several weeks will Palm Beach look as if the Pied Piper had trilled his merry tune so enticingly that young and old had followed him on his northward trek.

◆ ◆ ◆

During the season, the youngish smart people, in disregard of the exactitudes of fashion, especially in this exclusive resort where so many fashions are created, have built up new style interest in knitted wear, for they have worn hip-bone length sweaters over evening dresses, without concern for the style or color of the frock. The dirndl dress is a continued favorite among the young girls, for Gloria Baker aroused keen interest in it when she bought one in a striped bayadere cotton, just before she went on her world cruise, but the general mood seems to be tending towards less spectacular fashions for Spring and Summer, with black and white, leading colors.

Miss Dorothy J. Richards, the grand-daughter of Jules Bache, attended the Society baseball game, wearing a very short white sports dress, a white cardigan, with the sleeves pushed up according to the present fad, and heavy gold bracelets. Her strapped sandals were white, and she wore a handkerchief knotted about her head.

◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Edward F. Hutton smartly combined yellow and brown, "half and half," in a sports ensemble which she wore recently on a shopping tour. Her dress was banded half in yellow and half in brown, her doe-skin pumps were of the same two colors, and her basket-weave coat, of yellow.

◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Paulette Goddard Chaplin shopped on Worth Avenue several days ago, in a multi-colored print, made on peasant lines, with a large red hat nonchalantly tied around her shoulders. Her sandals were also red.

◆ ◆ ◆

Miss Jane Ewing Rovensky was attractively attired in white at the Everglades Club not long ago, her blouse being one of the new long jumper types, with horizontally tucked detail immediately above and below the waistline, and her small white hat securely anchored by a chin strap. She carried a dark checked tweed coat on her arm.

◆ ◆ ◆

Miss Georgette Whelan was glimpsed crossing Worth Avenue last week, wearing a dark jumper dress with slit hip pockets, and a checked shirtwaist blouse. She wore a heavy gold band bracelet on each arm.

◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Albert J. Davis enjoyed a sunshiny day at Sea Spray recently, attired in shorts, bra and dirndl skirt, striped horizontally in red, white and blue.

◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. A. B. See, who lives at the Boca Raton Club, chose for shopping on Worth Avenue, a tailored ashes of roses tweed suit, with a crepe blouse of a deeper shade. Her small hat and bag matched her suit.

◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury wore at the Paramount Theatre a short time ago, a handsome evening gown of white, printed in black flowers, which were cut out and used as an applied trimming. She carried a wrap of ermine.

◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Jean Cochran Atwell attended one of the Golf Tournaments at the Everglades Club in a smart spectator sports dress, made with a pleated skirt, and buttoned the entire length. It was in a pastel shade, and with it she wore a large matching hat with scarf ties.

◆ ◆ ◆

Miss Arielle Frazer, one of societies most popular post-debs, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Frazer, is apparently a candid camera enthusiast, for she carried one when seen not long ago on Worth Avenue, dressed smartly in striped "string" slacks and a fitted jacket, with which she wore a dark shirtwaist and sandals.

◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. Hunt Tilford Dickinson chose a sport suit, in a pastel shade, for shopping recently on Worth Avenue, which had a bolero jacket, dark polka-dotted belt, breast pocket handkerchief, and turban.

Mrs. Briggs S. Cunningham, the former Lucie Bedford, attractively sponsored cotton, recently at the Everglades Golf Club, her dress fashioned simply of plaid, in contrasting shades. With it she wore golf shoes and socks.

MODERN CRUISING

COMPARISON of modern cruising with that of 40 years ago in coastal waters, demonstrates most fully, the remarkable strides which have been made, in comfort, speed and efficiency of marine craft. Few boat owners are more qualified to point out the changing trends, and marvelous improvements made in power cruisers, than Mr. H. Clay Miner, Jr., of Riverside, Conn., who is vice-commodore of the Fort Pierce Yacht Club, and an enthusiastic yachtsman since 1900.

Mr. Miner has been the proud owner of approximately 36 boats, since he purchased the "Kahank," a 30-foot raised deck cruiser, in 1900, built by Charles D. Mower, an associate of the firm of Nelson Reid & Almen, of Annapolis, Md., which owns and operates the Annapolis Yacht Yard, the firm building a number of cruisers for Mr. Miner.

In 1936 they designed a 40-foot sedan model power cruiser, named the "Pahlo," in which Mr. Miner cruised in and around Long Island Sound. In August of that year he made a cruise aboard the Pahlo from his summer home at Riverside, Conn., up the Hudson River to Troy, New York, then through the Erie Barge Canal, letting out at Oswego. From there on he cruised through the Thousand Islands, St. Lawrence River, returning home through Lake Champlain, Whitehall Canal, Hudson River and finally coming to anchor at the Riverside Yacht Club, covering a total distance of 1200 miles.

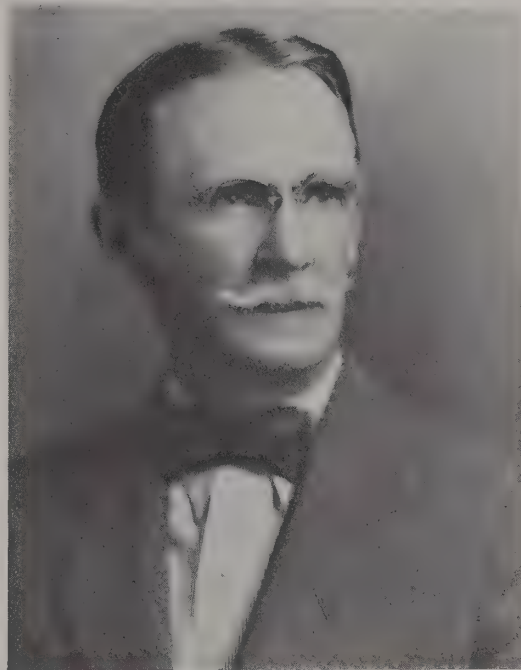

After making numerous other trips, Mr. Miner came to the conclusion that the 40-footer did not give him the complete luxury, room and comfort that he could enjoy on a larger cruiser.

In September, 1937, he placed an order for an "Annapolis 54," constructed in the Annapolis Yacht Yard, Inc., Annapolis, Maryland.

The "Annapolis 54" is built to the

The spacious side decks and after cockpit deck are planked with teak. The cabin trunk sides and deckhouse sides are planked with 2" Honduras mahogany. Throughout the boat the finest materials and workmanship has been used.

The owner's stateroom and guest cabin are luxuriously appointed. The spacious deckhouse is fitted as a combination living and dining salon.

The after cockpit is an ideal place to lounge, where Mr. Miner spends a great deal of his time, while cruising and fishing, as he is an ardent fisherman.

During the winter months he used his yacht in and around Florida and will eventually work his way down to the Keys.

RESIDENCE OF
MR. AND MRS. JOHN L. VOLK.

AS ILLUSTRATED above, by virtue of the built-up terrace, entrance is attained via a "Welcoming Arm" stairway directly into what is actually the second floor of this charming Bermuda style house designed by John L. Volk for year round living. Belying its frontal appearance, as can be seen in the pictures at the right and center, this house, though compact, is much larger than one anticipates.

A typical example of Mr. Volk's ability in overcoming elements beyond his control are the plans of this house, that place the living quarters on the second floor, comprising living rooms, master bed rooms, entrance hall and screened-in loggia. An effective flooring mode has been obtained through the use of wide planks of Philippine mahogany wooden pegged in place throughout the interior and complimented with Cuban tile on the loggia.

Going down stairs one finds guest rooms, kitchens, doorless garages, servants' quarters, and, typical of the delightful informality of this home, an English tavern dining room featuring a charcoal oven that Mr. Volk assures, broils the most delectable steaks.

From the moment of entrance one is completely enthralled with the sunny disposition of this outstanding example of the modern trend in architecture for Palm Beach year round or seasonal living.

MIAMI

THE advent of Spring has brought to the South a new lease on gayety and, breaking all precedents set by other years, the social program is zooming along at a pace as smart and frivolous as that of mid-Winter. The resort's most youthful skippers competed for the Henry L. Doherty trophy cup in the eighth annual running of the Roney Plaza Sailing regatta in the pool of the Roney Plaza Cabana Sun Club the past week.

Several luncheon parties took place on the pool deck preceding the seven-event competition.

Among the entries, including both sail and power boats, were Connie Lee Wheeler's, "Connie, 2nd"; Thayer Ferguson's "Viking"; Joan Ablin's, "Sea Gull"; Margot Schott's, "Sea Spray"; Clifton Pawley's, "Leviathan"; Georgia Ann Price's, "Priceless, 1st"; Claire Kahler's, "Duckling"; Bobby Ann Scallon's, "Scallawag, 1st"; and John Scallon's, "Scallawag, 2nd"; Jane Towle's, "Mother Goose" and Frederica Towle's, "Gosling"; Dave Curtis, Jr.'s, "Largo"; Martin Dubilier's, "Dubilier 1st"; Don Ablin's, "Donnie" and Woodie Kling's, "Baby Whale."

Among the other young skippers whose craft were in the competition were, Dick Curtis, son of Capt. and Mrs. Dave A. Curtis of Coconut Grove and Miami Beach, Joyce Towle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Towle of Pawtucket, R. I.; Amanda and Linda Perry, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. C. Larimore Perry.

Spectators included, Mr. and Mrs. William Dubilier of New Rochelle, N. Y.; Mrs. Fred Ferguson and Miss Betty Jane Ferguson of Huntington, L. I.; Mr. and Mrs. George Price of New York, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Wheeler of New York, Mrs. William Pawley of Miami Beach, Dr. and Mrs. C. Larimore Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ablin of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schott of Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Gray of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Kay Kling of Cincinnati, Capt. and Mrs. Dave A. Curtis, Edward B. Jouffret and Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Beck of Wilkes Barre, Pa.

All boats were in miniature with some of them being steam and electric powered. A program of swimming and diving was scheduled as part of the entertainment.

The third annual contract bridge tournament for the championship of Miami Beach will take place on Saturday and Sunday, March 26 and 27, in the ocean lounge of the Roney Plaza, Miss Helen Benson of Westport, Conn., chairman of the tournament committee announced this week.

The principle prize will be a large sterling loving cup twelve inches high which is donated by the Roney Plaza for one year to the winning pair. This is a perpetual trophy, but small silver cups also will be given to the winners as permanent prizes.

Winners of the first tournament were Eddie Cohen and W. Vaden Parks.

Miss Benson also announced that the judges this year will be Mr. Parks, Robert W. Gifford, Leslie Buswell, Mrs. Ralph Emery and Edward B. Jouffret.

With golf tournaments, flower shows and sailing regattas all booked in a hodge-podge of events for the coming weeks, the resort colony really settles down to the serious business of having fun.

The opening of the International Tropical Garden and Flower show at the Miami Biltmore Country Club was the occasion last week for a large gathering of the socially prominent members of the resort. Among the exhibitors, who gave dinner parties preceding it, were Mrs. Elmer H. Maytag, Col. Robert H. Montgomery of Greenwich, Conn., and Arthur Curtis James of New York city.

A group of rare orchids were in the collection shown by Mrs. Maytag and one of the South's most unusual exhibits of tropical plants from "Four-Way Lodge," the Coconut Grove estate of Mr. James, added much interest to the show.

Garden Club members of the Greater Miami area, who exhibited a table of jasmine in addition to a number of other displays, arranged several luncheons, teas and dinners during the exhibition.

A round of social activities has been planned for the golfers competing in the annual Florida Year-Round Clubs Women's Golf Championship, which will be concluded tomorrow, (March 23).

Those who have been "stomping at the Savoy" have nothing on the folks in Miami, for now they "rumba at the Roney."

It is the title of a song that promises to be a hit, for already the colony here is humming it everywhere you go. The music for it was written by Jack Meyers, the maestro of the Viennese room and Erwin Kent, the pianist. The lyrics, which have a lovely, lilting swing, were written by Nick Kenny, the columnist and song writer.

On one occasion they entertained a group of Palm Beach visitors including, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dobyne, Mr. and Mrs. George Stevenson Fenton and Mrs. Frank Vernon Skiff, also Mrs. Arthur Kudner of Miami Beach.

William Pawley, who has returned to New York on his way back to China, was guest of honor before leaving Miami Beach at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hartshorn of New York. Guests were, Mrs. Pawley, Mrs. J. B. Campbell and Morgan Martin, both of New York and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Pawley of Miami Beach.

Long-legged and long-necked flamingoes fashioned of pink shells were place cards on the dinner table of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Gray of Chicago when they entertained in the Viennese room of the Roney Plaza for a group of young guests.

For the occasion Mrs. Gray wore a Patou dinner gown of coral pink chiffon with yards of brown streamers falling in graceful lines.

Those present were the Misses Jane, Joyce and Frederica Towle, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Towle of Pawtucket, R. I., and Martin Dubilier, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dubilier of New Rochelle, N. Y.

At the same time a dinner party was given at an adjoining table by Mrs. Towle for Mr. and Mrs. Dubilier, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Morrissey of Fairhaven, Mass.; Mrs. Eugene Kruskel of New Milford, Conn., and Mrs. Fred Ferguson of Huntington, L. I.

D. Humby, George W. Sweeney of New York and C. S. Orne, Jr., of Chicago.

Enjoy the best LIVING and playing in FLORIDA ... and still save Expenses!

Do you want facts? Figures? Accurate data on Florida vacations? We have them, and we want to share them with you, to help you plan your vacation budget—and to prove to you that THE BEST COSTS LESS, when you know how to get the most value out of your recreation dollar.

Economizing with low-priced hotel accommodations doesn't give you the most for your money, if you are the type who wants to enjoy all the sports and social interests.

We want to show you that by staying at one of the best hotels—either the RONEY PLAZA, America's finest ocean-front hotel, Miami Beach, or the MIAMI BILTMORE, center of the playtime world, Miami (Coral Gables)—you actually save on your normal vacation expenses!

Think what taxi fares alone cost you in any metropolitan area. When you're a guest here, you can eliminate this cost of going places, because there's always a private aerocar—auto lounge car—available to take you and your friends to all the centers of resort pleasure, WITHOUT CHARGE. This economy alone, our researches show, saves the average vacationist one-third of his normal expenses!

And that's just one of the many advantages offered by these celebrated hotels. Guest courtesies include membership, after approval by the membership committees, in three of America's smartest sports clubs, WITHOUT PAYMENT OF DUES OR INITIATION FEES. These clubs provide exceptional advantages for golf, fishing and surf bathing on a private beach—thousands of dollars' worth of facilities and privileges made available to you for the one cost of your hotel accommodations!

"The best costs less" isn't a paradox here. It's a fact. Acquaint yourself with the details of this revolutionary plan of resort living and playing.

UNDER THE STARS

FAREWELL to Life is my regretful last word as Palm Beach Life goes to press for the last time this season . . . It's been fun dashing about under the stars in Palm Beach garnering bits of local color for the island's only authentic society journal and I hate to think that this labor of love must cease until next season . . . for if you can think of anything that carries with it more glamour and interest than chronicling the doings of the smart set after dark, drop me a line and I'll join you just as soon as I can get my other collar from the laundry. . . . Being by nature a typical yokel, I still get a thrill out of seeing people whom I have read and heard and written about, having fun when the sun goes down and romance is in the air.

To some folks, names like Jules Bache, Herbert Bayard Swope, Walter Chrysler, Herbert Pulitzer, Joseph Widener, Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, Attorney General Cummings, Lawrence (Chip) Robert, Joseph P. Kennedy and others of equal brilliance, call to mind solemn visaged titans of industry and statesmanship . . . but to the visitor behind the scenes, the chap who sees these world-famous figures as they forget their cares and responsibilities and having as much fun as ordinary folks on a holiday, they present quite a different picture . . . I won't go so far as to say that Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, for instance, put on a paper cap when he visited the Patio and sang the Stein Song to Val Ernie's music, but . . . he did dance until the early hours with his lovely daughter, Mrs. Frances Taylor, and other charming ladies at this spot, and no one would have recognized him as the iron-handed ruler from California on any of the nights he was glimpsed at the Patio, enjoying the many parties given in his honor while he was in Palm Beach.

Walter P. Chrysler, that mighty man of the automobile industry, who has been called by authorities, one of the ten biggest men in the United States, left his table at the Colony Club on the night of the Orange Blossom Ball to answer the call of Charles Francis Coe, to assist in auctioning off the first charity bed in the Convalescent House, . . . Now, who wouldn't get a kick out of seeing one of the ten greatest men in this country, cajoling a swank audience in a Palm Beach night club as an auctioneer? . . .

Another one for my book of memories is Jules Bache scurrying away from the rest of his party, which included his daughter, Mrs. Gilbert Martin, as they came down the carpeted and canopied entrance to the Colony Club on a gala night . . . The eminent financier was like a mischievous school boy playing hooky, as he dodged the moving picture men and newspaper photographers on this occasion. . . . Mrs. Vincent Astor, possessor of one of the proudest names in America, chuckled delightedly a few moments after Mr. Bache dodged the camera-men, as she successfully eluded the lensmen by having the starter precede her party, waving his arms like a windmill . . . Both of these people graciously posing for pictures in the Colony Club after they had proven to their friends that they could dodge the omnipresent camera-man if they really tried.

Joseph Widener sitting in a secluded nook at the Patio enjoying a glass of that very proletarian beverage, beer, as his son, Peter A. B. Widener, and a party of friends made merry at a table within several feet of him, which was screened from view by a convenient palm . . . From the delighted grin on the elder Widener's features it was easy to see that he was getting a great deal of quiet amusement out of having escaped the attention of his son's party . . . stealing out while they were on the dance floor and oblivious of his presence at the Patio . . . Herbert Pulitzer dancing with his lovely stepdaughter, Grace Amory, at the Patio, while a few yards away George Abbott, America's premier theatrical producer of 1938, did the Rhumba with Mrs. Grover Loening . . . Phillips Holmes, the moving picture star, calling a greeting across the floor to Paulette Goddard, the girl who has been making headlines ever since she starred in "City Lights."

That's one of the many fascinations of Palm Beach night spots like the Patio and Colony Club . . . They are cross-sections of every phase of national and international life, business, politics, society, the stage and the screen, both in America and on the Continent . . . Stand at the bar of the Patio and sooner or later you'll see among the smartly clad crowd, faces that have looked out at you from the front page of newspapers, the feature pages of nationally known periodicals and the society pages of every periodical in the world . . . You read today that Paulette Goodard is going to play the lead in "Scarlet O'Hara" and that night you see this young lady dancing with Milton Holden or Captain Alastair Mackintosh on the open-air floor of the Patio . . . Boake Carter's comments on the national scene are digested with your breakfast and that evening you see Joseph Kennedy, the subject of the column you have read, having a gay party with his family at the Patio or the Colony Club . . . A few night's later you walk in and there sits the author of the column, Boake Carter himself, dining with the Kennedy family.

THE HARTMANS

You would find it necessary to thumb through the Almanach de Gotha, Who's Who in America, the social register of every important metropolitan center of the earth and every periodical pertaining to the stage, the screen and the radio, if you wanted to find every one of the famous figures who follow the dancing Herbert Taylors through the hilarious steps of the Big Apple or the twisting primordial gyrations of La Conga . . . When this graceful couple start the ball rolling for either of these popular dances you see tycoons of the business world, noblemen, movie stars, stage headliners and possessors of the finest names in America having the time of their life. . . . To mention just a few, Lady Anne Hunloke, who startled Palm Beach by "shining" with a Highland Fling, when it came her turn to do a solo, the Honorable Wilfred Egerton, Herbert Bayard Swope, J. Jay O'Brien, Charles A. Munn, Lawrence (Chip) Robert, Sir Philip Sassoon, the Marquis de Cuevas, Lionel Atwell, the movie star, Peggy Seyburn, Gloria Baker, Woolworth Donahue, Gwili Andre, actor and producer George Abbott and so many more that we'd have to print a special edition to name them all.

As a matter of fact, it's fun just to stand at the entrance of the Patio and watch them descend from their swank cars . . . Of course following the smart set to Long Island, Newport and Bar Harbor and other gathering spots of society in the north has its compensations, but after all, you find there only an infinitesimal section of the heterogeneous population that is Palm Beach in the winter time . . . If you tried to assemble the Palm Beach crowd together after you leave here, you'd have to comb the Riviera, Hollywood, Paris, London, Vienna, Berlin, New York and other metropolitan centers of America, the shooting lodges in Scotland, the polo fields of the Indian potentates, and practically the ends of the earth to find them . . . Do you wonder that I hate to see the close of the season in Palm Beach and that I look forward each year with such keen anticipation to my assignment of keeping tabs on the world's most interesting people after the sun goes down in Palm Beach?

Emblems of Personality

Clothes are a potent form of self-expression.

By a natural law of life we are at our best when most ourselves.

The supreme art of the tailor, not only covers the body with grace and fitness, but releases personality. Thus it comes about that by your dress shall you be known.

Yet to realize this consummation your garments must be designed for your individual needs.

HOMEWARD BOUND

It is a shame that you have to leave the Palm Beaches so soon . . . but if you really must go, the Ask Mr. Foster Travel Service has planned a number of scenic routes north, which will make your trip home a glorious farewell to a glorious Winter.

You'll never forgive yourself if you miss the interesting points of the Mid South, replete with the charm and fascination of Old Plantation Days. The gardens of historic Charleston, or the beauties of the Bellingrath Gardens near Mobile, at the end of the Azalea Trail, are typical of the many sights to be seen.

Further North, might we suggest a spot of polo at Camden . . . ? Golfing at Pinehurst . . . ? Or a return to the ante-bellum days of the South in the annual Natchez Pilgrimage . . . ? Or Asheville, the Land of the Sky, the Great Smoky Mountain Park, or Williamsburg, the restored Colonial City . . . ???

The Ask Mr. Foster Service is happy to give you detailed information and literature . . . plan your route . . . make all reservations and accommodations . . . or render any other service they can . . . without ever a fee or service of any kind.

More than meets the eye

LOOK at it. You are impressed with its size and majesty and grace of line. Sit in it—your appreciative eye finds it faultless in all its appointments. But to measure the merits of the Buick LIMITED you must drive it. For the most surprising thing about this arresting car is its brilliance of behavior. Faster on the take-off, lighter in all its handling, smooth with a fluid ease exclusive to Buick alone, it is nimble as no car of its size has been before. Add that to its stunning style and to its luxurious roominess and you have the reason why you'll fail to match its value elsewhere within a thousand dollars of its price.

"Better buy Buick!"
